

ough education is the prime essential. When this is neglected they get off to a bad start, as far as accomplishment is concerned. Some periods of financial limitation are bound to come, and they need trained minds and well-stocked brains to combat them.

As with all 7's, there is a subconscious urge for spiritual development. The 7 ♀'s want proof and tangibility, and when that is not forthcoming they abandon the particular creed or code they have been experimenting with and try another. If their state of mind about religion is sufficiently troubled, they will keep on seeking until they find a faith to cling to.

The men of this card should strive to work under the K ♀; in that Sequence the answers to problems will come more readily.

There is sometimes scandal and backbiting connected with this card—especially for those who waste their time and substance and scatter their energies. Trouble in their work usually comes through labor disputes and unreliable employees. This often reacts unfavorably on their health, increasing their natural nervousness and mental confusion. They must realize that they can succeed—and splendidly—through work and application. They must shun petty and frivolous associates, psychic experiments, gambling, drink, and careless, thoughtless living.

Those who are "right side up" (and there are many) have provided themselves with a fine educational foundation, have developed their intuitional power, and have crowned their lives with splendid achievement and success.

Planetary Sequence for the 7 ♣

Mercury Card. Sudden and unexpected changes in family finances. Education may be interfered with but should be persisted in at all costs. Shifts in work, interests, and position. If not limited financially, will do considerable traveling in youth. Should avoid the water in connection with business or residence. Want association with things that move rapidly—and profitably. Apt to lose interest before making a thorough test. Must learn the value of seeing things through.

Venus Card. Respond to affection and usually have a devoted mother, nurse, sister, or wife. Women make excellent nurses and develop great fondness for their charges. Both sexes benefit by association with women who are practical and hard working, stimulate their ambition, and help them to accomplishment.

Mars Card. Mentally stubborn; should strive for mental balance rather than fixity. May be quarrelsome, competitive rather than cooperative. Opinionated. Enjoy debates on controversial subjects. Like to associate with lawyers, politicians, etc., and take the other side of any argument. If they have cultivated balance, will reason things out and use good judgment. If this is done in the early years, they are assured of comfort and freedom from worry in their old age. The father or older brother may be an interfering element or encourage their naturally combative spirit by crossing or blocking them. Should be sure of their own ground.

Jupiter Card. Disappointment comes if there is undue worry, fear, or selfishness about money. Are able to make large sums, and speedily lose them by exercising poor judgment. Hate to be advised. Should be very guarded in making any long-term investments unless for home or estate. Inheritance is likely, but often dissipated—especially if a woman is involved. The safest financial course for all 7 ♀'s is tithing and budgeting.

Saturn Card. The constitution is not usually robust, and health should be guarded. May easily upset their own health through worry and negativity. May be interested in healing and, if so, should follow natural methods: chiropractic, osteopathy, naturopathy, etc. Can become good diagnosticians. Interested in psychoanalysis but do not make good counselors; too fixed in own opinions.

Uranus Card. Here is the great need for a 2 ♣ good mental foundation. The 2 ♣ is a fear card, and they are apt either to shun entirely or get "too far out" in the very things they have come to deal with. Their own Birth Card is in the Uranus position, and they should acquaint themselves with the truths that lie "behind the veil"—not in the confused (and often evil) astral realm, but straight up to their own counselors. With balanced minds and awareness they can learn all they need to know. When working with others, should strive for a cooperative attitude and avoid disputes with employees. Are not often successful in real estate and should seek advice if buying property. Should avoid real estate as a business. Must share their knowledge.

Neptune Card. If their problems have been K ♣ honestly wrestled with and good judgment gained, they are lords and masters of their later years and may become not only valuable members of society, but leaders and counselors, philosophers and teachers. The K ♣ is an initiate card, and by the strength and power inherent in it, all adversity in this difficult path may be reversed and all evil turned to good.

Challenge for the 7 ♣:

AGNOSTICISM

Birthdates Ruled by the 7 ♣

March 29. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

The mental attitude must be kept clear and strong—no negativity. These people often suffer from the machinations of others and become embittered and easily discouraged. Should stick to a course and not give up. Clever and inventive. Good draughtsmen, mechanical engineers, architects, surveyors.

May be connected with law or politics. If in a commercial line, succeed best with metals, machinery, sharp instruments. The women often make good nurses, laboratory technicians, or experts in home economics.

April 27. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

Helped by women, but not romantically involved with them. The men are more apt to become attached to those who are not helpful, but more glamorous. Are naturally intuitive. Love music and should cultivate some artistic line as an outlet for their emotions. May be dominated by conditions at home or by the mother. Are more at peace when living close to the earth. Should strive to eliminate fear and insecurity. May gain a position of authority which dispels their fears. May be interested in social and political and prison reform. Have a more universal viewpoint than many 7 ♣'s and are usually well educated and well balanced. Are studious and philosophical. May attain a high place in government service. Good writers, usually along serious lines: history, philosophy, etc.

May 25. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

The majority of these people are Doubting Thomases. Very talkative and self-expressive by nature, but seldom reveal their true sentiments on any subject. This subtlety may give them an occasional advantage in business but does not help their personal relationships. They like to sound people out, and agree to whatever is popular or expedient. Will never commit themselves without keeping an ace in the hole. Are interested in the races, in business involving transportation or anything that moves rapidly and frequently changes. The more developed and educated often go to the other extreme and become deep thinkers, philosophers, or psychologists. For them writing is the most important field of influence. Those who are less exceptional can succeed as lawyers, agents, salesmen, or auctioneers.

June 23. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon. ♀

(This birthdate may fall in the last degree of Gemini, but that is rare.) Restless and ambitious but not always sure of themselves. They need encouragement and affection. In certain directions, however, they have strong opinions and firm convictions, and they will go to any lengths to uphold these. Of all the 7 ♀'s, they are the most dependent upon affection and most devoted to those they love. They want to shine as sponsors of the underprivileged, but their timidity keeps them in the background. Are disturbed about lack of money and are always charitable with what they have. They are idealistic, poetical, and musical, but cannot commercialize the arts. They make good managers of apartment houses and hotels, good caterers and successful dealers in household commodities. They often like to follow the sea or live close to it. Can deal in liquids, especially perfumes.

July 21. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon. ♀

Much more self-assertive and self-promotive than the other Cancer birthdate. Like the limelight and are attracted to the stage or platform, whether talented or not. Many playwrights and actors are found in this date; also singers, musicians, and lecturers. The women are especially gifted in clothes-designing, running dress shops, or executing orders for interior decorations. They like display and are clever in creating it. Work best when they have an appreciative audience. Influenced by home and family. Usually have a home that is artistic and in good taste. Want cooperation but are unusually independent—for Cancer. Must avoid selfishness and a critical tendency. Like to have others dependent upon them. Are generous and protective.

August 19. Leo. Ruler: The Sun. ♀

Self-confident and highly ambitious. Aspire to a position of authority in whatever line they follow. When they have learned tolerance and developed a humanitarian spirit, become valuable leaders—but this usually is delayed until they are advanced in years. Must have prominence and excitement, so many are attracted to the theatre—and often make a success of it. Better for the stage than the movies, for they prefer to be their own directors. If in a commercial line, should be at the head of the business. Strong supporters of law and order. Reactionary. Original and creative. Good merchandisers, customs-house brokers, or government officials. Always dramatic.

September 17. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury. ♀

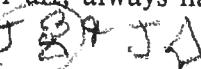

Can drive sharp bargains. Should cultivate breadth of viewpoint in money matters and avoid pettiness and penuriousness. Good tax experts, accountants, technicians. Efficient and thorough in drawing up documents, legal papers (briefs), and trust deeds; never miss a point. Dislike limitation but do not exert themselves to eliminate it. Have periods of generosity and extravagance. Should try to eliminate ulterior motives.

October 15. Libra. Ruler: Venus. ♀

Love art, music, poetry—and beauty. Strong religious inclinations; not usually orthodox; like ceremony and "setting" with their religion. Usually endowed with a strong humanitarian urge, and will use their talents to promote culture, education, and general welfare. Will become actors to "elevate the stage" or marry to reform the mate. Work better when married—and loved. Eager for popularity. Want to live up to what is expected of them. Better suited to a literary or professional career than to a commercial one. Good agents, diplomats, and go-betweens. Often have talent for art; always have ability for writing.

November 13. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

There are saints and sinners in this birthdate; it all depends upon the understanding of this karmic number and the use of the great power in the Sign. There is an inclination to bewail the hard lot and rail against the obstacles. They are seekers for knowledge but often are too skeptical and critical to recognize the truth when they find it. They feel underpaid and unappreciated, which makes them bitter and resentful. If they don't know any better, they try to wreak their vengeance on society—with lamentable results for themselves. When willing to accept their crosses as logical results of their own causes and set about discharging their kar-mic debts willingly, they become truly great people—and the crosses miraculously disappear. They are gifted as writers, healers, teachers, metaphysicians, and philosophers. They can succeed in any business connected with mines or metals.

December 11. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

Tense and nervous, but dynamic and determined. Can achieve good mental balance only through wisdom and understanding. Inclined to be dictatorial. If working for own ends, not likely to go far. With larger interests and a sincere concern for universal good, can become valuable and respected leaders. Should avoid temperamentalism; should seek inspiration. They belong on the higher levels. Good government officials, national representatives, economists, writers.

SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

Diamonds	—	Values
7 ♦	—	Conflict between Spirit and Matter
7 in ♦	—	Peace through Victory

The Venus Card in the Venus Line (Mundane) displaces the 9 ♥ (Natural Spread).

These two cards are inextricably linked together. In all of the 90 quadrations they exchange places and are never found elsewhere. One or the other is always the Venus card in the Venus Line or the Saturn Card in the Saturn Line. You will note, too, that the True Place confirms the relationship. For the 7 ♦ is the Saturn Card in the Saturn Line; and the 9 ♥ is the Venus Card in the Venus Line.

This should say much to the student who has gone thus far in the study of the Sacred Symbols. The 7's represent material or personal difficulties OR spiritual victory; 9's represent personal disappointment and frustration OR peace and fulfillment through universal love. Under whichever aspect of this card the life is lived, there is always a double emphasis. For the majority there is always one problem or the other: money or love. When the love life is smooth, the finances are upset; when there is wealth, love is a problem, a burden, or a heartache.

This card is necessarily associated with money—for good or ill, little or much—but wealth seldom brings its natives happiness unless they are working with the "top side" of the 9 ♥.

Emotional problems are keenly felt and often result in illness. The double Venus position makes love a vital factor in the life, the Saturn insistence strips off the glamour and puts on the pressure.

With these people there is a great love of home, but they have to wait for it. The early life doesn't seem to provide it without many changes and vicissitudes, but it is always in the back of their minds, and they save and sacrifice, if necessary, or finally manage to locate in one place and use the funds for it that may have been at their disposal from the start.

Money is often spent carelessly and futilely; besides being a card of power and accomplishment, it is also productive of the "wine, women, and song" people who have not acquired a sense of values.

Inheritance is frequent, also a marriage into money. Money is always important—a goal to be attained. They are not happy without it and will work very hard for it if it has not come through gift or inheritance. This is not a card of idleness.

The life seems to follow cycles of 5 or 7 years; changes are often violent, always sudden. There is always discontent until the desire to live well is satisfied—unless they have dedicated themselves to service and forgotten self-interest.

Planetary Sequence for the 7 ♦

Mercury Card. They usually leave the place 5 ♠ of birth early in life or do considerable traveling. Changes of home are apt to be frequent, and they seldom remain with their own family after the 27th year. They are not protected in legal matters and should be very careful of signing papers or making contracts. Any business or occupation engaged in should be versatile and interesting; they are very restless under routine and may get a wrong start by attempting to break away too suddenly or living a personal life that is in too sharp a contrast.

Venus Card. They are willing to sacrifice for J ♥ love—and usually have to; this is the martyr's card. The women are especially devoted and unselfish where love is concerned, and usually have some young person in their environment who is the object of sacrifice or the cause of sorrow. The men are often associated with those weaker than themselves and provide good pillars to lean on. They like to entertain and have a large circle of friends in their homes.

Mars Card. May have to be forced into certain types of work or of study, and will persevere if interested and abandon them if not. They seldom adhere to the early religious teaching, preferring their own brand of unorthodoxy. Always ready to take a chance, many become consistent gamblers—with unfortunate results; those who are very much "of the world" play the market or the races—or anything they can plunge into that provides the excitement of risk. In associations they often meet with antagonism—perhaps unmerited.

Jupiter Card. There are problems here, as 9 ♠ a rule, but none that cannot be surmounted by those in full command of themselves and endowed with a sense of true values. Concentration and hard work are sure to result in achievement. Business is not always productive without a long preliminary struggle. If they work entirely alone there are losses; a level-headed partner is a great asset to them. If there is an inheritance, there is usually trouble with the will or contest from other beneficiaries. The inheritance may be disappointing or money spent to collect it.

Saturn Card. There is some connection with 2 ♥ illness, usually of a loved one, although the women often become visiting nurses, and efficient ones. In both sexes there is an inner desire for contact with another plane—which may or may not be disregarded. Under this influence a strong religious interest may be developed and may turn them suddenly to a type of work that changes their entire lives. Care should be taken to avoid accidents for themselves, and they are often involved with accidents of others. If a woman, marriage may be interfered with through family responsibility. Some form of sacrifice is a requirement for this Birth Card.

Uranus Card. There is strong psychic power K ♡ here and a desire for other-plane knowledge. If developed, this is a great asset in service to others—and priceless for themselves. These people are kindly employers and are much concerned with the welfare of those in the ranks of labor. They become leaders of groups or fraternities that are working for progress and improvement—especially after forty-five.

Neptune Card. These people are naturally K ♦ clairaudient and should develop their gift. If working mainly on the material plane, will do much traveling in later life, and usually have the means at their command. They are attracted to the water, to some profession connected with the sea, or sea travel, or the establishment of their own homes near a body of water. Although development may be delayed, these natives are capable of greatness and often become justly famous.

Challenge for the 7 ♦ :

THE HARMONIZATION OF MONEY AND LOVE

Birthdates Ruled by the 7 ♦

January 20. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

♑ Money may be accumulated, but rarely is except by hard work. There is a certain sternness and rigidity in these people that does not deny friendliness but seldom evinces any sympathy. Make good, hard-headed physicians, courteous but unbending ambassadors or diplomats. The other side of the picture is selfish, over-ambitious, and a climber. Influenced by the personalities of others but seldom show it. Can succeed as labor leaders or property managers. If aware of the inspiration in the birthday Number, can successfully cultivate some latent talent and commercialize it.

February 18. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

♒ Demand personal freedom but have a desire for service. If a man, eager for movement and travel. Do not want responsibility but will not shirk it if affectional ties are involved. Want recompense for any service. Make good doctors, experimenters in cures. Are attracted to the stage and may become very popular—seldom famous. Are better suited for business and may become large-scale financiers. There may be a talent for technical music but there is seldom success in any other art-form.

March 16. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

♓ Are fearful of lack of protection in old age. Want to accumulate and set aside for the rainy day. More independent than many Pisceans. Want power and believe that money is the key to it. Not attracted to partnerships; prefer to work alone and be at the head of own business. Can succeed in hotel work and transportation. If they reach a high point of success, are inclined to become dictatorial. Have an attraction for the arts, but are better suited for their business angles than as artists or performers. Inclined to a religion that demonstrates what they want: notably, Christian Science or certain types of New Thought. Could become good mental healers.

April 14. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

♈ Must learn to check impulse and cultivate accuracy. Enjoy promotion and speculation but are not always successful at either. Good starters, poor finishers; too scattered in their interests, too restless to see things through. Should work in the open: road engineering, surveying, street car-conducting, bus driving, etc. Have a tendency to scatter their energies and waste their time. Should avoid the law as a profession—also legal entanglements in their own affairs. If willing to take themselves seriously, can succeed as writers, financiers—or theologians. They must guard against carelessness and thoughtlessness. Must realize that neither money nor love is a plaything.

May 12. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

♀ Responsible and "solid." Understand divine laws intuitively. Have a paternal and protective attitude toward the world in general, and a strong desire for service. May be mistaken in beliefs but are sincere in them and cannot be changed. Want to be comforters and providers. The women are fine mothers and nurses. Men are good employers and generous contributors to charity. Love the earth. Can succeed as horticulturists, landscape architects, etc. Great sense of beauty and color. Interior decorators, artists, poets, musicians, teachers, and philosophers. The undeveloped will stubbornly espouse an unpopular or questionable cause for the excitement of it—or for pure deviltry.

June 10. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

♊ Restless, nervous, changeable. Easily bored. Must cultivate dependability and unselfishness. Want a profession connected with people, variety, and excitement. Are good court reporters, journalists, travel guides, explorers. Demand freedom and independence. Not always good marriage partners because too exacting and self-insistent. Wither under monotony, which has a bad mental effect on them. Learn readily and forget easily. Are subject to nervous ailments.

July 8. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

♋ Acquisitive and self-protective—through fear of lack. Want money badly but cannot always keep it; self-indulgent spenders. Like to be prominent in the community and appear well-to-do. Will contribute to projects but want their names at the top of the list. Apt to be lazy but will work if there is a chance to accumulate. Are often gifted along artistic lines and should cultivate any latent talent; this brings out the best in them. If make a career of business, may become ruthless and pernicious. Those who are less money-conscious become active in community, church, or general welfare projects.

August 6. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

♌ A difficult birthdate unless dedicated to service. In this case, money is apt to be a problem, but sacrifice is cheerfully accepted. The usual August 6 people are the most monied of all the 7 ♫; they are either born to money, inherit it, or marry it. In that case, the personal life leaves much to be desired. Have many opportunities, but seldom embrace them. Will spend lavishly on home and personal comfort. Need to be loved for themselves but are usually sought for their money. When these people become truly philanthropic and eager to share their wealth, they stand a fine chance of personal peace and happiness. The usual picture is one of boredom, loneliness—and an accumulation of ailments. Succeed best in a large business—banking, brokerage, or manufacturing. May be good lawyers, actors, or directors.

September 4. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

♍ Must work hard to attain a key position. Apt to be meticulous and fussy, swamped with detail. The mind is keen but critical; their very mentality may become a burden. Must avoid worry and fretfulness. Very successful at research and technical details. Also well adapted for real estate, commodities (especially groceries), merchandising, and selling small articles. Can teach or write if other factors in the chart are supporting.

October 2. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

— This is the most artistic and gifted of all the 7 ♀'s. Great painters belong to this birthdate; actors and composers. To the majority, art and beauty come first. Interested in foreign countries and foreign travel. Good foreign agents, diplomats, and ambassadors. If not artistically inclined, should study law. May become strongly religious and universal-minded. Have high ideals and great influence over others. May become too self-effacing and sacrificial for their own good. If not well balanced mentally, may have a martyr complex.

SEVEN OF SPADES

- Spades — Labor, Wisdom
7 ♠ — Victory over Materiality
7 in ♠ — Peace in the Higher Self

The Jupiter Card in the Uranus Line (Mundane) displaces the K ♀ (Natural Spread).

This is the "resurrection" card, the first of the 7's that comes "out of the night" at the beginning of the resurrection month.

There is material trouble, physical and financial, for all 7's—but here the Displaced Card is a King, a card of overcoming, and the task allotted to the 7 ♀ is less arduous than those allotted to the others. Naturally, the first prerequisite is awareness of the power behind this pattern; the next step is to learn to use it. The Uranus Line provides the intuition; the Jupiter position bestows the blessing—re-doubled in this case, for the True Place is also Jupiter, in the Line of the idealistic Neptune.

Despite this "higher plane" material, we find many 7 ♀'s living very close to the ground, grubbing for money that is never enough to meet their needs, and subservient to those who are far beneath them in the ranks of God's elect. Only one thing keeps them there: their faulty judgment of values. The K ♀ is proof that substance is not denied them, but command over it is not assured unless it is to be applied to the fulfillment of their mission. As we have learned, they are diggers for truth, contenders for the growth of the soul, heralds of the doctrine of eternal life—as is the case with all Spades. Seven (7) is the dominical number, and there is no escaping the Divine appointment.

We see there is additional power drawn from the 8 ♡ (the card that displaces their own True Place), so enduring and idealistic love is no more denied them than is money. They are powerful people by endowment, and if they do not become leaders and examples it is because sickness stands in the way or their own karma is too heavy.

There are few of these natives who have not been through many initiations. They have learned in the past that money is not always value, or display always beauty. They must never act from ulterior motives, for within themselves they know that each voluntary act of theirs must be accounted for and balanced—and they know, too, that whatever sorrow they encounter in this life is a just debt, payment for which is justly demanded.

Illness may come through worry over business—or a frustrated desire to live beyond their means. Their heritage of power is sometimes misdirected to a longing for magnificence, and disappointment is their lot until they awaken to greater wisdom.

They work quietly—often secretly—and are usually willing to remain behind the scenes. For that reason they are valuable in secret service and are greatly aided by their instinctive discernment of truth or falsehood. They have many friends, but few loves. Generosity is a strong point, as is willingness to serve. Of all cards, they represent the best teachers and wisest counselors. In business they are honest and reliable. In love they are faithful.

Planetary Sequence for the 7 ♠

Mercury Card. In youth the reactions are quick and argumentative. They feel on the defensive—partly from a desire to learn quickly, partly from fear that they cannot accomplish all that is expected of them. They are good students and good debaters. Throughout life they are "joiners," and they start early. They are subject to sudden interruptions or calls in various directions. They are regarded as errand boys (or girls) and are constantly at the beck and call of others.

Venus Card. Are attracted to those of strong mental power. A well-educated man—relative or not—may have a great influence. The women are apt to marry an older man who is in a mental type of work. Very seldom attracted to frivolity. The emotions are deep and lasting, but emotional relationships are built more on respect and admiration than on demonstration.

Mars Card. Very capable at handling accounts and finances for others. Absolutely trustworthy. Often found in charitable or humanitarian organizations (Red Cross, Boy Scouts, etc.), usually behind the scenes. Are humble and self-effacing but no doormats. Will work very hard to get things done—with or without remuneration. Keep their private lives and business well separated. Legal minds.

Jupiter Card. Interested in living well and enjoy making enough money to make it possible. They seldom have to struggle for a good living unless the early education has been much neglected. The pleasure connected with making money is less materialistic than in most cases; they want it for what it brings rather than for pride of possession. Benefits come through travel, especially by water. They are good mixers and firm friends.

Saturn Card. In case of any illness of self or family, they are assured of good care and ample funds. Great believers in preserving the health, and strong for preventive and natural methods. Usually live long and remain useful and active. If they have a health or physical affliction, are uncomplaining and resigned. They never forget to count their blessings and always feel they are many.

Uranus Card. Are cooperative and work well in partnership. Believe in benefits and privileges for employees. Often leaders of welfare groups, better housing committees, etc. Are good executives. Work well with anything connected with the land. Are kindly and diplomatic. Good agents, negotiators, etc.

Neptune Card. If they have been serious and much occupied in early life and the middle years, they take more time for sociability when they are older. Life is usually well protected and very pleasant. They seldom retire from active work because the sense of power is increased rather than diminished. Time and money are spent in philanthropic enterprises, and they seldom want credit for the gifts and benefits they bestow. If they have failed to overcome their obstacles in the earlier years, they usually can do so before they die.

Challenge for the 7 ♠:

RECOGNITION OF POWER

January 7. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

♑ Can commercialize any of their natural abilities. Are mental and analytical. Less personally ambitious than many Capricornians, but want leadership because they feel they are good leaders. Willing to work as silent partners, but want the control in their own hands. They believe they know what is best for the people they are dealing with. Would like to be President—for the good of the nation. Can successfully run a business for others as well as for themselves. Often attracted to medicine and more apt to be specialists than to be general practitioners. Good psychologists. Always patient and not too sympathetic. Will wait for others to reveal their hand before expressing an opinion. Can smooth over difficult situations with diplomacy.

February 5. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

♒ Strongly attracted to religion and usually have a brand of their own in which they firmly believe. Are magnetic and influential. Make good exhorters and evangelists. If they follow an established creed it must be one of love and tolerance. Very spiritually minded but not interested in psychic phenomena. Believe that God is the Supreme Ruler and that the aspirant must deal directly with Him—without intermediaries. Good writers, usually for propaganda. Interested in causes of disease—or of mental or emotional distress. Believe that faith and spiritual development can cure all ills.

March 3. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

♓ This is the weakest of the 7 ♠'s and the most likely to scatter their forces. Are gifted in art and poetry and often attracted to the theatre. Creative and original; good designers and decorators. Grow stronger if they choose a practical career and, even though interested in making a business pay, are always mindful of its general usefulness and the good it may do. Can become very successful, even famous, in the business world. Often gifted with inventive power and may devise or create something that is of universal benefit. Can be very valuable in connection with hospitals, sanitariums, and institutions for the afflicted and underprivileged. Are interested in prison reform.

April 1. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

♈ This is the most active and dynamic of the 7 ♠'s. There seem to be two distinct types of people belonging to this birthdate: the busy, bustling, down-to-earth financiers or merchandisers, who are ambitious, restless, and self-promotive; or the strongly religious who want to "go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Here is either spirit or matter, but seldom a combination of the two, as in the other birthdates. This is the Resurrection Card, and the spiritually-minded predominate. These people are born into the new light, the forward march, and they want others to share their firm conviction that life is everlasting and redemption is for all. They are powerful and convincing light-bearers.

8 - EIGHTS - 8

EIGHTS are the Power Cards. Some of the early Mystery Schools taught that 8 was the number of God and that its use by man would bring him evil. From this superstition the practice arose, among many of the old-school numerologists, of assigning to 8 the rulership of Saturn as the embodiment of evil. Today we know—both from experience and from the Higher Teaching—that 8 is the number of the Sun (and therefore of God) and that Saturn is not the embodiment of evil.

Our mathematical symbol for infinite measure, or "infinity," is the horizontal 8 (∞), and this same symbol, as "all power," is over the head of the Magician in the Tarot, and of the woman in the 8th card—Strength—who is opening the lion's jaws with her hands.

When we come to look upon wealth as the symbol of power and write our 8's with a very small loop at the top and a very large one below, then, of course, 8 may bring us evil, and money may justly be called its root. It is actually a picture of God's circle of power above reflected in man's below.

In the cards we find several geometrical figures of repeated 4's—two squares, 8 triangles, two tetrads, two right angles, etc.—the security of 4 doubled, or the intimation that upon a firm foundation may be built another of greater power and expansion. Eight (8) is the first free number, for it comes at the "turn" of the 7's. It is the "Eternal Splendor of the Limitless Light" (pattern on the Trestleboard).

The natives of these cards can expand in any direction—according to their will and the outlines of their pattern. The power is always with them. They may turn the power to evil uses if they choose (and there are many 8's who operate very negatively indeed), but they are free; they reflect God's Plan but they are not bound by it.

HEARTS have the power to harmonize their lives, increase their resources, and expand their field of service through Love—personal, universal, and Divine.

CLUBS have the power to acquire knowledge—and the obligation to disseminate it. If they will not learn and teach, they cannot fulfill their mission. They must follow the admonition of St. Peter to "add knowledge to your faith."

DIAMONDS have the power to acquire wealth—and the obligation to share it. The "Limitless Substance" is at their disposal, twice over. They are "crowned," therefore custodians and trustees. They represent the bank of spiritual and material security.

SPADES have the power to acquire true wisdom and to live under God's Laws. Symbols of death, they are free to disprove its reality.

EIGHT OF HEARTS

8 in ♥ — Success in Relationships

The Jupiter Card in the Neptune Line (Mundane) displaces the 7 ♫ (Natural Spread).

To the natural power of this card is added the spiritual power of the displaced 7 ♫—but the latter, while it may be latent, is not at their disposal for use unless there is spiritual aspiration in their hearts and spiritual application in their deeds. Victory on the higher plane is assured if they work for it—and happiness in the emotional life follows as a natural consequence.

Through insight the 8 ♥ can overcome all difficulties. It is a wisdom card. True wisdom, however, is elusive, and although the majority of the 8 ♥ natives strive for it and want it, their interests and relationships are so many and varied, they allow themselves to be distracted from its pursuit.

Their principal difficulties are emotional. Finances may be fluctuating and not always sufficient to meet the desire for having and giving; the work may be underpaid or wholly unrewarded, but there is always ample provision for security. They have no valid excuse for worrying about lack—although they often do. It is the love life that brings them periodical heights or depths and the depths that cause them to suffer intensely.

Besides their own Birth Card, the three most personal planets are in the Neptune Line—Mercury, Venus, and Mars. Their ideals are so high and exacting that they are rarely met, and when they are, they are of brief duration. Disillusion steps in and breaks the relationship, or, as is the case more frequently, separation is caused by death. This is the link with the 7 ♫. These people must learn that there is no death, and therefore no separation other than what is caused by a long journey. This is a direct call to the development of spiritual perception and the extrasensory potential that exists in all of us.

The women, being more emotional and less inclined to compromise, are the greatest sufferers. All 8 ♥'s must love and be loved—and while they are often the objects of jealousy or contention, they never lack friends and admirers. They can transmute their love and find happiness in their work and their friends. Through wisdom there is overcoming (7 ♫).

There are obstacles also in their work. They always undertake more than they can accomplish easily and wear themselves out trying to meet their obligations—often self-imposed. They are very unhappy unless in the right field of expression and should never be forced into a career that is distasteful to them. If working mainly on the material plane, they are attracted to business that deals with large organizations or foreign interests. They usually do considerable foreign traveling themselves. In either field, material or spiritual, they have the power of leadership.

They are broadminded and sympathetic, friendly and generous or, negatively, selfish and self-indulgent, spoiled and childish. They will fight for a principle.

Planetary Sequence for the 8 ♥

Mercury Card. Unless working under the 6 ♣ Personality Cards, the early life may be monotonous but is usually well protected and harmonious. The mental equipment is good but not in the "prodigy" class. Insight and intuition are developed early. They resist changes and like to remain in one place for a long time. There is a slow but steady increase in the desire for knowledge. Can always overcome any obstacles that stand in the way of acquiring an education.

Venus Card. Emotional problems and dis-6 ♣ appointments can be overcome through the power in this card—although some early experience in love may be, for a time, very devastating. If a love or friendship is once formed, they want it to last "forever." The women of these dates want travel (and usually have it) but home roots are strong, and a home of their own—not parental—is much desired. Unless working under the Personality Card, in the case of women there are apt to be long engagements. Both sexes want money that is sufficient and ample security.

Mars Card. If a woman, this Mars Card is Q ♠ also her Personality Card, and she is much influenced by it, especially in relations with the opposite sex. All Heart natives like amusement and diversion—the Q ♠ more than the rest. This can be a very frivolous and flirtatious individual, and the power in the card can be hopelessly dissipated. If working positively, the women are faithful, motherly, and warm-hearted and may overdo the mother-love complex. The men may be dominated by the wife or mother, but prefer the society of strong-minded women and are often materially helped by them.

Jupiter Card. It is important to note that this 10 ♣ "blessing" card is in the Crown Line—proving that the real benefits in these lives come from on high. Power is given to apply what they know—and if there has been a good educational background, much can be accomplished in the mental field. There is an inborn sense of true knowledge, and mental pursuits are likely to be the most lucrative. Their gift of understanding gives them success in dealing with others.

Saturn Card. The necessity for making money 8 ♦ may entail hard work, but the objective is usually accomplished. Possibility of an inheritance or gain of some sort through goods of the dead. Money can be made through healing or a connection with hospitals or rest homes. There is usually a good health foundation, but it may be disrupted through carelessness.

Uranus Card. Ability to control others, especially employees. Work best where large numbers of people are employed. Will champion causes that benefit society. Not well adapted for menial work. Good executives. Are found as leaders and directors of large groups. If drawn to a religious career, make fine missionaries, medical or spiritual, especially in the foreign field. May be sponsors of religious movements or institutions.

Neptune Card. Unless there has been much 3 ♠ spiritual development and understanding of the pattern, the emotional life may be more disturbed in the later years than in youth. Circumstances and events may be perplexing. They may live in one locality and prefer another, or their much-desired peace and harmony may be interfered with. These people should never live alone, but happy relationships are uncertain in later life. The last days are usually spent far from the birthplace.

QUEST FOR THE HIGHER KNOWLEDGE

August 31. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

W Hard-working. Set in one line of activity and not interested elsewhere. Their own circle of prime importance. Strive to keep conditions unchanging. Development very important to success. Plodders, but willing to serve. State of health chronic—for good or ill. Succeed in institutional work, teaching, accounting, or real estate operations. Secretaries.

September 29. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

Art, merchandising, and politics (law) are the main fields for success. These people are nervous and tense. Work better if married or in partnership. For happiness, should forget self and work for others; apt to brood over own misfortunes. Hate any form of menial work and are unhappy if forced into it. May need a good psychoanalyst to help them achieve impersonality. Stimulated by appreciation and congenial surroundings. Have inspirational power but do not always know how to use it.

October 27. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

 A universal card; carry the burdens of the world. May be attracted to the medical profession, but too sympathetic to be efficient. Set and forceful, but very loyal. Will not be coerced or called to account. Very religious, but never orthodox. Good counselors, metaphysicians, writers, teachers, musicians. May become great financiers, but use a large part of their money for philanthropy. The personal life seldom smooth except for brief periods. Suffer intensely through their emotions.

November 25. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

 Public-spirited and philanthropic. May espouse a mistaken cause, but blindly devote themselves to it. Understand common needs; universally minded. Become successful through their own efforts. Want full justice. Interested in large enterprises and want to improve methods. Too blunt for diplomacy, but like politics. Teachers, psychologists, lawyers. Reformers.

December 23. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

 Ambitious for leadership. Often stern and impersonal. Interested in money and personal success. The women can make money through friendly relations and the power of their personality. Apt to marry those with good financial background. Can commercialize their own abilities. Interested in large organizations and want big returns. Jealous. Hysterical when emotionally aroused. Love art and beauty as collectors but must employ others to judge it. Too possessive.

EIGHT OF CLUBS

Clubs	—	Knowledge
8 ♣	—	Power in Knowledge
8 in ♣	—	Material Mastery through the Power of Mind

The Neptune Card in the Mars Line (Mundane Spread). No displacement. This is one of the fixed cards: it remains in the same position in both spreads.

Neptune holds the key to this card, and the Mars "conjunction" either sharpens its power-value or destroys it.

The mixture of mental strength, spiritual awareness, psychic power, and powerful emotions is sometimes too much for these people to handle, and dire confusion is the result. When the psychic power is extreme (as in some cases), unless great care is taken for protection, they become fields for possible invasion. They should strive at all times for mental balance and not allow their emotions, their fixed ideas, or their tendency to temperament to dominate them. The charts (astrological and numerological) of the children of these dates should be carefully studied for any mental support along practical lines, and these points strengthened in the early years. There is no finer material to be found anywhere than in the 8 ♣ equipment, but it must be guarded and guided.

Set principles and fixed mental attitudes have been "brought over," and from these they cannot be swerved. When they are able to clarify their objectives, they always go straight toward them—and attain them. Through the power of knowledge, which is their heritage, they can overcome any obstacle and attain any desire. Their entire Planetary Sequence is in the Jupiter line, and protection surrounds them in all departments of life.

Being a member of the trinity of fixed cards, they are allied with the wisdom of the K ♦ and the sacrifice of the J ♥. They, too, are on the cross—as is often verified in their emotional lives.

The majority have an avid desire for knowledge and allow nothing to interfere with its pursuit. They have come to teach, and they intend to equip themselves for it. They work better with large groups than with individuals or small circles. The greater numbers seem to generate additional power.

If they form any alliance with J ♥ or K ♦ or become attached to any natives of these birthdates, an expansive force is produced that is far-reaching and cannot be broken.

They should adhere strictly to their own birthcard and never attempt to operate under the personality; if they do, they lose much of their power.

On the negative side these people may amount to nothing whatever—having no awareness of the extent of their influence or the power invested in them. On the destructive side they can, if they choose, reverse this power and become black magicians.

Unless very strong and sure of themselves, they should avoid psychic phenomena. They are actually in close touch with the higher planes and have no concern with the astral. Danger lies there—and the possibility of invasion. They have been given an important commission and must adhere to it.

Planetary Sequence for the 8 ♣

Mercury Card. As explained in the text for 6 ♦ this card, there is no escape from obligations. The mental attitude is geared to financial security, but there is seldom a desire for extreme wealth. Education is often interfered with, but every effort will be made to acquire it. Before sixteen there is little travel. These lives are much affected by their karmic debts, and the early years may be difficult. The financial situation is usually static until they are old enough to take charge of it themselves.

Venus Card. They seek those who offer mental stimulation. They want good living and a substantial environment. Will not remain in an atmosphere that is not mentally congenial. Find contentment of soul through a marriage with one on their own mental plane who is in agreement with their own fundamental principles. Like to join study groups or take courses in higher education or in metaphysical subjects. Learn quickly in these classes and soon become teachers themselves.

Mars Card. Deal successfully with people who are friendly. Cannot endure opposition, and will not bother with those who disagree with them. Want to be considered the authority. Successful in the legal field and are usually convincing, but lack the patience for argument. Must be well grounded in their subject or they will not go far. The women are inclined to sociability; emotions are of less importance to them than friendliness and good brains.

Jupiter Card. Attract money and have good judgment in making investments. Note that this is the Jupiter Card in the Jupiter Line, so success in any field is an integral part of their pattern. The women are capable executives; the men can reach the top in business or a chosen profession. They have a well-developed sense of thrift and usually provide themselves with ample funds for any emergency. Men of this card like to marry women who are financially independent. They prefer those who are strong-minded to the clinging vines.

Saturn Card. Ambition carries them to a high 8 ♦ point of success. Can always overcome.

There is often a knack for handling neurotics and the mentally afflicted. In case of their own illnesses, they respond best to metaphysical treatment. Are well endowed with the power of recuperation. With the cultivation of patience, they could become excellent psychiatrists.

Uranus Card. This position of the A ♠ indicates a desire to be friendly and to help others on that basis. Personal contacts usually successful and remunerative.

They have great curiosity about the unseen world and communication with it. Apt to have psychic gifts themselves, but should be guarded in their use. Interested in organizations of workers. Can deal successfully with progressive groups.

Neptune Card. Interested in foreigners and A ♦ foreign countries. Are usually able to travel in later life and like to plan ahead and save sufficient money for that purpose. Never lose their desire for success.

Challenge for the 8 ♦:

FEAR OF DOMINATION

March 28. Aries. Ruler: Mars. 10 ♡
Impulsive and dynamic. Lack vision, and seldom stop to consider the final results of their actions. Argumentative—often quarrelsome. Have a capacity for deep affection—and need it—but are undiplomatic and unintentionally inconsiderate. Impatient with stupidity. Always disturbed emotionally. Succeed best with men—in politics, law, partnerships, that involve questions of judgment. Very restless and "Martian."

May be gifted in art or music but better suited to business.

4 ♣ April 26. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

Build constructively for the future. Desire a home and will work for it. Want to stand well with others and are disturbed by inharmony. Often marry for money for the sake of security. Generous if they have the means. Prefer connection with large enterprises: manufacturing, banking, produce-merchandising. Are often artists or musicians, and if they lack talent for success, still want the outlet and take it up as a hobby. Can succeed also in the educational field and welfare projects.

5 ♠ May 24. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

Interested in people and curious about them. Experimental and brilliant—sometimes erratic and wholly irresponsible. Natural gamblers because interested in results, but seldom win. If willing to cultivate a sense of responsibility and conquer the tendency to scatter their forces, can become great teachers, leaders, preachers, and arbitrators. The women like to establish "salons" and bring noted people together.

June 22. Gemini or Cancer. Ruler: Mercury or Moon

5 ♠ This birthdate usually falls in Cancer or but may occur in the last degree of Gemini. Seldom find themselves until middle life. In the early years are undecided and vacillating. When settled in a career are eager to impart their knowledge to others. Must exercise self-discipline and cultivate emotional stability. Can succeed in medicine, nursing or any line that improves the physical condition. Keenly mental and intuitive. Women succeed well with home economics, dress shops (or dressmaking), or teaching. In both sexes the gift of writing may be outstanding.

Mary Alice Clark 1977

July 20. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

 Successful in public life and working for humanity. May get into a rut through laziness. Can become leaders in politics or religion. Are patient and make successful teachers of children. Good counselors and judges, especially in domestic relations. Interested in child welfare and reform. If musically talented, can commercialize it. Give good advice but don't follow it themselves.

August 18. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

 Have a great drive for power and the limelight. Must be at the head of own business; cannot work for others. May become famous in their chosen line. Successful in connection with banking, administration of wills and trusts, management of others' money, etc. Good executives and also good agents and solicitors. Should strive to be less materialistic and acquisitive. Move rapidly. Should guard against accidents, especially of the head and back. Have good recuperative power.

September 16. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

 A teacher's card. Must be sure of their objectives; otherwise become confused or aimless. A karmic birth number and must be willing to give service. Often drawn to some form of religion. May have real talent but seldom get due recognition during their lifetime. Marriage may be a limitation; often have an unsympathetic partner who shakes their self-confidence—perhaps unconsciously. Are too easily suppressed. If not able to express themselves, may develop chronic illnesses, psychological or physical. Should cultivate faith in themselves. When positive, are excellent writers, investigators, scientists, statesmen.

October 14. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

 Good disposition and adaptable; will compromise for peace, often at the expense of their own power. Very self-indulgent and self-protective. Interested in the home more than their own mental development. Too apt to live on the lower plane and take the easiest way. If developed, are good promoters, writers, actors, and directors. Clever at designing small articles for decoration or adornment. Always present a good appearance and like to be admired. Are affectionate and persuasive; can always extricate themselves from a difficult situation. Like to take a chance, but too timid for any heavy gambling. Money is very important, but they can manage with little.

November 12. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

 A detective's card. Can ferret out secrets and discover the trouble at the roots. Always know when people are lying. Work best in groups, but must be given a free rein in their own department. Active in achieving their own ends, and must avoid working from motives of expediency. Good advertisers, propagandists, debaters, soapbox orators. Feel strongly on all subjects. Are determined and persistent. Are critical within but have a friendly manner and are highly magnetic. Often have a healing gift. Interested in metaphysics, science, medicine, drugs, etc. Not good enemies, but are loyal friends.

December 10. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

 Legal minds—both sexes. Interested in business on a large scale; not adapted for small enterprises. Must have authority and will not be questioned. Should guard against self-importance. Are closely connected with money and have a good earning capacity; will make money or inherit it. Can commercialize any talent. Are sensitive and intuition—often psychic. Highly nervous. Inclined to religion and philosophy. Usually are aware of their destiny—to give out the knowledge they have acquired. Good lawyers and teachers. Too blunt and opinionated for diplomacy.

EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

Diamonds	—	Values
8 ♦	—	Substantial Success
8 in ♦	—	Material Control

The Central Card in the Crown Line (Mundane) displaces the Q ♣ (Natural Spread).

All eights are power, but it is the 8 ♦ that surpasses the others in material power. Its position in the Crown Line not only denotes its high calling, but endows it with greater freedom of choice than is possessed by any of the cards below that Line. As noted above (see p. 11), all the Crown Cards are granted Movable Choice and can operate in any position that best suits their requirements. This freedom makes the 8 ♦ people very independent—at times domineering and exacting. The displacement of the Q ♣ only increases this tendency, for Q ♣ natives, while willing to work and to serve, are always conscious of their position of rulership.

The face-arrangement of all 8's denotes balance; again the 8 ♦ surpasses the rest by being in the exact center at the top. The sense of balance is naturally directed to values, and they usually know when and what to buy and what it is worth—exactly.

As in all cases, their power is used or misused. They can be philanthropic or mercenary, benefactors or misers, universal-minded or self-servers. When they choose to operate negatively, the inevitable result is suffering and tragedy. For many the requirement is too exacting—or it may be unrecognized. They may not know that their Birth Card is the Sun Card and that they are direct emissaries of the Central Sun. But the soul knows—and if they take the time and trouble to become acquainted with their own souls, they will be told.

They are the manifestation of the creative principle, closely associated with the resurrection and the certainty of rebirth. Theirs is the gift of sublimation, theirs the ability to overcome all obstacles and conquer all enemies. The majority are well aware of the heavy responsibilities and are willing to discharge them. If this is not realized in youth, recognition comes after thirty-six. As a rule, trust and confidence may be freely given them. They are wise guardians of the goods of the dead, and wise conservers of the interests of the living. They will serve honestly and faithfully, often at their own expense.

The main pitfalls are love of power (and a certain ruthlessness in exercising it) and love of the money that enhances it. They may be thrown completely off balance by worshiping the golden calf: they may forget their obligations, spend the inheritance entrusted to them, and swiftly accomplish their own downfall and disgrace. "Those who rise high, fall hard." Their place is already high—and they have the strength in their wings to keep them there.

To fulfill their destiny they need not be financial magnates or kings of industry. They may be the mother who sacrifices, the teacher who opens doors of understanding, or the professional man who helps the client in need—without pay.

Planetary Sequence for the 8 ♦

Mercury Card. Early in life they may be much K ♠ influenced by a man of power and authority, or they may be obliged to assume heavy responsibilities themselves. An easier card for a man than a woman. Great care should be taken by parents and teachers to instill high principles in the children. The impressions they get and the opinions formed in youth tend to become fixed and permanent. They dislike restraint and commands—unless they are the authors of them. A wrongly guided child can become a bully. Right or wrong, they are usually leaders.

Venus Card. Home conditions are apt to be 3 ♥ uncertain. Marriage and friendships with the opposite sex may be confused.

Choice of the right mate is difficult, and there may be two love affairs handled at the same time. There are often two marriages. Emotional problems are caused by need for approval, search for diversion, and involvement in associations that are beneath them. Those who bring out the best in them can steer them straight for life. Their fine discrimination in material affairs should be applied to their emotional life as well.

Mars Card. There is a strong desire for A ♣ knowledge, and a realization that that, too, is power. The majority are attracted to metaphysics and can develop themselves to a high degree, with study. They may be in an environment that is unfriendly to such study and may abandon it for lack of encouragement, but the desire is there and should be persisted in. These people are prolific letter writers, message senders, and telephone talkers. They want others' viewpoints and like to draw them out.

Jupiter Card. Receive benefits from women Q ♣ who are intelligent, clever in business and career-minded on their own account. A business man or woman under this card should have a capable and interested secretary. Are happier when in pleasant and cheerful environment. For the best work, need friendly associates and a certain amount of sociability.

Saturn Card. A card of overcoming. In case 10 ♠ of illness, seldom develop chronic or serious conditions, and always recuperate quickly. If interested in medicine, make excellent physicians and produce extraordinary cures. They are equally proficient in the non-medical healing arts, and usually become much respected and well loved. Obstacles related to health can always be overcome.

Uranus Card. After thirty-six there is a 5 ♣ change in the mental attitude. A radical change in home or business may also be made. Likelihood of travel in the interest of the chosen occupation. Can be very successful in real estate operations, especially if not confined to a narrow area. Can originate new and progressive methods in selling or in business in general.

Neptune Card. Not interested in travel in 3 ♦ later life; seldom get their money's worth from it. Are happiest at home and want it comfortable and harmonious. Want to remain active but are undecided about what to do in old age. Should pursue a hobby, preferably philanthropic. Are interested in home improvements and like to sponsor such activities.

Challenge for the 8 ♦:

MONEY AS POWER

January 19. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

The women are successful managers of home and family; can always make both ends meet. In any occupation efficiency is stressed. Ambitious to be the best of their kind. Men succeed as heads of their own business. Often choose merchandising of supplies for scientists or professionals. A karmic number. Must be strictly just and fair. Not always satisfied in the personal life. Unusual streak of poetry and mysticism for Capricorn. Have high ideals.

February 17. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

Original methods in business or profession. Full of unusual ideas. Intuitive and inventive. Always mental in attitude. Usually have a strong inclination to religion—their own brand. Believe in universal good will. If operating negatively, can be cruel and vindictive. Succeed as writers, scientists, managers of large enterprises. Want an unlimited field to work in.

THE CARDS

March 15. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

♓ Mystical, idealistic. Are devoted and self-sacrificing. Should avoid being too secretive. Make good confidants; investigators; executives in institutions for the sick, afflicted, or criminal. Can develop psychic gifts to a marked extent. Have a protective attitude toward humanity. Good writers, producers, government officials.

April 13. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

♈ Eager to express views and opinions. ♀ Want to be out in front as leaders of the people. Should avoid blustering and riding rough shod over those of divergent beliefs. Very curious about public reactions. Self-promotive and not always able properly to evaluate their mission. Work hard for a while, then give up. If the interests are universal can become great. Succeed as merchants, public leaders, surgeons, publishers.

May 11. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

♉ Not always sure of their objectives, so should have them clearly defined and work toward them. Naturally skeptical. Home harmony essential; need support. Must cultivate faith in others. Attracted to the stage, music or acting. Have real religious inclination, of which they are often unaware. Apt to be influenced by personalities in their environment. Should have the courage to pursue and adhere to own principles. Self-indulgence and desire for protection make them weak and useless.

June 9. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

♊ Undecided and vacillating before thirty-six. Ability for success, but must be allowed to express their ideals or they will go along with the easiest way. Personal responsibilities should not be assumed before they have found themselves. Naturally idealistic and philanthropic, but are blocked by an eye for expediency. Fine legal minds. Need people, variety, some travel, and enough cooperation to boost their self-confidence. Make good lawyers, journalists, public officials, counselors. May be too procrastinating for own good. Must stress truth in all dealings.

July 7. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

♋ Concerned with public welfare, and will work for conservation of civic and national interests. Propaganda writers, philosophers, producers. Make good government officials if not too involved in politics. Self-protective materially but have a strong streak of spirituality. The emotions are influenced and happiness determined by home harmony. Should cultivate people of strength and determination. Too irresolute.

August 5. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

♌ This is the most positive of the 8 ♀'s and the most successful in the eyes of the public. Can always make money and manage to keep it better than others. May be mercenary. On the alert for a favorable deal. Need contacts and strongly attracted to the stage or pictures. Successful writers, salesmen, attorneys, and "top" diplomats. Count much on appearance.

September 3. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

♍ Willing to help others and are helped by them. Uncertain in own beliefs, but apparently fixed and stubborn. Good brief-writers, technicians, scientists—especially botany and zoology. May not rise above a clerical position unless very well educated. Good accountants, telegraph operators, analysts. Often attracted to law, but need special training in effectiveness and public speaking.

October 1. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

♎ Strong religious tendencies, with a metaphysical trend. Often psychic. Like to dramatize their abilities. Need an appreciative audience. Confused by home problems. Nervous. Skeptical of motives of others. Inclined to independence, but work best with cooperation. Like to lead groups, conduct classes, appear on platforms. Have pleasing personalities and make good ambassadors. May have musical talent, but better conductors than performers.

EIGHT OF SPADES

- Spades — Wisdom, Labor
- 8 ♠ — Power in Healing
- 8 in ♠ — Control in Health and Labor Problems

The Saturn Card in the Jupiter Line (Mundane) displaces the K ♦ (Natural Spread).

This is a card of overcoming—also a healing card. The tests for these people are many and varied. Never relieved of the pressure from Saturn; duty and responsibility are their daily portion. They keenly sense the obligation to work—and they all work hard, whether or not they know the reason why. When they do know, much of the burden is lightened; when they are unenlightened, they tax health and strength in the drive to get things done. And still another class of these natives, realizing little or nothing besides their innate power, work for the money they can amass and the joy of being "big shots" on their own level.

The True Place is in the Neptune Line—again in the Saturn position, so there is often a conflict between idealism and confusion, with no way out but a sound education and a cultivated understanding.

Among the lesser lights there is a tendency to work under the Personality Card—which invariably detracts from their power. The women, especially, drift into menial work as the easiest way to provide for their comfort, but they usually do their job efficiently unless too distracted by various interests outside of it.

Backed by the 10 ♦ (the preceding card), there is often an inheritance from the parents or substantial help from members of the family. They are excellent "receivers." The women especially, but both sexes in general, are attracted to those in the professional field. They welcome anything that supports their prestige. Money is the great obstacle to their spiritual growth, and therefore the source of many of their tests. Through grief or loss or illness, at some period in their lives—usually late—they are forced to learn values.

The displacement of the K ♦ affirms that power is increased by the search for knowledge. If early education has been neglected or ignored, these people should make every effort to make up for it by joining study groups, going to night school, or taking correspondence courses—no matter at what age. It is their knowledge and not their money that will enable them to take their place among the high ones.

There is assured success for them in choosing a career that deals with health: nursing, medicine, or the healing arts in the drugless field. Many are attracted to the stage, to education, or to government positions. Among a few, religion is a fetish.

Planetary Sequence for the 8 ♠

Mercury Card. There is a longing for affection, and a positive demand for admiration. The emotions are so apt to be affected by the desire for money that satisfaction is usually short-lived, and a romance that starts out enthusiastically is soon withered if the financial requirements are not met. Have interest in travel and transitory contacts. Until maturity arrives, education is not usually considered as important as experience and diversion.

Venus Card. Want to live well, and, if money A ♦ is available, want to do good with it. Self is very apt to come first, but generosity is fundamental, and there is usually some important charity or some individual who will benefit at their hands. Family ties are very strong, and they will always see that members of their own family are provided for. They seek association with those of good financial background. Are often afflicted with false pride and snobbishness. There is strong desire for a home of their own, and they will make sacrifices to obtain it.

Mars Card. Are stimulated to effort by association with successful women. They like to be seen with free spenders, but are unhappy if they can't keep their own end up—or go them one better. The placement of this card in the Saturn Line indicates the effort required to amass the amount of money they want, and the disappointments that arise when obstacles present themselves. If they are temporarily limited, they often keep out of sight until they have acquired enough to shine again.

Jupiter Card. Circumstances are either helped 5 ♥ or hindered through changes in the situation of relatives or friends. These people have a chameleon quality of taking on the color of their associations. Periods of limitation are not lasting, and protection always arrives in time. Cases of bankruptcy are rare; when they occur it is resorted to more as a protection than from necessity. Business journeys are apt to be profitable. Changes should not be resisted.

Saturn Card. At some period of the life—and 3 ♣ perhaps frequently—illness may present a serious interference. The health is seldom robust, and small ailments contribute to a feeling of indecision and insecurity. Although they put up a very positive front, they are never quite sure of their ground. They should have a definite objective and stick to it. They are skeptical and hard to convince. There is usually illness in the family that causes changes and removals.

Uranus Card. Property and real estate are 3 ♠ remunerative, but other investments are of doubtful value. They always feel they can better themselves by a change. Will remain, however, if the evident advantages outweigh the uncertainty of removal. They really dislike changes, but indecision makes them want to experiment. Should avoid psychism, as they are open to negative forces. Are very superstitious.

Neptune Card. If they marry, they are subject to disappointment in later life. 9 ♥ They want both independence and companionship, and if marriage interferes with either, they consider it a waste of time. Among others, however, the ideals might be too high to be met, and disappointment would come from disillusionment. They should never have friends living with them. To avoid discontent in the later years, they should follow some useful occupation that serves others.

MATERIALISM

January 6. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

Ambitious and materialistic. Should 7 avoid narrow-mindedness and penuriousness. Love of "shining" and importance of "place" take many into the theatre. Better adapted for business, however, and can handle one that is extensive. Successful in dealing with the ground, especially products of the earth after they have become saleable. Very patriotic and will work hard for law and principle. Are good government officials—especially if they can give orders.

February 4. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

- == Are enthusiastic about progress and advanced methods. Educators and playwrights—full of original and startling ideas. Inventive and intuitive. Discover new techniques and methods. Natural experts in machinery and electricity. Fine aviators.

March 2. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

- × Natural benefactors, especially the financiers. The most religious of the 8 ♫'s; may become fanatics on the subject. Are true seekers of wisdom if at all developed. Willing to serve and sacrifice for humanity. Writers—with a message. Idealistic and poetical. Preachers of the true and the beautiful.

9 - NINES - 9

NINES include all Numbers and all Planets; 9 is a universal, all-containing symbol.

As a Birth Card we may emphasize the Cross of 5 (the Number of Man) in the center; we may remain within the security of the two protective (and often limiting) squares at the top and bottom or we may leave the lower triad behind us, cross the central path, and operate in the higher.

Nine (9) is the finisher, for here we reach the end of the single digits; it is also the beginning—for we at once proceed to another cycle of 9, which always ends in 9 (18, 27, 36, etc.). It tears down, sweeps away, and terminates—but it is never lost, because it always reproduces itself. It destroys and it fulfills; it is the end and the beginning.

Because of the 9's destructive and expelling force, the ancients allotted it to the planet Mars; because of its all-ness as opposed to 1-ness, it is called the Card of Disappointment. It is actually a Number—and a Card—of complete Fulfillment when we grasp its meaning and live its law.

The true 9 is dedicated to service—anywhere, everywhere, to anyone or to everyone. It demands the relinquishment of self. But because of its size and extension and inclusion—an overall outpouring—it is the most emotional influence we have to deal with. Nines (9's) love more than the rest because they have more "territory" to cover—and they suffer more; they give more than the rest because they have a greater store—and it leaves them more bereft; they are more idealistic than the rest because they have been sent to establish Universal Love and the Brotherhood of Man—and they become more disillusioned.

A Card of Disappointment? Assuredly it is when we chart our lives by personal loves and personal desires. A certain portion of personal love is not denied, but it always brings trouble. Nine (9) represents the Great Desire—but the desire must conform to the inexorable law or result in frustration, sorrow, and loss. There is no easy personal pattern for any of the 9's.

HEARTS have the hardest problem of them all, for they live by their emotions—and Saturn lays his heavy hand on them; in God's Plan it is the Venus Card in the Venus Line—but God's Plan is universal.

CLUBS must seek knowledge for universal good, never for their sole advantage. When they develop intellectual snobbishness they are doomed to failure—and isolation.

DIAMONDS must acquire—then "sell all and give to the poor."

SPADES must "labor in his neighbor's vineyard" before he may gather his own grapes.

For all there is sacrifice—and there is no reward without it. Nines (9's) do not sign their names or label their gifts; they are people of "magnificent obsession." Like the Number of their Card, they must lose their identity in order to find their rightful place.

NINE OF HEARTS

Hearts	—	Love
9 ♥	—	Disappointment in Love
9 in ♥	—	Universal Love

The Saturn Card in the Saturn Line (Mundane) displaces the 7 ♦ (Natural Spread).

This has been called the "Wish Card"—and the displaced 7 ♦ shows us very clearly the close connection between the wish for love and the wish for money. For this combination money is not easy to acquire for purely personal use. This is one of the pairs that always exchange places in all the quadrations—so there is no "progression" in the life that escapes the problem. Money may come, or love may come, but the two never seem to work together for any length of time.

It is well not to expect too much from personal relationships; they will be disappointing when the requirements are set too high. It is well, too, not to long for extreme wealth; it is not in the pattern except in a few isolated cases where money must take the place of everything else—happiness most of all.

The Saturn-Saturn position brings tests in all departments of life. He is the great reminder of debts—but no more to be feared than the taxes imposed by a just government or the bills we have voluntarily contracted. He merely tells us that NOW is the time to pay them—and it may be highly inconvenient. For the 9 ♥ it usually is.

Ability to judge values must be cultivated; it doesn't come naturally to these people; once acquired, disappointments will be less frequent. Money is usually spent in considerable quantity for illness, either of themselves or of those dear to them. It seems to be on hand when needed, however, and is always available for any good purpose in which self is not too involved.

There is usually a good understanding of the higher laws. The 9 ♥'s are never weak people; if they were they could not handle the pattern they have. They have tolerance, and they want understanding and are willing to make sacrifices for it. The life is never an easy one, and it may actually be too burdensome for some of them to meet efficiently. In that case, it is no act of cowardice to work under the Personality Card, and it often serves to smooth the pathway and bring more accomplishment than might be possible under the Birth Card. It is not the best procedure as a general rule, but if there is some uncontrollable handicap, it is folly not to try to mitigate its effect. When it is done, however, it must be done consciously and deliberately.

The women will find the Q ♥ pleasanter and more powerful than their own 9 ♥. The men should strive to live up to the strength of the K ♥. If they choose the Jack instead, they must be wary of making more sacrifices and self-subordinations than are consistent with their original 9.

We can alter our lives and make our own worlds if we choose. We can NOT, however, depart from the laws that govern the Birth Cards, the Numbers, or the Horoscopes. If you are a 9 ♥ you must love your neighbor as yourself—and don't forget that he lives all over the world.

Planetary Sequence for the 9 ♥

Mercury Card. Some obstacles to a good education may be encountered, but they are not usually financial. Apt to worry over things that are transitory and inconsequential. The early trend may be toward subjects in scientific or research lines. Money is wanted for the power it will bring or the good it may do. Must learn to carry through and not lose interest. Should cultivate a spirit of optimism. Should watch a tendency to introversion.

Venus Card. Love and friendship may cause financial burdens. Subject to changes in home and associates. Contacts are necessary, but should be tested before being accepted as friends. Should never go into business with friends. Fear to make investments because payments might become burdensome. Can avoid disappointment by not setting too high a value on money.

Mars Card. Attracted to professional women Q ♠ —usually older. Want all associations businesslike. May have some opposition from a domineering woman: mother, sister, or wife. Nerves may be affected and disposition soured by constant resistance to circumstances. Must learn to adjust—but not be coerced. If willing to work hard, may confidently expect adequate payment.

Jupiter Card. Can benefit by association with J ♣ men of intelligence; should never waste time on the frivolous and trifling. Are adapted to success in publishing, journalism—anything that reaches far and is widely known. May take great pride in some male member of the family and advance by association with him. If a close tie is formed, this person can be depended upon.

Saturn Card. Disappointment in finances 9 ♦ may affect the health. Should avoid investments in real estate, mines and their products, and all things of a speculative nature. Gain is made only through strictly legitimate transactions; no short cuts or quick turnovers. If in line for inheritance, may have trouble in collecting it. Should never borrow from or lend to women.

Uranus Card. Not apt to get full credit for 7 ♣ work and should not harbor that motive. Best to avoid taking any active part in groups connected with labor; no benefit will come from joining any union. The chosen occupation should be well established and along orthodox lines. Avoid uncertainties as far as possible. This is a power Card, and the Uranus influence always provides strength for intuition and encouragement for its development. Those who feel held "close to the ground" should work consciously with this fine force.

Neptune Card. Desire for wisdom increases 2 ♣ with the years. If travel is desired and possible, a congenial mental companion should be sought. Latent fears can be overcome by study of metaphysics. Study with others for growth and inspiration. After fifty there is an inclination to become "joiners." These people will be happier if not obliged to live alone, but emotional involvement is not good.

Challenge for the 9 ♥:

IMPERSONAL LOVE

Birthdates Ruled by the 9 ♥

August 30. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

The Birthday Number gives an inclination to the development of talent, but the approach and expression of any ability are always mental. Should cultivate self-confidence by making a definite choice and working on its technical foundation. The stage attracts many of this date, and some reach a high place through perfection of form. In writing, facts are more productive than fiction. Can also succeed as nurses, chemical researchers, geologists, and horticulturists.

September 28. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

Playwrights and politicians may attain fame in this date. Many are found in industry—but not usually from choice; big business may be selected from necessity or inheritance, but art, literature, or government connections are more favored. Art in some form should be followed as a hobby. Usually very effective speakers.

October 26. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

Money very important, and big operations are thought to be the best way to obtain it in large quantities. Many "magnates" of industry are found here—and are usually able to hold their wealth. Should guard against a tendency to penuriousness. Will sponsor philanthropic projects, but want full credit. Good physicians and surgeons. Interested in art and music, but not as performers. Need a practical woman as co-worker. Can commercialize any ability.

November 24. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

Writers, philosophers, counselors, and preachers are well suited to this date. Highly nervous—often erratic—but will work hard and make sacrifices. Best of all the 9 ♠'s for partnerships. Mental attitudes receptive and amenable.

Not attracted to orthodox medicine and should not attempt it. Are easily influenced, so should be careful in choice of associations. Have strong sense of responsibility. Should watch inflation of their ego.

December 22. Sagittarius or Capricorn. Ruler: Jupiter or Saturn.

To be sure of which, you must know the hour of your birth. With such a close connection, however, there is a mixture of both. Should fight against depression, nervousness, and worry. Have high ideals but want them productive. Must guard health; often affected by fits of temperament. Producers, promoters, government officials, critics. If not developed, are avaricious and neurotic.

NINE OF CLUBS

Clubs	—	Knowledge
9 ♣	—	Obstacles to Mental Control
9 in ♣	—	Knowledge Universally Applied

The Saturn Card in the Venus Line (Mundane) displaces the Q ♠ (Natural Spread).

This is an excellent example of the workings of the Law of 9. As in the case of the 9 ♠, the position is Saturn, indicating a struggle in relation to any mental (Clubs) development. The difficulty could be due to finances, but since we are in the Venus Line and the Displacement Card is the Q ♠, it is much more apt to be due to the native's proclivity for wasting time and emotional energy on frivolity and self-indulgence. (The Q ♠ can be a distracting and demoralizing influence.) We find the "answer" as well as safe guidance when we note the True Place. Here the 9 ♦ is the Mercury Card in the Jupiter Line—fortified by the proximity of the 10 ♦. Expansion (Jupiter) for mental (Clubs) development; forget the venusian (Line) satisfactions and hew to the line of duty (Saturn) if you would eliminate the disappointments (9) that are sure to follow the negative operation of your Birth Card. God's Plan for you is ruled by Mercury and Jupiter; by following it you will turn all loss (9) into fulfillment (9).

As a rule, these people have warm and friendly personalities and a keen sense of obligation. They keep promises and pay debts. Note that the True Place of the 9 ♦ is displaced by the 6 ♦, establishing still another connection with the Birth Card. All 6's are working with karmic law—and know it—so there is no desire to escape responsibility.

Without getting too far out of line as far as duty is concerned, the 9 ♦ is an adventurer's card. They like to gamble and are always willing to take a chance for the satisfaction of curiosity or interest. When the adventurous spirit extends to the field of knowledge, they often become extremists—but at least they are seeking, and they are capable of making some discovery that is of wide benefit.

THE CARDS

When not influenced by the wrong kind of women, association with one of kindness and humanitarian qualities increases their own. They worry too much and are too dependent upon approval and sympathy. Many of the early difficulties and gropings disappear in middle life—or as soon as they are ready to settle down and lay aside the objectives that are strictly personal and emotional.

The women especially must watch the tendency to flirtatiousness and triviality. The satisfaction (if any) is always transitory, and the chances for a dependable and harmonious association may be spoiled.

Any close association formed with 6 ♦ or Q ♥ birthdates is an indication that there is a karmic element in the experience gained. All 9's have come to pay off old obligations NOW, and in the case of the 9 ♣ these people (6 ♦ and Q ♥) constitute some of the agents or "collectors." The less they express through the personality, the surer their fulfillment.

Planetary Sequence for the 9 ♣

Mercury Card. Before twelve, the life may 9 ♠ be full of uncertainties and frustrations. Children must be taught very young to have faith in themselves and optimism in the face of problems. They need to be convinced that there is a silver lining. Disappointments are frequent but usually fleeting. Must control their own speed. Subject to accidents through haste or from fast-moving vehicles. Many illnesses may occur in youth, but seldom undermine the health. If difficulties are overcome early, success comes more easily in later life.

Venus Card. Home is necessary, and love 2 ♥ much desired. A very strong tie is usually established with one person, and the future life much affected thereby. Easily influenced and can be set for all time in the right direction if the "one person" is a good influence. Swayed by emotional reactions and may easily develop weakness by over-dependence.

Feelings easily hurt and sensitivities very near the top.

Mars Card. Influenced (emotionally) by some K ♥ male relative or friend. Can reason things out with him and gain by discussions. An interest may be developed in military affairs, forms of government, politics, welfare movements, etc., and the one upon whom the affections are centered may determine the career. Should seek strong and worthy personalities as "examples" to follow. Better yet, should develop independence and learn to rule their own lives. Irresolution is a major fault and may become a serious deterrent.

Jupiter Card. Usually find some successful K ♦ businessman who may sponsor them. If materialistically inclined, can become very mercenary. If money is the sole objective, they are hard-headed in business and drive close bargains. Apt to lose interest if the returns are not adequate. If able to recognize it and willing to cultivate it, have the gift of ingenuity and cleverness which can be of aid in their chosen occupation.

Saturn Card. Good recuperative powers in 6 ♥ illness, and always have good care and ample funds when needed for that purpose. Any undesirable health condition that becomes chronic is due to nerves or emotions or imagination—largely within their own control. Once established, this is difficult to break up—but a right mental attitude will prevent its occurring in the first place. If the work brings them in contact with sick people, they can be assured of a good income.

Uranus Card. Work may not be securely es-4 ♣ tablished before thirty-six; when it is, they are contented and freed from uncertainties. Better followers than initiators. Derive great satisfaction from helping others. Successful in dealing with organizations. Are safe and sound directors of the affairs of others. Helpful in dealing with special cases in groups—through counseling, applied psychology, etc., but must cultivate patience and tolerance. Have no patience with stupidity or failures, so should not choose psychology as a profession. Those who are mentally and spiritually advanced often have the gift of mental healing and "broadcasting" therapies.

Neptune Card. If a commercial line is chosen, 2 ♦ can deal successfully with foreigners and foreign countries. Strongly attracted to travel, but it may be mental rather than actual. Are intuitive and inspirational, and can develop extrasensory perception if they work at it. In this regard are always safer in very small selected groups or with one developed person. Should avoid public seances. Protection must always be asked for when engaging in this work and it should be left alone until due preparation has been made.

Challenge for the 9 ♣:

MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL WEAKNESSES

Birthdates Ruled by the 9 ♣

January 31. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

If home life provides a good anchorage, work goes well. Interested in labor and politics, but not in holding any office. Best success in mental lines: newspapers, interviews, personnel managers, etc. Dramatic in manner. Can often succeed in the theatre; showmanship carries them far. Gift for writing—seriously. Unorthodox; defy established customs.

February 29. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

♓ A rare birthdate. Should cultivate balance and guard against erraticism. Are very intuitive—on the psychic side; temperamental. May become soft and lazy. Should choose work that allows them to serve unless there is some outstanding talent. Make fine dancers if willing to work on technique. Lean to poetry or poetic prose in writing. Must avoid psychic experiments and be sure of their ground.

March 27. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

♈ Very self-determined; inclined to egotism. Make friends easily but are always looking out for number one. Good-natured, but have quick tempers. Good starters. Must avoid becoming mercenary. Are successful as lawyers (prosecutors), politicians, scientists. Many are universally minded, progressive, and militant for reforms.

April 25. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

♉ Creative and inventive. Work best if there is a heart interest. Want to live well and have security for the whole family; often have to create it themselves and not depend upon the mate. May write, but are best adapted for artistic work: painting, singing, dramatics, modeling, composing. Excellent designers and decorators.

May 23. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

♊ Dissatisfied with results. Impatient, changeable. Give up too easily. Always have a mental approach. Good draughtsmen, architects, critics, journalists. Opinionated. Skillful with hands and with words. Speakers, reporters, translators. Good linguists. Attracted to theatre, radio, electricity. Always make themselves heard and felt in any crowd.

June 21. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

♊ Less "touch and go" than the other Gemini birthdate; more public-spirited. If they remain impersonal, can make considerable money. Want a home, but not always happily married. Good guides or travel agents, canvassers, stewards, demonstrators, etc. Good entertainers, hosts, and companions. More optimistic than many 9 ♣'s, but may have long fits of depression.

THE CARDS

July 19. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

 A life of destiny. Must pay in full. Inclined to laziness, but must work hard for accomplishment. Like business that brings them before the public. Deal well in small articles, sold on credit. Can sell whatever they believe in. Love home but will not be restricted by it. Fond of eating and drinking—which often affects the health. Self-protective; hate to face the facts. Merchants, writers, public servants. Make good family physicians. Can become outstanding in a profession.

August 17. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

 Public-spirited and humanitarian. If not in the theatre (and many are) are always dramatic and dynamic in approach. Associated with money and can make it independently. Prefer to leave business details to others. Leaders in their own field. Very successful as writers and publishers. Want an occupation that is capable of expansion. May be subject to hampering home conditions, but never fail in duty and devotion.

September 15. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

 Childhood apt to be over-burdened with responsibility—which they assume and often overdo. Stubborn and skeptical. Not too sure of their ground, but won't yield a point once taken. Given to worry, especially about their health; may become hypochondriacs. Careful to preserve their reputations and keep up appearances. Seldom in want, but always fear it. Not happy alone; need some one to care for—and worry about. Should avoid narrowness and fretfulness. Services not always appreciated. Technicians, architects, accountants, critics.

October 13. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

 Hate limitation and direction, but are sometimes dictatorial themselves. Work best in association, and remain harmonious when others are friendly. Like to have their own way. Orthodox but skeptical. Have one dominating influence in life. Proud of family tradition and background. May be gifted in writing, acting, or singing, but business is most productive. Should not marry too young. Devoted to home and family, but they may be a deterrent influence. Should guard against being critical and nagging. Have good memories. Often called the old maid and old bachelor birthdate.

November 11. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

 Educators, actors, and financiers can succeed with this birthdate. Nervous and high-strung, forceful and emotional. Should have an outlet in a congenial occupation or may become neurotic. If there is any talent for art or music, it may develop into something important—but will not be along regulated lines. Work from inspiration and imagination, and put their own stamp on it. Safeguard lies in service—and metaphysics. Good diagnosticians, magnetic healers. Must cultivate balance.

December 9. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

 Must have freedom of action. Unhappy if bound by home or burdensome ties. Like to travel in early and middle life. Good itinerant preachers, lecturers, teachers—but not for the young. Have a scientific trend of mind, and make good chemists, researchers, and discoverers. Nervous—or jittery; self-determined. Will escape responsibility through drink if not developed.

NINE OF DIAMONDS

Diamonds	— Values
9 ♦	— Dissatisfaction in Money
9 in ♦	— Generosity—or Selfishness

The Mars Card in the Uranus Line (Mundane) displaces the Q ♦ (Natural Spread).

There seems to be no middle ground for these people; they are either philanthropic, generous, and protective toward others, or live for themselves alone, unable to acquire the money they want and dissatisfied with life. For all 9's, there is no escaping obstacles and disappointment if they are selfish. The True Place is the Neptune Card in the Saturn Line—which is but another way of saying that duty, responsibility, and full payment constitute the goal in life and should be idealized and sought eagerly. When it is, it is attained happily.

There are no weaklings in the birthdates of this Card—but in early life or in the case of some strong attachment, there is a tendency to be dominated. When this occurs, once the tie is broken, they may become domineering themselves—to "get even." There is usually a goodly amount of self-insistence and aggressiveness. They want to think and act for themselves—and should—but fear they may not be able to unless they demand it.

There is a close tie between the 9 ♦ and the Q ♦—a tie that surpasses the displacement influence. Those belonging to these dates have some karmic debt to work out—and the association is not always an agreeable one. In the case of a woman, there is a "double dose" to be reckoned with, and great care should be taken in handling these associations.

For the most part, these people are slated for success. They are inclined to materiality, and may be mercenary, but the natural tendency is toward generosity, even though they never forget to protect themselves.

If they are to avoid disappointment, they must clearly define their values—and they should be helped to this end very early in life. "As the twig is bent" is very significant in their case and colors their entire life. Those whose inclinations are on the spiritual level and have acquired a working philosophy have few obstacles to overcome. Consciously or unconsciously, they follow the Law of 9 and GIVE of themselves, their efforts, and their goods. With any 9, a certain degree of "cosmic urge" is a requirement. Those who deny it only defeat themselves.

The women have more to overcome than the men, for they are always struggling with their personality—and that Q ♦ is difficult. The men are apt to marry women who cause them worry, cost them money, or fail to give satisfaction.

Both sexes are apt to overestimate their ability. Both are interested in things that move too fast and are therefore subject to accidents.

They often choose—and are well adapted for —welfare work, Red Cross, Salvation Army, YMCA, or some allied branch of public service. The less they concentrate on their own security, the better.

Planetary Sequence for the 9 ♦

Mercury Card. The early life is subject to illness or other interference—usually connected with family—which obstructs the earning capacity. There is a likelihood of accidents in travel; it is best for these people to avoid flying. Great care should be taken of the throat—especially for the May birthdate. Apt to worry over small and inconsequential things. Will want to begin earning while very young. Usually have keen minds and are apt students. Very impatient.

Venus Card. Seek information through "joining"—groups, study clubs, unions, the Masons, etc. Are attracted to people of brains rather than beauty. Do not like tellectual, there is a tendency to drift. Benefited by interests at a distance. Make good agents; managers of transportation, hospital, or prison employees; secret service investigators. May gain through perfumes, oil, narcotics, or fishing.

April 12. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

♀ Promoters, politicians, members of armed forces, orators, and propagandists. May also succeed in publishing. The majority are not attracted to merchandising. Always self-promotive—often too aggressive and egotistic. Good talkers, good salesmen, and like a good fight. Feel very sure of themselves.

May 10. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

♀ Good leaders, directors, and initiators. Like to be associated with groups and clubs, but want some official position near the top. Work well with others if allowed to keep their independence. Honest and reliable; affectionate and protective. Attracted to intelligent women. Can commercialize products for general use. Good cooks and gardeners.

June 8. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

♊ Mental and inquiring. Are highly nervous, which affects the health. Usually want more power, authority, and money than they can handle or acquire. Apt to develop chronic conditions due to negative states of mind and a tendency to hypochondria. Good traders, writers, talkers, extemporaneous speakers.

Illnesses and obstacles often come unexpectedly; surprising changes. Should be careful of lungs.

July 6. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

♋ Patriots and sticklers for principle. Sincere devotees of worthy causes. Objectives often delayed until later years. Good government leaders and officials. When merchandising is chosen, usually deal in small articles, home products, foods. Not an easy birthdate; life full of effort and hard work.

August 4. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

♌ Positive and direct. Dramatic. Full of family pride. May have trouble with in-laws. Must be at the head of own business or shine in the limelight. Always good showmen. Stage producers, directors, performers, or backers. Good hosts; good entertainers. If business or investments chosen, may make big money. Inclined to be dictatorial—kings in their own right—but are kind at heart and protective of their dependents.

September 2. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

♍ The most mentally disturbed and uncertain of the 9 ♀'s. Want to do big things, but fear to move far from their small radius. Too nervous for routine work, but often choose it for safety. Bookbinders, accountants, researchers. The more fortunate have a gift for writing—and take refuge in it. Full of dreams and longings. May be poets. Should be early guided to an occupation that is varied and interesting.

NINE OF SPADES

- Spades — Labor, Initiation
 - 9 ♠ — Accomplishment or Disappointment in Labor
 - 9 in ♠ — Labor for Universal Good
- The Uranus Card in the Venus Line (Mundane) displaces the K ♦ (Natural Spread).

The keynote for success in this Card is the sublimation of the emotions. The position be-speaks difficulties, but the pattern itself is not a hard one.

As in the case of all 9's, impersonality must be developed or there is bound to be suffering.

THE CARDS

to be alone. Apt to marry teachers, writers, or those engaged in some intellectual pursuit. Subject to fears—often unaccountable. If they misuse their innate metaphysical knowledge, are afraid of the consequences. (These people were formerly associated with a secret order.) If they are operating on the spiritual plane, they will be cautious.

Mars Card. Want association with those in power: judges, military men, politicians, etc. Fear the law and seek protection through influence. If a woman, like men of high rank. Can really take care of themselves, but feel safer if they know someone who will "fix it" if they get into trouble.

Jupiter Card. At some period in the life they are likely to handle considerable money—and can usually make it themselves. This is not always retained, because not handled wisely; should have a business manager or partner who manages the finances. If a woman, can also make money on her own account, but needs encouragement and cooperation. Funds are usually sufficient. This is a writer's card, and all natives of these dates should check their ability.

Saturn Card. If ill, have good recuperative power—and good care. Can overcome illness through the power of mind. Are kind to those who are sick or afflicted. Make good doctors, and often have healing power. This card should be carefully studied by all 9 ♫'s. Under Saturn, it is allied to their own True Place. An understanding of it will help them to establish themselves in security.

Uranus Card. Enjoy practically any work that pays, but will soon abandon it if it doesn't. Always demand adequate return for their services. If and when possible, should own a piece of real estate. Can deal in it also as a business. Usually well liked in work associations, and have great skill in dealing with employees, workers' groups, etc. The changes that arise in business are usually constructive and progressive.

Neptune Card. Are interested in drugs—but fear them. Attracted to the sea, ships, oils, perfumes, and products of the earth. Like to travel, but not for long periods. Must have a home to return to. If an earlier marriage has been disappointing, are apt to marry again later in life, often with greater success. Are not given to retiring from business. Prefer to keep active.

Challenge for the 9 ♦:

FAITH IN THE GOLDEN CALF

Birthdates Ruled by the 9 ♦

January 18. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

Scholarly, thorough, industrious. Ambitious and studious. Approach everything from a mental angle. Orthodox and cautious; take no chances. For Capricorn, quite universally minded. No imagination. Can write if along solid and serious lines. Want to cover a large field: big business, big audiences, a big "place." Successful in manufacturing and merchandising.

February 16. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

These people are critical and controversial. Like to argue, and often take the opposite side—not from conviction, but because they enjoy it. Interested in people and the rights of the underdog. More biased than balanced; go "all out" for any cause they espouse. Imagination, enthusiasm, and emotionalism carries many into the theatre, often to marked success. Can also succeed as correspondents, columnists, or government officials.

March 14. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

Very talented in art or music (also dancing), or very scientific, capable of making a valuable contribution to general knowledge and progress. Idealistic and humanitarian. In the less gifted and in-

THE CARDS

The great obligation imposed upon Spades is always latent, consciously or subconsciously, and is further augmented by the 9. The Venus Line directs them to love as an objective, but as soon as they become personally involved, their work is interfered with, obstacles to accomplishment arise, and an inner conflict is set up that disturbs their equilibrium and wrecks their nerves. They suffer when they become unfit to serve.

These people are closing one phase of their soul-evolution and are being initiated into another. None of them are undeveloped or unaware, and it is that very awareness (Uranus position) that disturbs them. Due to their emotional conflicts, "psychic" illnesses often develop, and they may, for a time, be incapacitated for active work.

The Displacement Card gives evidence of the power to overcome their difficulties, and they often contact some wise and kindly man who sets them back on their feet and instills in them the self-confidence that should never be lacking. These are truly great people, and they must be made to realize it. Nervous, romantic, unconventional—they can turn all these qualities into working assets, and they do when they use their talents for service and concern themselves with the world at large. Their pens, their talents, and their executive ability give mighty account of themselves once they are set on the universal wire.

Planetary Sequence for the 9 ♠

Mercury Card. Sudden and transitory events 2 ♥ characterize the early years. Likely to marry young—after several love affairs. Need contacts and companionship, but want intelligence and a desire for knowledge in associations. Make strong attachments, but can let go of them without undue pain when they prove unsatisfactory. Easily attracted to the opposite sex—not always wisely. Not outstanding general students, but eagerly pursue knowledge that is connected with their main interest.

Venus Card. Men friends important and in K ♥ fluent; friendships formed with those older are permanent unless the tie becomes too emotional and some break is caused through jealousy. Can be helpful and valuable, but should not be allowed to impose domination. The father or older brother may exert too strong an influence and become restrictive. The women may marry older men—protective but paternal—and may chafe under the relationship.

Mars Card. Occupation is involved with K ♦ monied people or entails handling considerable sums. If a connection can be formed with those of means or who are dealing in minerals, many of the business difficulties of the 9 ♠ will be mitigated. If these associations are formed, there is always an element of uncertainty in them. Liable to breaks and displacements.

Jupiter Card. The greatest benefits come if 6 ♥ changes are avoided and a chosen course adhered to. Security lies in established conditions which provide a steady, ample income rather than affluence. Work flourishes more freely when based on friendly relations. Work and application should be steady, but not allowed to produce a rut.

Saturn Card. Peace of mind contributes to 4 ♣ good health; nerves and a spirit of discontent are bound to interfere with it. These people can become mental healers, and are themselves responsive to mental therapy. When well balanced, have a soothing and curative effect on the mentally disturbed. May have a skeptical attitude of mind—which should be overcome; inwardly know better than to doubt.

Uranus Card. Fear of financial insecurity interferes with their work and the "direct contact" they are well able to establish. Should never have to worry about money (and need not) unless they are deliberately wasteful. Work with more contentment and freedom if associated with someone who will attend to the details (and expenditures). Can make money from real estate, and should own their own homes.

Neptune Card. Have original and peculiar J ♠ ideas—sometimes considered erratic. High ideals, but have difficulty in realizing them. This is a neophyte's card; debts must be paid before any further progress can be made—and there is a great desire for progress along spiritual lines. Worry and material concern get in the way; once these are overcome, "illumination" is assured. Travel is apt to be disappointing. Emotional ties become less important in the later years.

Challenge for the 9 ♠:

UNIVERSALITY

Birthdates Ruled by the 9 ♠

January 5. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

Personality ambitious; interested in politics as an avenue to prominence. Subject to disappointment if not working with humanitarian objectives. Often become discouraged and give up. Cannot work profitably with the soil, but can commercialize its products. Mental and restless. Eager for achievement, but seldom realize that the only road to it lies in self-elimination. Capable of becoming leaders—even rulers. Should guard against being despotic when in a position of power. Can succeed at writing or lecturing.

February 3. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

Inventive but not usually inspirational —too technical. Have a keen sense of what the public wants and can successfully cater to it. Interested in the theatre as a commercial proposition. Make good impresarios, advance agents, managers, etc. May be gifted in art or music, but are inclined to burden their work with studied skill or elaborate detail. Journalists and authors, newspaper owners and publishers. Always work for a popular appeal. Interesting and unusual personalities; always in demand at public functions. Good speakers, but prefer to prepare themselves well in advance.

March 1. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

Writers, musicians, actors, and artists belong in this birthdate. Idealistic and emotional—but always mental. Work hard for results. Personal life and chosen occupation may be wholly satisfactory, but there is always an inner, unsatisfied longing which they may not be able to define, even to themselves. This often results in nerves and high tension, and may act unfavorably on the health. Give willing service. Especially valuable in work for the sick and afflicted. With any musical ability, are especially adapted for music therapy. Have many abilities, but music and writing are the most outstanding. Should try to avoid fits of depression.

Table of the All-Inclusive, "Never-Lost" 9

10 - TENS - 10

FULLY ACCOMPLISHED or "ALL COMPLETE" is the translation of the Greek work Panteleia—the Decad or the Number Ten.

TENS are called "Success" Cards—a term that seems far too weak to apply to such a powerful symbol. To the Pythagoreans 10 represented Deity, Heaven, Eternity, and the Sun (W. Wynn Westcott, "Numbers"). To ourselves 10 is Man (1) and "God Ahead" (0)—a heaven to reach for, though we may not grasp it.

Nine (9), with all the numbers behind it, is the completed cycle of man's experience; 10 begins the new cycle, on a higher spiral, the cycle of man's Aspiration.

On the tree of Life there are 10 Spheres or "10 Emanations of the Divine Sephiroth," and Malkuth, the Kingdom, is the 10th—our own world; in the Pattern on the Trestleboard there are 10 Statements; our laws of conduct were given in 10 Commandments, and the Decimal system is used all over the world. Unattainable as it may appear, and "mighty" as it surely is, 10 is our number to use and to "succeed" with. If 10 is your Birth Card you have the tools with which to "fully accomplish."

In the Mundane Spread we have placed one of the 10's in the exact center (it would be diamonds!); another stands behind it; a third is the center of the Mercury Line; and the fourth leads the Sun, or "Crown," Line. In any position in which the card is held, we find the triangle—symbol of perfection in expression.

Here is success on all sides, as man stands in the center—two patterns of 5 (the number of man), carrying the protection of the pentagram. Every 10 should consciously live in the realization that he is Man twice over: Man as himself and Man in the image of God. So are we all—but 10 is the only card that has that 0 ever beside it. No forward step can be taken without meeting it—face to face.

Since What Constitutes Success is a purely individual question, we find every variety of expression in these 10's—a few of the very great, more of the very successful, and the vast majority who are utterly oblivious to the power in the equipment they have brought to earth as their kit of tools. None of them can be wholly devoid of elements of greatness, but many can and do live as though the purpose of life were to amass, attain, and control. But not even the atheist escapes his divine origin.

HEARTS attain their success and overcome their obstacles through the power of Love.

CLUBS find their success in the mental field and secure it by sharing their knowledge.

DIAMONDS succeed as Masters of Matter. Their dominion is over "all created things."

SPADES' success depends upon the degree of maturity they have reached. For them, 10 is their initiation into a higher Grade.

TEN OF HEARTS

Hearts	—	Love
10 ♥	—	Success in the Pursuit of Love
10 in ♥	—	Leadership and Idealism in Love

The Mars Card in the Jupiter Line (Mundane) displaces the J ♦ (Natural Spread).

Through the initiatory steps of 8 and 9—Power in Love and the achievement of Unselfishness—10 ♥ people have reached a stage of independence and individuality in human relations. They know that all obstacles can be overcome through love, but they are (or should be) less personally involved than are those on the less developed levels. They have more chance for success in the pursuit of their objectives because they are not torn to pieces by their reactions to the "treatment" they receive from others.

For those who are living positively, there is no denial of warmth in relationships or of emotional satisfaction for themselves. They can love and be loved in security. On the negative side, there is such a drive for power and recognition that all personal love is lost in the conflict, and the end result is a barrier of coldness and a lonely life. Like the 8 from which our power is derived, we can operate on either plane—the mundane or the spiritual—or we can strike a balance between the two and release our initiative (10) for creation, progress, and "pioneering" in the fields that offer the best opportunities for individual growth. When that is attained, recognition and accomplishment follow as a natural consequence. Ten (10) is the "higher octave" of 1.

Because of the displacement of the J ♦, the first step for these people is the right direction of their mental attitudes. J ♦ is not always a clear thinker and may be quite indolent and "sloppy." Reason and logic—the constructive qualities of the J ♦—should form the basis for all efforts for accomplishment.

The women are apt to be guided or dominated by their husbands; they are not always successful in marriage, but will make a sincere effort for harmony. The men may operate under the Jack or King (preferably the King) and find fewer obstacles and broader opportunity.

There is an element of so-called "luck" in the 10 ♥—augmented by the other 10 (◊) in proximity. They are much affected by the Displacement Card, and while they want to dispense love and kindness, their natural approach is mental—and may be calculating, although the Mars-Jupiter conjunction usually inclines to impulsiveness.

Independence is highly prized, and they will not submit to too much responsibility—especially the men. When the women are stressing the Personality Card, they prefer easy and harmonious conditions to any assumption of personal power. Both emit and respond to love and kindness, but there is seldom found any great tragedy connected with lost or misplaced love. They may miss the thrill and uplift of the "grand passion," but they also escape the emotional devastation that often follows in its wake. To them, the attainment of the heights does not compensate for the fall to the depths. It is only in the uncertainty of the later years that they may mourn their lost dreams.

Planetary Sequence for the 10 ♥

Mercury Card. Money transactions are disposed of easily and quickly. There are ample funds in early life, and always the possibility of inheritance. The majority are brought up in pleasant surroundings, with good opportunity for education and culture. The women may marry with money in mind but will make every effort to contribute to the success of their husbands.

Venus Card. Interested in large groups, educational or religious. The less serious members of these dates spend much time entertaining and making a success of running their homes. They take pride in good organization and efficiency, and enjoy impressing others with the domestic greased wheels. They prefer to surround themselves with people of high intelligence and interesting ideas; if they are "important" as well, they are so much the more welcome.

Mars Card. Want to stand well and be popular, especially with the opposite sex. May be too much influenced by the financial standing of their friends. Are good hosts and good mixers, never at their best when alone. There is always a sense of leadership and initiative, and they want their ideas and decisions unquestioned. They think they know best—and they often do—but if their policies are voted down, they will gracefully step aside rather than take second place.

Jupiter Card. There is always ambition and pride of place. Their good reputation must be preserved at all costs, and faults, lacks, and family skeletons are carefully concealed. They are fine custodians of secrets—others' as well as their own. If there is a temporary financial shortage, the world seldom hears of it; they manage to cover it up until they are again on their money feet—having made great sacrifices to maintain "business as usual."

Saturn Card. If there has been a marriage (or any other partnership) contracted for the sake of money, trouble catches up with them in some form or other. Their life may be interfered with by some sick or nagging female member of the family or by a dependent who may make unreasonable demands. The women may become successful physicians or important nurses or executives in a doctor's office. They do not lack sympathy, but want to be fully paid for their services.

Uranus Card. Work is subject to change and variety, and there is often considerable travel in connection with it. An occupation is sought where the human element is involved—for contacts are desirable and successful. Dealings in real estate are not recommended, nor are speculative investments. They believe in progress and are open to new ideas, which will be revamped and stamped with their own originality. In groups they will assume the leadership. If denied or thwarted in love they will turn to metaphysics.

Neptune Card. Their beliefs are definite, but they are not always sure of their origin—or their worth; if they change them, it remains their secret. Travel is not satisfactory in later life. They should protect themselves in ample time against the threat of loneliness.

Challenge for the 10 ♥:

SELF-INSISTENCE

Birthdates Ruled by the 10 ♥

* July 31. Leo. Ruler: The Sun. Willing to work hard. Want business on a friendly basis and in a big way. Success comes through personal effort. If attracted to merchandising, like to handle small articles for general use—and in large quantities; if attracted to land, want a large acreage, cut into small lots for many people; if to politics, want to establish laws and principles for universal adoption. Have a strong cosmic attitude of mind. Writers, propagandists—always on important subjects. Can succeed as lawyers, artists, stage directors, managers.

August 29. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury. Money-minded. Want an occupation that brings quick results. Need an intelligent woman to encourage them. Apt to be over-critical, nervous, and worrisome. Unlike many born in Virgo, are attracted to art, music, or drama. If in art, develop a careful technique. Can commercialize any talent. Writers, philosophers, essayists, preachers, teachers. Can succeed as manufacturers or engineers. Should develop their gift of intuition for release from narrow-mindedness and their over-developed critical faculty.

September 27. Libra. Ruler: Venus. 8/28
 Interests usually venusian or literary—on the serious side. Many actors and composers in these dates. May be also fine teachers of art or dramatics. Keen sense of beauty, high ideals. When writing is chosen, often direct their efforts to political reform. Are broad and universal in their thinking; believe that people are naturally right-minded and idealistic. Always give others the benefit of the doubt. Have a spirit of good will toward all. A V & 3G M

October 25. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

m Great desire for affection; emotional life more disturbed than the majority of 10 ♦'s. Keep problems bottled up and endure their suffering in silence. Will not be hampered in work or dictated to in private life. Never take orders. Anxious to succeed—in reputation as well as money. Demand perfection from employees. Good and just leaders. Capable in science, architecture, mining and metalworking. Seekers. Write history, philosophy, metaphysics. If seek art—erratic, unusual.

November 23. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter. A A

Highly nervous; should cultivate mental balance and avoid capricious "excursions" that may invite obsessions. Influenced by others, but are a law unto themselves. Interested in a humanitarian cause and can teach it. May be unusually talented in music. Good government officials, lawyers, geologists, archeologists, chemists. Must work for humanity.

December 21. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter. or B A A / Q

Unlike the other Sagittarius, have fine mental balance and a strong sense of practicality—as well as a humanitarian spirit. Idealistic politicians or merchants. Work for the greatest good—and may become great themselves. Want all benefits on a universal scale. Successful writers with "uplift" philosophy; political reformers, philanthropic business magnates. May seek art or theatre but cannot go very far toward fame.

TEN OF CLUBS

| Clubs | — | Knowledge |
| 10 ♣ | — | Mental Illumination |
| 10 in ♣ | — | The Will to Good plus the Science of Mind |

The Mercury Card in the Crown Line (Mundane) displaces the J ♪ (Natural Spread).

As has been previously stated, the Crown, or "Sun," Cards have the privilege of choosing their position—but do not depart from the inherent qualities of suit or number.

The 10 ♪, being the first card in its line, is under the rulership of Mercury and is therefore conditioned by all that planet stands for: mental processes, approaches and reactions; ideas and communications; education and mind-training. Being Clubs, it symbolizes knowledge—its acquisition and dissemination. Regardless of the position under which it may "choose" to operate—together with an additional planetary influence—its basic "ingredients" remain.

The displacement of the J ♫ suggests the danger of fixation. The firmness in the J ♫ and adherence to principle are well worthy of emulation, but 10 ♫ can go astray through stubbornness.

Their greatest success invariably lies in the mental field. If their knowledge is applied from high motives, their needs are supplied from the "Limitless Substance"; there is seldom any real lack of supply, although they often fear limitation. They are looking toward the 8 ♦ in their own Line, and they should have no trouble in establishing a right sense of values. Again looking forward, the K ♫ gives power through wisdom.

The teachers and initiates of these dates may "choose" the 8 ♦ as their Jupiter Card and can make it effective in that position if they are reaching out for attainment in terms of the soul.

If they choose to work with a wider pattern, the A ♫ becomes the Mercury Card and the arrangement reads as follows:

K ♪	8 ♦	10 ♣
A ♪	3 ♦	5 ♣	10 ♪	Q ♣	A ♣	3 ♥

In this case, however, they may complicate the emotional life by their close proximity to the uncertain 3 ♥. In the educational field there would be no problems.

There is always the power to make money—but the effort is sometimes lacking. The gift of choice may become a source of confusion, for they can't always tell just where they are or should be operating. They want to be productive and successful, but if they have not reached the stage in their development where they can depend upon intuitional guidance, they sometimes waste many valuable years in experimentation before they find the right vocation. "Make your calling and election sure" said St. Paul—and he must have been talking directly to the 10 ♫.

The True Place is the Venus Card in the Jupiter Line. The gift of Knowledge is not the only star in their crown; in the Plan, Love shines beside it with equal brilliance—love of their work and love for those with whom they have come to share their knowledge. Those who are working in that consciousness are Jupiter's own heirs.

Planetary Sequence for the 10 ♪

Mercury Card. Want to make money quickly 8 ♦ as a means to freedom of action. A sense of security is developed through good management. A correct sense of values should be established early in life or will cause difficulty later on. The obligation connected with the right attitude toward money and its right use is clearly seen by referring to the True Place of this Mercury Card: Uranus in the Saturn Line!

Venus Card. Involved with a hard-working K ♪ person who may be a "slave-driver" but is usually a helpful (if disciplinary) force, and one of unquestioned wisdom. Full appreciation may come only in retrospect, but kindnesses will be remembered, and a fine harvest can be reaped from the association. Labor will come to be recognized as a necessary factor in development; wisdom will be sought as the most desirable of assets.

Mars Card. A sense of insecurity is felt in 3 ♥ friendships and the deeper emotional associations. Satisfaction in work is subject to shifts and changes. Marriage may be a trial or a great disappointment. Should make an effort to maintain friendly relations and always present a friendly front. Should be less skeptical of the motives of others. Are not well protected in lawsuits; settlements should be made out of court whenever possible.

Jupiter Card. Keenly sensitive to public opinion; fear criticism and disapproval. May be over-ambitious for place and set too much store by its value. Must realize that knowledge is their unassailable source of power and their greatest asset. There is often a lack of self-confidence, with no good reason for it.

Should make a point of cultivating good judgment.

Saturn Card. A female relative may be a ♦ source of responsibility through illness or lack of resources. Lack of personal freedom may be occasioned by the call of duty. May have a strong sense of loyalty; in others, it has to be cultivated. It is a requirement for these birthdates and will serve to offset the possibility of jealousy.

Uranus Card. Under this card the motives ♠ must be kept high and hard work never shirked if the objectives are to be attained. Difficulties and confusion result if the main objective is personal gain. Big business enterprises and important interests can be handled successfully if motivated by a desire for service. "Success in Labor" is the keynote of this card.

Neptune Card. Changes are accepted—and ♣ desired. Travel may be necessary and is usually welcome. In the later years, interest in people-in-general increases and opportunities for service cover a larger territory. In all contacts they have the chance to leave behind them something of value. Usually have a variety of interesting and congenial friends. Must not scatter their energies or forget that they are teachers.

Challenge for the 10 ♣:

VACILLATION IN THEIR SENSE OF VALUES

Birthdates Ruled by the 10 ♣

January 30. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

Very ambitious people, and fully equipped for leadership. Can excel in any line they choose, and should not be hampered by equal partnerships or associates from whom they must take orders. Always willing to work hard and always work for improvement. Art or science are the best fields, with government offices a close second. Exceptional qualities and unusual popularity may elevate them to high government positions.

February 28. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

Restless and changeable, and may suffer from people who are changeable themselves—and unreliable. May become famous in music, drama, or art, but often lack application and persistence. Subject to accidents through carelessness or daydreaming. Like travel and a variety of interests, but should guard against a tendency to laziness. Should seek advice in making investments.

March 26. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

Work well by fits and starts. Too apt to lose interest and abandon a project that gives promise of success through persistence. Like to lay out a progressive plan and leave it to others to execute. Want to make money quickly; not so good for the long pull. Work well with women as employees, not as partners. Good promoters. Good dealers or executives in artistic lines, but are seldom gifted as artists or performers. Cultivation of an attractive personality goes far toward success.

April 24. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

Responsible and protective. May become leaders through willingness to respond to the demands made upon them. Must be kings in their own homes. Like to be entertained and waited upon. Attracted to the stage—as actors. If business is chosen, want it big. Fair and honest in all dealings. Emotional and warm-hearted. Can write fluently and dramatically. If in a government position, more fatherly than dictatorial.

May 22. Taurus or Gemini. Ruler: Venus or Mercury.

Those who still carry the stamp of Taurus are inclined to acting, composing, and playwriting, and can easily commercialize their talents. The Gemini born are more mental than emotional or dramatic. These may succeed in the educational field, as critics or satirical writers, essayists, etc. All are affected by home conditions; inharmony interferes with ability to concentrate—and consequent success. Deep interest (Taurus) or curiosity (Gemini) in metaphysics.

THE CARDS

June 20. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

 Writers, lecturers, politicians. Should be before the public. Clever and versatile. Willing to give service if interested in the "cause." Like to deal with people and changing conditions. Always curious about what makes people (or things) "tick." Have ups and downs in finances. Often undertake more than they can carry through. Want business that is quick-moving, bringing quick returns. Liable to become overextended. Not as sure of themselves as the Geminis of May 22nd.

July 18. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

 Home life uncertain; often disturbed. Self-protective. Want to make a good impression and shine in the community, on the platform, or in the classroom. Self becomes less important in the later years and gives way to the spirit of service. May become absorbed in metaphysics and undergo a complete change of viewpoint. Health affected by emotions; suffer through disillusionment. Must work for impersonality. May inherit from family estate or be aided by some woman. Want technical perfection in their work.

HUNTER
MAY 1937

August 16. Ruler: The Sun.

 If high-minded, may attain great heights along spiritual lines. If connected with business, should deal with large corporations, handle big money; the majority have the right mental attitude toward their assets and use them generously and philanthropically. Interested in humanity—often in lost causes. Good counselors; can give practical as well as spiritual guidance. On the less exalted levels are good entertainers and showpeople.

September 14. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

 Restless, mental, curious. Often have inventive ability, arising from research. Good school teachers, accountants, investment counselors. Values usually referred to money. Like a fast-moving business, but become swamped with details. Good for publishing—if the distribution is left to others. Secretive about their private affairs. Better at developing an established business than initiating a new one.

October 12. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

 Emotionalism apt to interfere with good mental balance and strength of character. Should not work alone, but should avoid becoming emotionally involved with associates in work. Must keep home and business separated. Are domestic, magnetic and popular. May become well-loved figures in public life. Will not submit to limitation; will walk out if inharmony develops. Have a keen eye for beauty and line; make good architects. Can also succeed as artists, actors, lawyers, and judges. Must cultivate firmness and clear thinking.

November 10. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

 If not developed, will be opinionated, egotistic, dominating—even ruthless. Apt to think they are infallible in judgment. Too exacting with associates. Are strictly honest, but biased in opinions. Want to work for the good. Interested in intelligent people. May become absorbed in occultism; often psychic and impressionable by higher influences. Can diagnose intuitively. Make good public servants, reformers, writers, directors, scientific researchers. Protected financially.

December 8. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

 Interested in the ground. Can succeed in real estate and should own a home in the country. Must guard against becoming mercenary. Usually connected with considerable money. Attracted to banking, large corporations. If drawn to metaphysics, can go far as writers, reformers, educators, and religious teachers. Always executive and clear-headed. May become of great value to the community.

TEN OF DIAMONDS

- | | | |
|-----------------|---|------------------------------|
| Diamonds | — | Values |
| 10 ♦ | — | A Master of Matter |
| 10 in ♦ | — | A Leader in Material Control |

The Jupiter Card in the Jupiter Line (Mundane) displaces the Q ♦ (Natural Spread).

This is the most important of the money cards, for it is in the exact center of the Mundane Spread. Man chose to make money the pivotal point around which all else should swing, and selected the most powerful of the money cards to guarantee "success." The 10 ♦ is one of the Master Cards.

In the Divine Plan, Receptivity and Intelligence are at the focal point—and while these qualities are relegated to second place in the eyes of the world, the aware ones may "borrow" them by virtue of displacement.

The majority of these natives are money-conscious, but there are many who are, instead, value-conscious—a very different matter. They translate their "full accomplishment" into cosmic terms.

In general, there is a lack of true spirituality. The type of religion they profess is traditional and orthodox; the goal they prize is Acquisition. They are in great danger of becoming mercenary.

This is a better card for a man than for a woman; the men can avoid the Q ♦ and its unfortunate sequence. For both sexes, there is usually the promise of inheritance. They can always succeed and are always protected where money is involved. They may get down to the last dollar, threatened with loss of business or property—and then, by clever manipulation or last-minute help, turn the threatened failure to success.

If a man, will benefit by association with a successful woman; if a woman, is likely to be in business for herself or in a key position of management. They all like to associate with people who have something to offer—if not actual money, then position or social standing or family background. They are not necessarily snobs, but they want to stand well in the eyes of the world, and they want their surroundings to give evidence of prosperity.

Commercializing their abilities comes easily. If they engage in business, they never fear size or extent; they know they can handle it—and make it pay.

The True Place is the Mercury Card in the Uranus Line. There are few who lack keen brains and sharp wits, and while their education is sought primarily along business lines, they have great respect for knowledge and want to acquire enough of it to be able to take their place in any company.

There are many philanthropists and benefactors in these birthdates, many with a strong sense of universal obligation and a desire to put their money to constructive use. They are invariably generous with any surplus—and some there are who will deprive themselves to help the less fortunate. Great buildings, enterprises, and monuments have been established in their name, and many good deeds live after them. They are tested by their sense of values.

Planetary Sequence for the 10 ♦

Mercury Card. Can overcome all difficulties 8 ♣ connected with work or early training. Can succeed under adverse conditions and make them short-lived. If they make a start, they see it through; they never shirk or abandon a task because of its difficulty. They speedily discard things or people that hold them back. They have a gift for selecting what is useful and promotive. Must guard against any tendency to use relationships for their own ends.

Venus Card. Are socially inclined and like to A ♥ be popular with outsiders and very much loved at home. They want to be helpful—especially to their own friends and their own family. Family ties are strong. An early marriage is sought and they want many associations with the opposite sex in order to make a favorable selection. Marriage may come through correspondence or may be "arranged." There is a sincere desire for a love match—but it must also be one that has advantages of its own.

Mars Card. Usually have considerable physical energy, which may cover up an uncertain state of health. Inclined to be opinionated and argumentative—sometimes to show their ability to outwit the opposition. Good debaters, good trial lawyers; shrewd and technical. Should be careful to be ethical, also. Can drive a hard bargain, and seldom pay more for anything than it is worth—sometimes not as much. Getting a good bargain is regarded as an exciting game. Can be very successful in a mail-order business.

Jupiter Card. Have more security if associated in business with a woman who protects them. If a woman, can succeed through her own efforts (her own Jupiter Card), and seldom needs other help. Will gamble or take any chance that offers gain where there is a surplus to work with—but will never risk principal unless obliged to in an emergency. Influenced by some woman of wealth—either socially or in business. Want to be surrounded by people of good brains as well as good standing.

Saturn Card. Will make sacrifices for loved ones, and usually have some health problem to contend with—if their own, it may delay success; if another's, it may interfere with a cherished plan or objective. Apt to take many journeys for health reasons. Should conquer skepticism regarding the motives of others.

Uranus Card. Will seek psychic experiences 3 ♣ (usually secretly), but doubt them. Never quite sure of beliefs, but feel safer in being orthodox. Work better when in business for themselves; dislike taking orders. Will ask advice, but seldom take it. Have great faith in their own good management and sound judgment in business affairs.

Neptune Card. Not interested in things, people, or business at a distance. Uncertain about travel, especially in the later years; prefer to stay at home and keep their hands on the steering wheel. Averse to Eastern philosophies and religion; not sure of immortality, spiritualism—or reincarnation. Are skeptical of anything "foreign." Of all the 10's, should cultivate universality.

Challenge for the 10 ♦:

EXPEDIENCY IN ASSOCIATIONS

Birthdates Ruled by the 10 ♦

January 17. Capricorn: Ruler: Saturn.

Very patriotic. Excellent government officials: ambassadors, representatives, diplomats. Interested in sociological questions, state or federal laws, government procedure. If in business, usually for themselves. Self-confident in the business world—not in their emotional lives; changeable in feelings. Want to be associated with things that are well established; no gamblers. Can succeed in oil, mining, and manufacturing.

February 15. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

Famous actors, writers, and educators are found in this birthdate. Always have a large following; their works have a wide distribution. Personal lives disturbed by doubt and unrest. Make good salespeople, attorneys, and realtors. Interested in labor problems. Want spiritual security, but do not know how to cultivate it. Should make a determined study of metaphysics.

March 13. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

Less self-confident than other 10 ♫'s. Full of fears and worries. Build their world around their own small circle. Give willing service—but always personal. Can succeed in transportation; like travel, but seldom satisfied with journeys. Good musicians; may be good dancers. Dutiful and devoted nurses. Should serve in broad fields—impersonally. Lives often narrow and unproductive.

April 11. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

Square-dealing; honest. Nervous and emotional. Ambitious; dominated by a desire to stand well. Willing to serve, but want full payment. Need plenty of action to be happy. Not content with small or inactive business. Can succeed at law, but should not become judges; too emotional and biased. Swayed by personal opinions and fixed ideas. Very moral. Should avoid intolerance.

May 9. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

Want harmony at home and among friends. Want to stand well and put up a good front. Combine business with social activities. Ruled by emotions and ambition. Apply their efforts to accumulation. Make good doctors; have good "bedside manners." Can succeed in real estate, home furnishings, food. Not always as universally-minded as their birthday number requires. Climbers.

June 7. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

Want quick turnovers. Will work only if interested. Can lecture, teach—and make money at it. Can overcome the tendency to superficiality by cultivating the mind. Have a variety of skills. Give the impression of instability, but are often serious—even depressed. Uncertain of right place; will make many experiments before settling down. Can sell if they have faith in the product. A mental occupation best for success.

July 5. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon

Seek important and successful people as "background." Self-indulgent. Dislike too much work or effort. Expect help from others. Can be public-spirited and philanthropic. Writers, philosophers, art patrons, bankers, merchants. Like a "social" type of business—with short hours.

August 3. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

Perhaps the most ambitious, but surely the warmest-hearted of the 10 ♫'s. Want top place—but can fill it and give good service. Loved by their intimates; popular if in the public eye. Make good leaders and directors, top merchants, actors, and dramatists. Can commercialize drama; can always make a profit. Effective and dramatic writers. Appealing personalities.

September 1. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

Scientists and researchers. Can commercialize diet, health, beauty-culture, and cults. Motives usually personal; want good returns for all efforts. Careful and thorough in work; can usually command high salaries. Particular about appearance, good dressers. Willing to work very hard for results. Hate to soil their hands. Inclined to be critical. Must guard against selfishness and narrow-mindedness. Are "choice" and precise.

TEN OF SPADES

- Spades — Labor; The Path to Wisdom
10 ♠ — Success in Work and Development
10 in ♠ — Glorification of Labor

The Jupiter Card in the Mercury Line (Mundane) displaces the 4 ♦ (Natural Spread).

For these people, home and business are closely associated—and the one may seriously interfere with the other. They are often found conducting their business at home, hampered by constant interruptions and lack of application.

While 10's are Success Cards, the natives are not always successful people—even though they are invariably protected up to a certain point. This is especially true of the 10 ♠, for his achievement depends entirely upon the degree of maturity he has reached. Until thirty-six, he is usually operating (in the case of the men) under the J ♠; thereafter he may choose the King—if he has the spiritual ambition to seek a pattern of greater development. For the men of all cards up to the Court group, there are three planes of operation—the Birth Card, the Mental Card (J) and the Rulership Card (K). For the women there are but two—the Birth Card and the Personality (Q); if the Q is the Birth Card, there is, of course, no alternate.

The position of the 10 ♠ is similar to a Mercury-Jupiter conjunction: a combination of good mind and good judgment. We note that it is crowned by the 8 ♦, so these qualities may be especially operative in the realm of finance. That this is not always the case is due to the fact that we are not always aware of our "crowns," so fail to wear them.

In the majority of cases these people are successful in commercial lines. They are more stimulated when the turnover is speedy: mail order, telephone, messages.

Development, awareness—and especially the urge to seek the wisdom they have come to acquire—are often delayed until middle life. Operating under the J can and often does result in shiftlessness and irresponsibility; if that persists, the birthright is lost and the 10 ♠ goes down to a defeat that is all the more ignominious because of his high calling.

Home life may be neglected for business, or vice versa. The displacement of the 4 ♦ causes love and its security to be an important factor. Unnecessary sacrifices are made in its name, and a resultant self-undoing defeats the main objectives.

The A ♠ (the Mars force) is the Master Card for these 10 ♠'s. When the desire for wisdom is paramount, they may become Kings in their own right and assume full command over their material affairs. For the women, there is a greater problem: they may be weakened by negative operation under the Queen and may become household servants or drudges.

One is never sure of just what course these natives will take—nor are they always sure themselves. Their potential is great; their performance, often below the level of mediocrity. Working toward the K ♠—the highest of the initiates—may seem too distant a goal to strive for.

Planetary Sequence for the 10 ♠

Mercury Card. Willing to change their minds 5 ♠ if convinced of reasonableness. They do not have to work as hard for spiritual unfoldment as the 10 ♦, and will begin earlier in life. Make frequent changes because of dissatisfaction and a desire for improvement. A new viewpoint often brings gain, and they try to keep an open mind for friendly advice. The amount of progress in school depends largely upon the teacher; they will work hard for those they like; they will make a change if the personality is uncongenial.

Venus Card. Emotionally disturbed by conflicts in the home—often caused by financial limitation. This helps to give undue emphasis to money, and friends may be chosen from ulterior motives. They expect to work and prefer not to be dependent, but the uncertainty about what work to choose for the speediest returns often lands them in a job that is beneath their capabilities—and there they may stay for a long time, fearing to risk a better one.

Mars Card. This card is the test of their seeking. A ♠ If they are aware of the need for development, they could not have a stronger influence to set them on the path; if they are indifferent or ignorant, they become loafers or "time" workers—just enough to get by. In many cases there is a secret marriage or elopement; secrecy in some form is common to all of them. From a more constructive angle, this makes them useful in secret service work, and many reach the top in the Intelligence Department.

Jupiter Card. May be victims of professional jealousy—or may harbor it themselves. Are often called upon to help their friends—in money or work—and they usually respond, even at the expense of their own resources or energies. Health may be seriously affected by worry over finances, but they seldom admit this as the cause. Very close-mouthed about their business and personal affairs.

Saturn Card. Suffering is caused by others 7 ♦ or by outside conditions over which they have no control. An inherent sense of obligation causes them to assume others' debts when called upon. Whatever is owed is always paid, whether or not they are directly responsible—or whether or not it results in poverty. It all seems to hark back to the A ♣ and the course taken under that Mars influence. Many there are among them who leave their burdens to a Higher Power and escape all worry and limitation. They know they must choose between heaven in their hearts and earth-dreams in their minds. The only money cards in their Sequence are the uncertain 3 ♦ and the defeating 7—but they are crowned by the powerful 8, and the crown comes from above—the One Source of the wisdom they have come to earth to acquire. It is the Saturn Card, the Guardian at the threshold, which shows them wherein lies their defeat.

Uranus Card. A business that involves trading or travel is usually preferred. They are willing to endure inconvenience and discomfort for the sake of contacts and variety. Are drawn to groups and fraternities, but do not remain long in any organization; like to investigate many. May attain a high degree in Masonry. Interested in labor problems and have many followers among the working classes; make friends easily in these ranks. Should be very guarded in making investments.

Neptune Card. The later years usually bring J ♥ them contentment of soul, although sacrifices may continue throughout the life. Young people are important and stimulating. They retain their own youth until late in life and their interest in travel and the outside world.

Challenge for the 10 ♠:

AWARENESS

Birthdates Ruled by the 10 ♠

January 4. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

Can work well behind the scenes—as detectives, in secret service, or as confidential agents of the government. Can succeed in commerce and commercial projects on a large scale. Willing to work hard. Are dependable and strictly honest. Good managers of building and contracting projects. Are well fitted for a high government post, given the requisite educational foundation.

February 2. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

Interested in people—human nature, as ≈≈ a study. Writers, psychologists, sociologists, economists. May have outstanding musical talent, especially for stringed instruments. Attracted to cults and theories—technocracy, isms and ologies. Can go farther if they will cultivate more frankness; are often charged with untruthfulness. Are constitutionally secretive.

11 - JACKS - 11

JACKS represent Mentality. They are willing to learn by experience and may become a power through training the mind. On the other hand, they may become tramps and wanderers.

They make their living through their individual efforts: writing, composing, selling their ideas, promoting, advertising, or the type of journalism that involves foreign countries. They are always in search of experience or adventure. They represent Youth—and, from one angle, the neuter gender.

There are many superstitions connected with the Number 11, the correspondence with the 11th Card of the Little Book. By some it was called the Number of Evil because it transcended the number of the commandments and did not attain 12, the number of "Grace and Perfection." History and experience refute the stigma, and we have come to regard 11—as a number—as one of the most priceless gifts of the gods. It is man (1) beside God (10), eager to blaze the trail of return to Kether, the Crown.

Eleven (11) is the direct recipient of inspiration from the One Source: the preacher, messenger, and Light-bearer from On High. Eleven (11) is the number of the Path on the Tree of Life that is assigned to Aleph, the first Tarot Card, the Magician, in the direct line from Kether to Chokmah, or Will to Wisdom. It is the "Spirit" of Air—the "Divine Breath." It was not by accident that Jacks—11—were assigned as "ushers" of the Court Cards—the first inheritors of the crown.

Jacks carry a great responsibility, and because they are the symbol of two 1's (11), the disposal of their lives rests entirely on their own decision. They represent the mental attitudes of the Birth Card of their individual suits—and if we have gone any distance at all in the process of development, we know that our mental attitudes are wholly within our own control. We may rule them and earn our "crowns," or we may consign them to every wind that blows "where it listeth" and bask or struggle in a state of immaturity as long as we live.

Jacks are the "divine androgynes"—the Christ-nature toward which we are evolving—or the vacillating neuters who are neither one thing nor the other, incapable of decision or direction. In all of them, however, there is a certain fixity and stubbornness; when it is the result of maturity and applies to principle, it is a quality to be praised—but too often it is the expression of ingrained triviality, irresponsibility, and shiftlessness, the youth who must have his own way because he knows no better.

HEARTS win their crown through sacrifice for love.

CLUBS through the spoken WORD.

DIAMONDS through good guardianship of their birthright.

SPADES because they have chosen the path of initiation.

All are our elder brothers. All are sons of the King.

JACK OF HEARTS

- Hearts — Love
 J ♥ — The Christ Principle
 11 in ♥ — Examples in Love

The Jupiter Card in the Venus Line (Mundane Spread) No Displacement—a Fixed Card.

The J ♥ is the most "innocent" of the Jacks, but not the most immature. This card is the symbol of the Christ Principle—Christ on the Cross, the One Who Sacrifices. Among all the cards, and especially among the Jacks, these are the Way-Showers. They have come to show that Truth resides in all of us and makes us kin—and that forgiveness on the part of all toward all is the only way to universal love. This is a Master Card, placed at the center (Jupiter position) of the Venus Line.

J ♥'s are essentially teachers. Their power lies in the Law of Love, and their commission is to preach its gospel. To do this effectively they must live it—and the path they have to follow is not made for easy going.

It is natural for these people to develop a martyr-complex, for good or ill. When they have learned the folly and weakness of this attitude of mind they abandon it, but martyrs they actually are, especially in youth.

Up to eighteen there are many sacrifices demanded of them—in love, in education, or in cherished objectives. If they are sufficiently developed to learn and grow and profit by them, the personal disappointment is mitigated. Between eighteen and thirty-six, the plan is for training in dedication. To "leave all and follow Me" is an exacting command for the young in heart, whose lives are attuned to the principle of love. Many there are who cannot go through this period in strict obedience, even though they may be well aware of their destiny. If they can and do, after thirty-six they may operate under the King and encounter fewer obstacles and frustrations in their personal lives. If the "dedication" is delayed, it does not mean that it must be abandoned for all time, but that the intervening period will bring heartache and disappointment. The hardest lesson for those children of love to learn is impersonality. If they cannot choose it in early life, they must learn its value the hard way.

These teachers are symbolic of Christ in the Temple. We can scarcely expect to find many who measure up to their Example—but even though it may require many earth-experiences to bring them to full awareness of their pattern, they are all on the way, and there are no J ♥ natives who do not have qualities that are worthy of emulation or who have not endured sacrifices in the name of an unselfish love. They may not be published—or even apparent—but they exist, and by their hidden beauty they help to raise mankind to a higher level of development.

There are "negatives," of course, among these birthdates: careless, thoughtless, or indifferent escapists who seem to contribute nothing except the problem of themselves—but they are invariably kindly, friendly, and cooperative. They never bear grudges and never leave you worse off than they find you. At their worst they have something to commend them.

Planetary Sequence for the J ♥

Mercury Card. Early education may be interrupted or partially sacrificed for the sake of some member of the family. When this is the case, they will accept it cheerfully and pursue their studies on the "catch as catch can" principle. They are mentally inclined and learn easily from what they see, hear, and read. Mere attendance at school seems to them of little importance. They surmount their obstacles or disregard them.

Venus Card. Emotions are easily disturbed and frequently assailed. Trials and disappointments in the home life are a big factor in this difficult path. There is usually a lack of understanding and cooperation. The life may be interfered with by ill health of some member of the family. Marriage is not apt to be satisfactory emotionally, or some unforeseen problem in connection with the marriage partner may have to be met. The J ♥ people are continually tested in their love life.

Mars Card. Want companionship and work 2 ♥ better in association with others. Like to mingle with those who are well informed and learn quickly from them. Friendships are important; if they are broken, the suffering is keen. That is where their natural optimism does not serve them well; they are slow to recover from severed ties. Are very responsive to friendliness in work-associations; usually well served by employees.

Jupiter Card. Success comes mainly through K ♥ their own efforts, but may be helped by a friendly person who is mentally congenial. Should keep the management of their affairs in their own hands and not doubt their ability to handle them. Have a certain amount of self-confidence, but are fearful of expansion and experiments. May become more venturesome as they grow older.

Saturn Card. May reach a position of leader- K ♦ ship through their own merit or efforts, but do not seek publicity or the spotlight because of it. Modest and unassuming; seldom ambitious for fame or place. May have a hard-headed father who may try to force their career into an uncongenial channel—notably medicine. The majority are not well adapted for drugs or surgery but often make good magnetic healers and metaphysicians.

Uranus Card. A further emphasis on the 6 ♥ Christ Principle. Succeed best in some humanitarian pursuit and are usually attracted to it. Dislike changes and may get into a rut by refusing to make them. Should not submit to uprooting, however; can work more smoothly and successfully if they become firmly established in one place. If working for others, very loyal to the job and the employer. Usually popular with co-workers.

Neptune Card. The later years are more successful and more comfortable than youth or middle age. Apt to come into their own toward the end of life. May become directly in touch with higher forces—often clairaudiently. Will enjoy travel and lecturing or teaching. May have great success as teacher or leader in some religious movement or spiritual work. Mental awareness increases with the years.

Challenge for the J ♥:

SUBLIMATION OF SELF

Birthdates Ruled by the J ♥

July 30. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

Loyal and high-minded. Become stubborn when opposed. Have a universal attitude of mind and do spectacular and dramatic things. Are good promoters, scout leaders, heads of youth movements; interested in improvements and advancement—both in business and in bettering the conditions of workers. Must be the center of authority. Seek prestige through large gestures and projects. Go to extremes. Attracted to manufacturing on a large scale, to law and journalism. Can succeed on the stage, but prefer a career that is more practical and productive.

August 28. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

Neither the Leo nor the Virgo natives of the J ♥ are as much influenced by their sign of birth as by their Card. Leo chooses business more often than the stage; Virgo chooses poetry, writing, and music rather than research, science, or a clerical job. The Jack seems to give them an urge to reach people and give them the message that is in their hearts. They are sensitive and need much approval—which is not always forthcoming. They yearn for beauty but are not quite artists; they write, but cannot fully or easily express all they have to say. They suffer in their personal life and often retire into themselves and their own "gardens," allowing the world to call them hermits.

September 26. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

Here the composers, writers, and actors run more true to form. They also excel in sculpture, bronze, marble, silver, and wood. Better suited for any artistic line than for business, although make good lawyers and diplomats. Idealistic, but have an eye for the main chance—and always take it.

October 24. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

Whole-souled and concentrated in whatever they do. Go "all out" for knowledge, or for love. Much interested in the opposite sex and should marry young. Good organizers and executives. Natural creators, and put the stamp of their individuality on their work. Can succeed as writers, actors, or physicians. Want to convert the world to their own ideas.

November 22. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

More interested in leadership and prominence than the other Scorpio birthdate. Self-willed and self-determined. The women have masculine minds. All should guard against a tendency to ruthlessness in the attempt to drive home what they believe in and want to force upon others. Believe they are right, however, and want to work for general good. Quite the strongest of the J ♡'s. Very nervous. May be fanatical in religion or their own brand of philosophy. Must seek balance. Can succeed in music or writing.

December 20. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

Torn between service to humanity and an urge for personal success. Meet extremes of poverty or wealth. Religious, humanitarian. Lawyers, politicians, healers, publishers, psychologists.

JACK OF CLUBS

- Clubs — Intelligence
J ♣ — THE WORD—Spoken
11 in ♣ — Mental Inspiration

The Venus Card in the Uranus Line (Mundane) displaces the J ♦ (Natural Spread).

This is a Card of Memory.

As a rule, these people have this gift in an extraordinary degree. Such a wealth of knowledge is stored within them, they naturally turn to teaching, writing, or speaking. They give out willingly, but apparently are none the poorer; their position in the Uranus Line keeps them well replenished.

In reality, this is a card of the future. J ♣ is a symbol of the androgynous state toward which the race is evolving. For that reason, the present manifestation is often neutral—a situation that causes confusion and maladjustment to present-day society. Many of the women (especially) of these dates fail to marry; the majority have masculine minds and habits of life. They are seldom domestic, never "clinging vines," and have little patience with pettiness or vanity.

For both sexes, the lack of establishment on the side of so-called normality causes them to worry over their inability to make prescribed adjustments, and they are apt to seek unusual attachments which are unwise or discrediting, as well as disappointing. These they take very seriously; their need for love is absorbing and never quite satisfied. They must cultivate good mental balance to steer clear of neuroses. Their True Place—Mars in the Jupiter Line—assures them of protection if they work for it.

The only kind of work that is congenial—or durable—is in the mental field. When they are forced into menial tasks, they are unhappy and inefficient. They must express themselves—or suffer. There is a terrific drive to give out what they know and to keep learning more and more. It is a tragic thing when these people are deprived of a good education. They will add to the knowledge they have intuitively, no matter what obstacles must be overcome, but they are helped on their way by a good educational foundation.

Negatively, there is irresponsibility, idle curiosity, and escapism into a multitude of unfortunate or discreditable by-paths that are far removed from the wisdom they have come to seek and to preach.

They succeed best with an occupation that involves contacts. People are highly important as outlets for their abilities and as companions to fill the gap of their loneliness.

In the larger sense, J ♣ is the neophyte—the young soul seeking for wisdom, the inquirer (or wanderer) who is full of uncertainty between eighteen and thirty. They are often skeptical and shifting in beliefs; they can put their knowledge to work for them, or they can live by their wits. They must definitely establish themselves between thirty and sixty if they are to enjoy the remainder of their lives. The close tie with the J ♦ enables them to do this successfully. The ground on which they can rest with security is the mental ground; their weapon against all obstacles is knowledge.

Mercury Card. Worry over money disturbs 9 ♦ their equilibrium—and may seriously interfere with their early education. They are free spenders and find themselves faced with sudden losses. They may be hampered by a dominating female relative (mother or sister) and should never be raised by the grandparents. They need youth around them—a spirit of development and growth. They are impressed early in life by the need and importance of money.

Venus Card. Marriage does not promise much 7 ♠ happiness or satisfaction; the adjustments are apt to be difficult, or an incompatibility insurmountable. They have great love of home, but find so little anchorage under the paternal roof, they seek one of their own. They are often saddled with illness of relatives, wife, or in-laws, or impoverish themselves by helping some friend out of trouble. They should live as calmly as possible—without disturbance or excitement. Nerves and health suffer from commotion. Should not live near the water until older.

Mars Card. Should strive to rid themselves 2 ♠ of a fear complex which seems to be congenital with the majority. Given to arguments and disputes—mainly to elicit knowledge for use. When spiritually inclined, much is revealed to them and can be passed on for enlightenment. The displaced A ♦ gives the clue to the elimination of their fears. The true seekers will naturally gravitate toward metaphysics.

Jupiter Card. Benefits are always derived K ♠ from a willingness to assume responsibility, and there is frequently some young male who presents the opportunity. Their knowledge can be “exercised” with a definite objective—to their mutual advantage. If a woman’s card, she may marry a man of high intelligence, one associated with politics, law, or business on a large scale.

Saturn Card. This card is both a protection J ♦ and a warning. It is especially important, inasmuch as it is the Displacement Card. Their living must be made by their own efforts; wandering and idleness have no part in Saturn's plan, and it is only through work and application that success is assured. The life must be well regulated; the mind must be well balanced; the associates must be chosen with care. Legal matters must be handled cautiously—avoided, if possible.

Uranus Card. Much good will come through 4 ♡ developing an interest in occultism. Here they can acquire helpful and lasting contacts; here they can establish inner harmony by a spiritual approach to the hidden truths that are their birth-right. In work, friendliness is comforting and rewarding; responsibility toward work is productive; an increased desire to serve is soul-satisfying.

Neptune Card. Their best years come after 4 ♦ forty-two. Money may be provided by inheritance, insurance, or the fruits of their own past efforts. Foreign interests are successful; travel is agreeable and remunerative. Business and pleasure are often connected with foreign countries, and their last days are seldom spent in the place of birth. Perhaps late—but the mission is fulfilled.

Challenge for the J ♣:

FEAR OF ESTABLISHED WISDOM

Birthdates Ruled by the J ♣

January 29. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus. 4 ♡
Born with occult knowledge. Will succeed if they like their work—not otherwise. Good knack for handling people. Humanitarian and enjoy helping others. Can reach a high place as writers, scientists, philosophers, or government officials. More attracted to these lines, or to lecturing and teaching, than to business.

February 27. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune. 4 ♠
Restless and inclined to discontent.
X Need contacts and variety. Not good at routine jobs. Fine promoters, receptionists, interviewers. Great mixers, in any society. Inclined to a mental career—writing, poetry, journalism—but often have talent for music or acting. Very socially minded. Become depressed when shut up with their own families or deprived of active occupation. Interested in investments—property, oil, etc.

March 25. Aries. Ruler: Mars. 2 ♈
Speedy in movement, nervous (or touchy) in reactions. Often feel "put upon" or "unlucky." Have a tendency to shift blame to others. Are fine arguers and debaters, but apt to become quarrelsome. Do not make adjustments easily or optimistically. Strong personalities; influential as writers, agitators, speakers. Want a voice in what goes on. May have some outstanding talent—even genius; if the latter, are stormy and erratic, difficult in private lives. Valuable people when they use balance and control.

April 23. Taurus. Ruler: Venus. 7 ♉
Self-concerned and self-indulgent. Have trouble (women especially) with the opposite sex. Health may be a problem. Willing to work hard for objectives, especially in art or music. Interested in politics and always dramatize their part in it. In-laws apt to present problems. Want a home of their own—and dominate it. Must watch the "rule or ruin" tendency sometimes found in Taurus. Attracted to theatre or pictures. CAN be good rulers or leaders.

May 21. Taurus or Gemini. Ruler: Venus or Mercury. 7 ♉ or 7 ♊
The Taureans make fine actors, playwrights, or directors. Good livers and spenders; good entertainers. Gemini natives are more gifted in writing (journalism or editing), teaching, and selling. Need a fast-moving occupation. Fine lawyers (trial). Slow to reach maturity, and always remain young. Good linguists. Both keep late hours. Both have many friends and admirers among the opposite sex. The Gemini-born take their loves lightly.

June 19. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

 Restless and dissatisfied, but more practical than the other Gemini birthdate. Always some problem connected with love or marriage. A karmic date, demanding philosophy and understanding—which they often lack. Home important, but often live alone or share it with one who is not congenial. Want marriage for what it will give them; take a job for what it will pay. Should cultivate a sense of service. Not favored for journeys or investments. Good brains, good writers, speakers, or actors.

July 17. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

 Strong family feeling. Influenced by women of means. Sensitive and talented—especially in art and theatre. Usually get good support in business. Ethical, not spiritual. Have an eye for the main chance. Can succeed with small articles for general use. Are interested in local politics and whatever affects their own community. Inclined to be too centralized and narrow-minded. Have periods of extravagance and penuriousness.

August 15. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

 The theatre—as usual for Leo—is a good avenue for success. These people work better alone and seem to be thrown on their own resources for best accomplishment. Should be given full authority in their chosen field. If the talent lies in music, are fine orchestral directors. Family responsibilities always heavy. Can commercialize any artistic talent. Extravagant and generous—and want recognition. Protected financially. May choose banking, merchandising, publishing. Are good lawyers where oratory is an asset.

September 13. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

 Mental and analytical. Not especially glamorous but would like to be. May be too timid for adequate faith in their own abilities. If not, make brainy, efficient directors of public affairs. Good sense of values from a business angle. Good accountants, realtors, economists. Lack vision and imagination. Nervous; should avoid stimulants. Idealistic but skeptical. If talented, will make art pay. Easily bored if in a subordinate position. May be too hard-headed.

October 11. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

 Very intelligent. Must guard against triviality. Want popularity, and do much to deserve it. Enjoy being before the public. Usually have a sideline or hobby that is more absorbing than the chosen profession. Anxious to make money from their own efforts. Learn—through hard experience—to commercialize what they know. Illustrators, commercial painters, advertisers. Go in for sketches and impressions. Make compromises at the expense of their ideals. Can succeed as lawyers or brokers.

November 9. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

 Should always avoid stimulants; become quarrelsome. Emotional and intense. Make excellent actors. Early life may bring problems in home conditions. Succeed as authors, researchers, and psychologists; also dentists and physicians. Should avoid gambling; cannot win in the long run. Have secret fears and forebodings—seldom revealed. Interested in art as dealers or patrons. Often associated with politics.

December 7. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

 Original in thought and plans, but need help to carry them out. Must keep all transactions strictly legitimate. Nervous, wandering, unconcentrated. Must learn to commercialize their abilities. Escape from inharmony. Skilled in stringed instruments. Good architects, politicians—sometimes actors. Popular writers and journalists. Can easily become negative and unproductive. Set in opinions. A law unto themselves. Women often found in men's jobs—and prefer them.

JACK OF DIAMONDS

Diamonds	— Values
J ♦	— 1. The Trader—for Material Gain 2. The Worker who lays up Treasure in Heaven
11 in ♦	— Inspirational Guidance in All Values

The Neptune Card in the Uranus Line (Mundane) displaces the 3 ♪ (Natural Spread).

The nature, disposition, proclivities, and qualities represented by this card take the prize for variety and peculiarity. J ♦ is wholly material, highly spiritual, or a curious and incomprehensible mixture of the two.

If they are operating directly under their own Birth Card, they are well aware that hard and continuous work is a requirement for success; the displaced 3 ♪ is their assurance for that. They are ready to sell anything for money or value—and some there are who will sell their own birthright. They want money, and always find a way to get it; they are mentally keen, sharp, and clever, and are always looking for the thing that pays off. Spiritually, they are invariably confused. They want their own kingdom, but have not reached the stage where they can assume kingship. If opportunities for gain are not at hand, they will wander off to foreign lands and keep a sharp lookout as they go—or will drift through life and live by their wits, usually managing to get by.

Their entire Sequence is in the Neptune Line, which always allows a choice between idealism and confusion. The cards in that Line offer stability and power—and we seldom find a J ♦ who lacks money and protection. The Birth Card itself—a Uranus-Neptune conjunction—gives free play to the intuitions (for good or bad), and an unparalleled chance for spiritual illumination; when they realize it and accept it, they are well on their way to the kingly state. When their fixed ideas (J) get in the way, their material affairs may still flourish, but their spiritual security is lost for this incarnation.

We find many who make valuable contributions along spiritual and humanitarian lines. In the case of men, it is most likely that they are operating under the King and have earned the right to their crown. The women would do better to stick to their Birth Card and avoid the emphasis on the Personality (Q), with its difficult Sequence.

The majority of these natives love the sea; many of the men follow it as a profession—but even if they make their start as deck hands, they often, by "trading," end by owning the ship.

They must have a profession that is productive; they must also have an outlet for their rare gifts of originality and creation. They are top executives in business, diplomatic agents and go-betweens, successful bankers, publishers, and advertisers. Once they learn how to judge values, they are indispensable to progress.

There is often difficulty in choosing the right profession. The idea that it must lead to financial success may block the expression of a great talent.

Planetary Sequence for the J ♦

Mercury Card. Make friends easily and enjoy them. Are well liked by business associates, but seldom accept them socially. Early contacts do not hold except in rare cases. May be flirtatious or frivolous in social life; stable, concentrated, and hard-working when it comes to business. Want a good education, but will not allow it to interfere with earning. Apt to marry young. In early life they prefer home to travel.

Venus Card. Interested in successful or financially helpful people. Like to associate with those of good background. Usually make enough money for their own satisfaction, but are always provided for whether or not they earn it themselves. Like to spend money, especially for clothes. Always well groomed; the women like to look expensively dressed.

Mars Card. Work well in association with 2 ♠ others, especially men. Like someone with whom to discuss plans and ideas, but usually keep their own to themselves. Very tactful, and refuse to take sides in controversies. Reserve and silence may develop into secretiveness. Use reason and logic; interested in law. If not an attorney, can still defend themselves and their rights.

Jupiter Card. Power in friendships, and can 8 ♥ always get help from friends—for whom they will assume responsibility. Will use their charm of personality to promote business advantages. Will be executives in business or will go into business for themselves. Often interested in hospitals, new methods of healing, progressive measures for welfare.

Saturn Card. Health usually uniform. Un- 6 ♣ favorable condition may be gradually built up without warning; in that case it lasts a long time. 6 ♦ is a card of intuition; under Saturn, there may be difficulty in following it unless there is great awareness to start with. J ♦ will often fight it through fear of becoming involved with psychism. There is a great longing, however, for peace of mind. Home or work may be monotonous if it does not offer any mental stimulation.

Uranus Card. Will work in the same concern 6 ♪ for a long time or, if out of work, will stay out many months before finding another position. The combination of the two 4's and two 6's would militate against changes. In many cases, the original chosen profession is followed throughout life. In later life may follow a hobby which becomes even more productive.

Neptune Card. Attracted to women of ma- Q ♥ ture years. If a woman, may be visionary and idealistic but will be a good talker, well able to put herself across. If a man, may marry one of this type (second marriage). Develop an urge to write in the later years, and usually succeed with it. Writing, if any, usually concerns travel, to which they are strongly drawn. If they continue to work—no retiring or wandering—security in old age is assured.

Challenge for the J ♦ :

RECOGNITION OF MENTAL-INTUITIVE POWER

Birthdates Ruled by the J ♦

January 16. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

Good, practical sense of values. Associated with important business as officer or executive. If working under the King, will command a high salary. May get into a rut because of the security of their position. Travel in the interests of others, but have a voice in the decisions. Good government officials (especially ambassadors) or high-ranking officers in the armed forces (especially naval).

February 14. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

Attracted to the theatre as actors or playwrights. Good musical or dramatic critics—but seldom kindly ones. Women may be drifters, idlers, or opportunists. Many are conscious of a message to be given. If drawn to metaphysics should beware of psychism; often open to invasion from wrong forces. Restless; depend on their personality to win their way. Good writers.

March 12. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

Interested in spiritual growth. Poets, idealists, metaphysical teachers. Can develop direct communication. Always expressive. Interested in fraternal and occult orders. A strong card financially. Do more good with their money than the majority of J ♦'s. Writers, composers, actors, dancers. Also druggists, travel agents (steamship), restaurant managers.

THE CARDS

April 10. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

♈ Clever at investigation. Interested in politics and like to "manipulate" and pull strings. Work well with others—usually with a personal motive. Know the ropes and can use them. Good promoters. Know how to use money effectively. Fluent speakers and writers. Keenly observant.

May 8. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

♉ Writers, poets, civic leaders (political), realtors, and wholesalers. Always have money and want more. Succeed in working with the ground—oil drilling, cultivated acreage, or building and contracting. Ambitious for big business and recognized leadership. Protective of family and personal interests. Usually have an artistic or musical hobby.

June 6. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

♊ Scientists, lawyers, educators, journalists. Good mixers, good talkers. Personal contacts bring the best results for business. Like to sell articles and equipment for home use. Interested in communications: telegraph, telephone, radio, etc. Often operators. Like home better than travel.

July 4. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

♋ Must work hard for results. Like travel but can't always manage it. Deal in public utilities, food, home accessories, soda fountains, bakeries, etc. Torn between a desire for responsibility and an urge for escape through travel. Good teachers of adults. Ambitious for leadership.

August 2. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

♌ Actors, novelists, commentators, playwrights can succeed with this date. Make good also at banking, trading, insurance, and physical culture. Like to be their own bosses and make money through their own efforts. Can always make money by working, but prefer devising systems for getting it with more speed and less effort.

JACK OF SPADES

Spades	— Labor, Wisdom
J ♠	— A Neophyte in Wisdom
11 in ♠	— Revelation of Wisdom

The Uranus Card in the Mars Line (Mundane) displaces the 7 ♦ (Natural Spread).

This is one of the Fixed Cards—a symbol of fixed and unalterable principle. For the individuals however, there is no sure fixity within themselves, for the struggle and obstacles represented by the 7 ♦ often are too much for their immaturity to cope with, and not until they operate under the King do they acquire the wisdom that makes them know which are the things that "endureth forever" and which are not.

There are certain things they do know, however, and finally come to realize. They know that they must pay off all karmic debts—and not contract new ones; that there is no admission into the Kingdom of Heaven until the accounts are settled; they know that resurrection is the thing they want and (subconsciously at least) that they are the heralds of the gospel of rebirth and the abolition of death. They know that Jacks, Kings, and Queens are the hierarchy of authority and that they must learn to take their place among the crowned ones. They are neophytes, to be sure, but are already ordained, with the grade ahead of them clearly marked as the only road to their attainment.

Will they make it? Many there are who do, with honor and glory. Among the positive ones, no matter how gifted or successful they may be, there is a certain modesty and humility that bespeak their awareness of the fact that they are but learners and strivers—but there is also a certain dignity that is born of recognition of their high calling and the sure knowledge that they will one day reach their goal. They have equipped themselves with education and training in the line in which they are best fitted to express their abilities; they have worked for the art—or the job—rather than for the paycheck; they have refused to worry and strain for money or personal success, for they know they are giving their best to their work, and that the intentions behind their actions are right and honorable.

The negatives destroy the protection that surrounds the J ♪ by shiftlessness and irresponsibility. They are subject to scandal and disgrace, to misinterpretation of their motives, disappointment in their friends and lack of achievement in their work. They fail to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities provided by their Sequence and unless they wake up in time, they end their days in loneliness and the overhanging fear of poverty.

The men of this Card should always aim to reach the King. The women, unless aware of the true significance and place of the Queen, fare better when they stick to the Birth Card. There is ample room for success in the Line. They usually have a masculine type of mind, and they can attain their own place among the High Ones if they take the trouble to provide the necessary foundation. If not, and if they choose to operate through the Personality Card, they are apt to become servants or drudges.

Planetary Sequence for the J ♪

Mercury Card. Intelligence is a natural gift
8 ♣ —and an inner conviction that knowledge is power. The majority want a good education and will work for it. Many are aware that "knowledge comes but wisdom stays," and wisdom is the goal they are after. Few meet with serious obstacles in youth, and if they are bent on obtaining a good education, they will acquire it. Spiritual insight develops early.

Venus Card. Home life is important, but not 6 ♦ always easy or pleasant, because of the many obligations connected with it. There is stability, but also the possibility of getting into a rut unless they keep active and progressive. Marriage may be disappointing because of a conflict of objectives. Friends are loyal and helpful.

Mars Card. Work well with others, especially 4 ♠ with groups of men. They soon find their place as "older brothers" and are attracted to groups and clubs whose objectives are rendering service to the human family. They are good planners and good executives; usually follow a well-defined and carefully laid out course.

Jupiter Card. Business is usually based upon 10 ♥ friendly contacts, and help from friends can always be counted on. They can sell their wares or themselves by a friendly approach. Love is important, and they are blessed when they have the devotion of one person upon whom they can rely.

Saturn Card. This is an inheritance card.
10 ♦ Often have money they have not earned at their disposal. Success may be delayed through ill health, but any work connected with health is sure to succeed. Make fine doctors.

Uranus Card. Have a gift for handling people and can depend on loyalty from employees. The more developed their intuitional power, the more successful they become. Real estate is especially favored; also big business and important corporations.

Neptune Card. Have a keen interest in foreign lands and people—from personal attraction as well as a cosmic obligation. Travel is agreeable and satisfactory. Love interests are often involved with it. The latter days are usually in line with the heart's desire.

CHOICE OF OBJECTIVES

Birthdates Ruled by the J ♠

January 3. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

Must overcome materialism—also personal ambition for the limelight. Despite their marked ability as writers, scientists, and physicians, a great many of these natives are attracted to the stage or pictures and acquitted themselves well. The Birthday Number aids them in expression; the Sign and its Ruler give them seriousness and application.

February 1. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

Even more theatre folk are found in this birthdate—as is usual for Aquarius. Here is more emotional power, more individuality, and a keener sense of progress as a part of the new order. These are specialists in their chosen field: acting, music, writing, or science.

12 - QUEENS - 12

QUEENS represent the spiritual nature of man and the principle of birth—not death. Their authority is equal to that of the Kings, proving that true rulership is both masculine and feminine. They are the receptive, intuitive, and cooperative aspect of royalty.

The alliance of Queens with the 12th position in the scale of numbers gives evidence of their importance in the plan of creation and the universal application of their symbolism. Queens are co-rulers of the 12 signs of the zodiac and the 12 houses of the planets. Of the planets themselves, 10 are known and it is prophesied that 2 are still to be discovered. The 12 Simple Letters of the Hebrew Alphabet are also connected with the 12 signs in a relationship which is one of the secrets of the Rosicrucian doctrine—as is the full significance of the “12 Grand Points of Masonry.” The total number of the Court Cards is 12, but Queens as 12 have a special significance of rulership over the 12’s that deal most directly with our mundane experiences: signs, houses, and months of the year.

In none of the pictures of the Queens do we find the swords or battle axes with which the Kings are armed. Their only “weapons” are the flowers they hold in their hands: symbols of fecundity, fertility, and the “blossoming” of prayer, desire, and hope. The privilege of conception, embodied in the Queens, applies not alone to the increase and population of the children of earth; they are the makers and projectors of the principles upon which laws are founded and upheld. Recipients of the Fires of Life, it is the Waters or “Mothers” who are to conceive and bear into form the Expressions of the Divine Mind.

Equality of rulership is as old as the “Little Book,” but it took a waste of centuries for us to recognize it! In our own country it was not until 1920 that women were given the vote—and some years later that they were allowed to sit among the jurors and pass judgment. Queens are the true judges, for they alone, by their gift of receptivity, have conceived the principles of judgment.

HEARTS judge and rule by the principle of love. They promote the dreams, conceive the desires, and see the visions of a world of joy and peace in the union of kindred hearts and the doctrine of universal brotherhood.

CLUBS judge and rule by intelligence, intuition, and good judgment. Directly “instructed,” they are sure of their ground and secure in their knowledge.

DIAMONDS judge by values—apparent or unseen. They are sometimes insecure on their own thrones.

SPADES judge by willingness to work and the degree of eagerness and devotion in the quest for wisdom. They are the disciplinarians.

QUEEN OF HEARTS

Hearts	— Love
Q ♥	— A Magnet for Family and Friends
12 in ♥	— Love and Justice toward the Human Family

The Neptune Card in the Neptune Line (Mundane) displaces the 10 ♫ (Natural Spread).

This is a card of beauty, magnetism, affection, and idealism. Inherent in it is so much that is wanted and needed in the world, it is almost a pity to have to mention the faults and pitfalls that are expressed in the lives of its natives. The women represent the much-loved mother, the sweetheart, the indispensable sister, or the adored daughter. The men are gentle, sensitive and creative, sympathetic and understanding. If we did not always have that inevitable negative to deal with, this would be the most desirable Card in the Little Book.

The women are invariably attractive, with a strong appeal to the opposite sex. When they trade on it they are flirts; they want constant flattery, good clothes, and good times; they may become lazy, frivolous, and whiners.

The men may easily be too gentle (to the point of spinelessness), too self-indulgent, too feminine, too unbalanced, and sexually indeterminate. The escapists of both sexes have a drink problem to contend with.

All of them are popular and hospitable, social-minded, or cosmic-minded; cooperative and appreciative; generous and faithful (as a rule); just and honest. Almost invariably they are talented in some artistic line; if they cannot express in some art form, they listen and appreciate it. They are intense and dramatic and capable of deep devotion.

They are attracted to a professional type of work or to marriage. The women seldom make a success of both at the same time. Contacts are very important, and they should never live alone. They are interested in foreign lands and people, and take them to their hearts as readily as their own. They are tolerant of others' customs, ideals, and modes of life. They are "shining" people, optimistic, friendly, and comforting.

Even the undeveloped ones have their charm and usefulness, for though they may not be aware of their potentialities or the importance of their cosmic mission or their obligation as defined by their True Place (Saturn Card in the Venus Line), they never willingly cause heartache or distress, and their flirtatiousness and triviality are harmless.

They have the privilege of choice, since they proceed directly to the Crown Row. They may fill in the "blind spots" or may follow the Sequence of their own pattern. This, of course, applies only to those whose Birth Card is actually the Q ♥—not to the woman who may choose to operate under it as Personality.

They are impressionable and receptive; many are psychic and mediumistic. There is a strong streak of religion in all of them.

Even when we should, we don't like to find fault with them; they are too loving and desirable.

Planetary Sequence for the Q ♥

Mercury Card. Early in life they show an in-10 ♣ quiring mind. There is need for a good education and mental discipline; if this can be obtained, they go much further in later life. They have ability to express their thoughts in words. Are fluent writers and talkers. Like things to move along swiftly and pleasantly; if they lag, so does their interest.

Venus Card. Can always make money in a 8 ♦ venusian occupation: art, beauty, adornment, etc. Money is pretty much taken for granted, and is usually available for choice surroundings, good clothes, and enough diversion to keep things interesting. If it does not arrive through their own efforts, it will be handed down by the family or acquired by marriage. They are seldom snobbish, but they prefer to associate with those

Mars Card. Rather stubborn—in a nice way
K ♠ —and set in principles. Get their own way by persistently adhering to it. Like to work with positive, mature, and powerful people. Mental attitudes and decisions are affected by those in close association. They enjoy debates and arguments and usually win them, without making enemies. Learn by absorption and observation.

Jupiter Card. Emotions often interfere with 3 ♥ business. May be very undecided about choosing an occupation. Want to be well liked and may become involved with the wrong people—to their cost. Interested in aiding those in need or trouble.

Saturn Card. May suffer disappointment
A ♣ through failure to attain their cherished objectives. Often pursue a desired career without sufficient talent for success—or sufficient application to learn the technique. Must be willing to make a serious effort toward a solid foundation. Through a desire for service, may become interested in nursing or healing. The career may be checked because of illness in the family.

Uranus Card. Through this receptive and in-
Q ♦ tuitive card in the Uranus position, those who are attuned to metaphysics can attain much power in this line. They work best with intelligent people and realize intuitively that they contribute to their development. Can become leaders in movements and causes. Have ample opportunity to develop their judgment and mental discrimination. Should choose their associates with great care.

Neptune Card. This card is of special import-10 ♠ tance because it is their own Displacement Card. It gives strong emphasis to neptunian ideals and interests. It is too strong a card to invite confusion, and there is only a self-imposed limitation to the development of spiritual understanding. Travel is usually desired and is educational and satisfactory. They may deal with foreign countries or foreigners in the later years. Old age is usually well provided for; their power to overcome all difficulties increases.

Challenge for the Q ♥:

EMOTIONAL DISCONTENT

Birthdates Ruled by the Q ♥

July 29. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

Many of these people are ardent reformers, sincere religionists, and unselfish philanthropists—but they all have exaggerated egos, and very nearly all are megalomaniacs. They simply MUST be kings—and woe to the man (or woman) who disputes their authority, questions their opinions, or offends their ego! Those who can work off this childish complex in the theatre (where many are found), or as the head of some religious or educational institution, are easier to deal with in social or family life; but with the majority, those in close association with them must toe the mark—or else! They are too high-strung for their own (or others') good. Very successful musicians, authors, and merchants, as well as actors.

August 27. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

The least frivolous and flirtatious of the Q ♥'s. Mental and critical, but willing to see their own faults as well as others'. Will sacrifice for a good education. Forget themselves in working for causes or digging for facts. Good business managers for others; efficient and executive. Writers, publishers, philosophers. Overdo service.

September 25. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

Often talented in art, but have more success as patrons or dealers. Good judges of quality and value. Collectors. Good beauty operators. Can succeed in law or politics. Exacting in family life. Writers, dancers, poets. Are fond of form and ceremony, especially in religion.

October 23. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

(The last degree of Libra; may be, but rarely is, a Scorpio birthdate.) The most positive of the ♀'s. Stubborn and impulsive. Demand personal freedom. Retain youthful appearance to old age. Intuitive but inclined to materialism. Good government officials, agents, lawyers, salesmen. Love art but cannot commercialize it. Are successful in lines where the personality counts. Dynamic and impressive. Not well adapted for medicine. Like to feel wanted and needed. Very emotional.

November 21. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

Mentally keen. Inclined to suspicion. Disciplinary toward others. May have disturbing fears and doubts. Borrow trouble; do not realize their own capabilities. Are better friends than marriage partners. Should avoid selfishness and self-pity. Hard-working and reliable as employees, but want key positions. Suited to educational work, music, preaching, government posts. Emotional and religious.

December 19. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

The most difficult date of all ♀'s. Suffer in the emotional life; may have some physical affliction to contend with. Good recuperative power and (usually) long-lived. Hardships may be overcome after maturity. Need a working philosophy to get by. Are well suited to public life. Mental and nervous. Attracted to mechanics, science, radio, chemistry. Can succeed in business but always approach everything from a scientific angle. Discontented with themselves—and others. Should cultivate optimism.

QUEEN OF CLUBS

Clubs

- Knowledge
- Q ♣ — Mental Receptivity, Intuition
- 12 in ♣ — Mental Balance

The Mars Card in the Mercury Line (Mundane) displaces the 3 ♠ (Natural Spread).

All Queens represent the receptive principle and man's spiritual nature. The Q ♣ emphasizes mental attitudes and approaches as well; whatever is "received" is relayed through the mind; the spirituality that is expressed is balanced, wise, and logical.

These people are far removed from the yearning aspirants who take their religion prayerfully and tearfully. They know (or they should know) that they are always in direct contact with the higher Forces of Intelligence, who are using them as channels. They seek their knowledge from that Source, and they apply it to their work with all the mind-power at their command. When formulating their judgments, they use their brains rather than their emotions.

In their personal lives they cannot seem to apply this sharp cleavage between heart and mind. The displacement of the 3 ♠ makes them uncertain in their associations, and often subjects them to disappointment and heartache in their closest relationships. Always positive and strong of will; when suffering comes, it is deep and lasting.

In the application of their knowledge they are practical and decisive. Their intuitive power never fails them when it comes to work or service. Their True Place is in the exact center of the Divine Plan, and from that point all that concerns their mission radiates. Their quest for knowledge is insatiable and they are impatient and intolerant of ignorance or mental laziness in others.

They want complete freedom of action and will brook no interference from others. For that reason, coupled with "heart" uncertainty, many avoid marriage—especially the women. When they make the experiment, it often fails; they don't know the meaning of Subservience. There is in these women, however, an element of cosmic motherhood; they symbolize Mary, Mother of Jesus.

Besides the deep urge for a personal love, they want money for the respect and freedom it brings. They are generous and good spenders—and they usually make ample money by their own efforts.

They are leaders in any profession they follow—and it usually is a profession rather than a business. Among the men, those who follow business are apt to have women associates or partners.

The majority need to cultivate tolerance—although they seldom lack sympathy—and firmness in handling their own tempers.

Intuitively they are far ahead of their time. They are inventive, creative, and inspirational. They are essentially people of the New Age of intelligence, scientific progress, and the ability to see through and beyond the veil that has long hidden the truths that are soon to be revealed.

Planetary Sequence for the Q ♣

Mercury Card. If the business is fast-moving 10 ♣ or if in a profession, success comes quickly. These natives size up people and situations quickly. The willingness to work is a requisite for accomplishment, but this Jupiter-Mercury combination is a great asset. May seriously consider marriage in early years; if they do not marry young, may not at all; if they do, may marry again later on. Are just as well off, usually, if they avoid it.

Venus Card. Like to associate with those of 5 ♣ good brains and quick wit. Subject to sudden changes, for good or ill. Love may be a cross through illness or disillusionment. Often change their minds about what they really want—or may have a fixed objective and meet with delay in carrying it through. Subject to changes in the home: travel or removals. Like variety and diversion and pursue it if not too burdened by family uncertainties.

Mars Card. Not sure of relations with others.

3 ♦ Have a sense of insecurity about business and the future. At certain periods in the life there is a tenseness or limitation about money. Need security and will seek it. Usually manage to hit on something that is productive and that gets them out of a rut. Apt to have two or more irons in the fire at the same time. A choice is difficult, and experiments are made before finally deciding.

Jupiter Card. There is a strong desire for oc-

A ♠ cult manifestation. All Q ♦'s have a "brought-over" knowledge of these laws, and the majority want to know how to apply it. When their knowledge is used to attract money, the results are unfortunate. Sensitive about their own affairs. Business interests or connections may be involved with sickness. Many become fine physicians.

Saturn Card. Suffer through the injustice or 7 ♥ imposition of others. Easily defrauded.

Lose money through taking the advice of friends or through loans. May be hampered by a concealed illness; should avoid overwork. Must guard against a tendency to jealousy, possessiveness, and a desire to dominate.

Uranus Card. Want to own their own home;

7 ♦ always interested in investments in real estate, mines, etc., but are apt to lose money if the venture is at all speculative. Keenly interested in metaphysics. Will spend freely for courses of study, equipment, and anything that contributes to the value of their business. Will deprive themselves to supply their work with the best tools. Are impatient with inefficiency in employees; work hard themselves and dislike paying wages to loafers.

THE CARDS

Neptune Card. If they have not been able to 5 ♠ accumulate money, work may become burdensome in the later years. Want travel and changes, but cannot always indulge in them. Often need rest and relaxation instead of work. May change the occupation or location after fifty. Usually more protected by love and companionship late in life than earlier.

Challenge for the Q ♣:

SACRIFICE FOR HUMANITY

Birthdates Ruled by the Q ♣

January 28. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

Many of these people are subject to confusion in the home life and make a breakaway from home as early as possible—or desire to. Should try to clarify their sense of values. Are sensitive, set, and difficult to deal with. Feel they are not understood. Often talented, but may not find an outlet and are forced to work, instead, at some uncongenial occupation. Highly emotional; not well balanced. Must control the inclination for stimulation; are dangerously over-stimulated naturally, in most cases. Should avoid dealing with earth or its products; no real estate, mining, etc. Make good dramatists, teachers, aviators, explorers. Restless.

February 26. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

Have an urge for travel, but seldom enjoy it. In many cases it presents obstacles or danger. Work best behind the scenes—in hospitals, secret service, as confidants or diplomats. Good understanding of human desires and foibles. Excellent writers about people. Many are inclined to religion and philosophy. Versatile and inventive. Can succeed in pictures if talent is confirmed. Love affairs disappointing.

March 24. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

Attracted to politics and finances. Make good economists, financial advisers, brokers, government officials, or officers in the armed forces. Ambitious, hard-working. Nervous and touchy. Quick to take offense. Are loyal to friends and their interests. Should have a specialty.

April 22. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

(Sometimes Aries, with a Mars rulership—but seldom.) Mainly interested in those having a special type of knowledge, similar to their own. Uncertain of their own beliefs; change their viewpoints and opinions. Set in their feelings and cannot be coerced. Have an urge for service, but do not know how to satisfy it. Strong likes and dislikes. Usually talented, especially in music. Will sacrifice for family and chosen favorites. Seldom contented. Indulgent—often lazy. Well fitted for public life and should give service. Good for designing, decorating, landscape gardening.

May 20. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

Many talents and abilities. Always a good business head; attract money. Legal type of mind. Intuitive and inventive. Inclined to secrecy. Intense in emotions, but hide it. Must be at the head of own affairs; never subordinate. Should avoid domination and possessiveness. Need changes and contacts. Can reach the top in their profession. Keen appreciation of music and drama; often fine performers at both. Definitely on the metaphysical wire.

June 18. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

Often succeed in the theatre or pictures, but are better fitted for a mental occupation. Good for law, politics, accounting, literature. Like travel; want things to move fast. Ambitious for success rather than money—but are money-conscious and may be penurious. Often win distinction. Change home frequently.

July 16. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

♋ A karmic birthdate. Are usually interested in a humanitarian cause. Should be in public life, before the footlights, or writing on subjects that concern public interests or welfare. Must guard against selfishness—also narrowness in viewpoint. Fine journalists and commentators, novelists or historians. Need a good education. Many study law as a step to politics. May have a strong religious bent. Interested in cults and philosophies.

August 14. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

♌ More mental than the majority of Leo natives. Very keen for money and like to take chances to win it. Usually successful. Want to be leaders—and may overreach themselves. Wonderful people if developed. Restless. If in the theatre, should try for road engagements. Good at buying and selling. Attracted to the opposite sex, but uncertain about their love affairs. Not always happy in marriage. Are creative in mental fields.

September 12. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

♍ Excellent technicians, in art or the laboratory. Mental and practical. Good in journalism, architecture, botany—any science. Technical lawyers, corporation counselors. Not interested in the earth (farming, etc.) except for chemical analysis of soil or experiments with plants. Not easy or fluent writers or speakers, but interested in literature. Can succeed as publishers or advertisers. Have a keen judgment of literary merit and business methods. Good theoretical psychologists—not counselors.

October 10. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

♎ Gifted as artists, actors, and composers. Are restless and ambitious. Not often contented until they reach the top. Demand personal freedom. If willing to submit to training may become important lawyers or leaders in their special field. Less soft and amenable than the majority of librarians. May be prolific writers, especially on religion or philosophy. Are seldom domestic. If disappointed in love, will make no effort to rebuild.

November 8. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

♏ Productive and executive. Good financiers, heads of corporations, insurance brokers. Dramatic and magnetic. Hard to convince, but when they are, become ardent converts—and go too far. Often have a sense of importance that is ill-founded. If talented in any line, will work to reach the top—and mow down anything that stands in the way. May easily become ruthless. Intense and dynamic in whatever course they follow.

December 6. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

♐ A cosmic card. Interested in humanity. Fine teachers—especially of metaphysics. Have unseen protection in work, but lack security in their personal lives. Money usually a problem; must work hard for what they get. Eager for knowledge—to pass on. Will spend for classes rather than for home or self. Connected with health problems; burdened with responsibility. If undeveloped, will be crafty and secretive. Are mental, nervous, and sensitive. Know they must serve.

QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

Diamonds	—	Values
Q ♦	—	Desired Domination in the Realm of Values
12 in ♦	—	Balanced Judgment of Worth

The Mercury Card in the Saturn Line (Mundane) displaces the 3 ♦ (Natural Spread).

This is one of the most difficult cards of the entire 52, and the leader of an exacting—often gruelling—Sequence. There is a test given for every step of the way, and since the main concern is judgment of values and the accepted “translation” of the word is Money, these people are born with and live with an all-absorbing money-consciousness from their first breath to their last.

The entire Sequence, up to the Neptune Card, is in the Saturn Line; every card in the Displacement Line is a Diamond: our Mundane Pattern is operated from a Diamond Center, and Queens, in their own right, are endowed with rulership and control. Would it not be logical to expect that the Q ♦'s would have unlimited money at their disposal? And have they? In a few rare instances these people have acquired or inherited wealth; the majority go through life with an ever-present money problem, if not actual limitation.

We find the answer in Saturn. To that agent of ageless wisdom, values do not mean money. As soon as the natives of this Card learn that priceless lesson, their problems are solved. Learning lessons that are based upon laws, however, is accomplished only by those who consciously and deliberately seek that special knowledge. What they want for themselves becomes subservient to what is wanted by the Plan for the whole of mankind. We have only to hark back to the divine commands “Let the Waters (Diamonds) bring forth abundantly,” “Be fruitful and multiply and have dominion,” and, finally, “Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven.” On the money-level, some of our greatest philanthropists are Q ♦'s; in the world of art, some of our greatest poets, painters, and musicians have contributed their “wealth”; in the realm of religion and metaphysics, some of our greatest teachers and way-showers. They have all learned what values are.

The path is a hard one—so beset with obstacles and difficulties that those who are on it must use all their strength of will and energy of body to overcome them. If they know no better and care no more than to remain on the lower levels, there is no escape from toil and disappointment. The women are the greatest sufferers, for there is no alternate for their Birth Card; the men should, if possible, follow the Jack or King: either one of these patterns offers easier climbing.

These people are fitted for authority and should have it. Because of illness or responsibility, they may be forced into uncongenial work—which becomes an added burden. They are diligent and dependable, strong of character, and determined. They must guard against hardness and sharpness of tongue, domination and self-will. They have much to contend with and much should be forgiven them—but they are also much to blame.

Planetary Sequence for the Q ♦

Mercury Card. Attitudes and feelings change 5 ♥ frequently—also the home location or the desire for travel. Restlessness makes them want to leave home early and establish themselves elsewhere; incompatibility with family may contribute to discontent. There is a certain financial security in early life which is not so dependable later on. A tendency to fickleness should be checked.

Venus Card. Difficulty and uncertainty about 3 ♣ choosing friends, environment, and career. Want to associate with people of intelligence, but oppose their ideas and opinions. Disturbed if are unable to put up a good appearance. Will make sacrifices for loved ones and carry their burdens.

Mars Card. Will work hard for a good salary, even though the work may be distasteful. May get into a rut for fear any change might result in less income. Should avoid legal matters unless the situation is well defined. Always uncertain about work associates. The women should never go into business with their husbands or assist in their offices. Problems are sure to result.

Jupiter Card. Technically, this card means "loss of time in the pursuit of happiness"—even though, in prediction parlance, it is the "wish" card. There is not much chance for jupiterian blessings in emotional lines that involve close relationships. Friends may be reliable and helpful, but they are also likely to be expensive. Have difficulty in raising money when needed. Will help others but cannot help themselves. Uncontrollable circumstances present obstacles.

Saturn Card. Illnesses are often induced by worry. A 7 ♦ person would be helpful in case of trouble. There is enough money behind them, but it is not always available. It is well to bear in mind the meaning of the 7 ♦. If its underlying principles are followed, many of the difficulties are surmounted. It is wise to keep away from the atmosphere of illness whenever possible—no nursing or medical career. The study of metaphysics will solve many problems.

Uranus Card. Business interests are often at a distance. Travel may be helpful. Can buy or sell land or property for a quick turnover. Restless in the given occupation and want to change it, but often remain where they are for fear of risk. The overcoming of worry contributes to business success. May make ill-advised changes; should weigh all angles carefully—but avoid remaining in a position that offers no chance for growth.

Neptune Card. The later years may be influenced by a woman who is hard-working, executive, and an extensive traveler. May marry late in life one who is a world traveler or who has achieved a measure of fame—or may travel for such a person. There is more security in finances than in earlier life; may even acquire or inherit considerable wealth. This is a better card for a woman than for a man. In the case of the men, there is apt to be domination.

Challenge for the Q ♦:

DESIRE FOR FINANCIAL SECURITY— AT ALL COSTS

Birthdates Ruled by the Q ♦

January 15. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

Conformists to orthodoxy, but want enlightenment. Money much desired but always a problem. Uncertain in faith. Fear of the future and worry over it—which interferes with work and health. Strong of will and purpose. Are never weak characters. Fair, honest, and cooperative. Mental. May have unusual writing ability—especially along dramatic lines. Good head for business; good government officials. Experiment in religion.

February 13. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

Can never find happiness or themselves until they work for humanity. Creative and inventive. Actors, writers, musicians. Good brains and keen wit. Want changes but find them unsatisfactory. Personal life confused. Must conquer desire to escape duty or personal problems. Can succeed in science or radio.

March 11. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

Love music and dancing; can often succeed at either or both. More universally minded than many Q ♦'s, more willing to serve without pay. Good propagandists; write or work for causes. Seek government position for the sake of reform. Seldom given due credit for their work. Inclined to criticism. Become more positive and efficient in later years. Must be content to remain in the background.

April 9. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

♈ Must learn to keep an impersonal attitude toward work associates. Emotional involvement destroys their power. Need stability. Want to be officers or leaders. Pioneers in politics, cultists. May be talented in music, writing.

May 7. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

♉ The most talented of all Q ♀'s—in art, music, or drama especially. Work for education or public interests. If not performers, are good directors, producers, or impresarios. Idealistic—often poetical. Intuitive. Drawn to metaphysics. Women like clubs, circles, sororities, etc. Contribute to success of those they love.

June 5. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

♊ Self-concerned, fickle, restless; not always dependable or responsible. Refuse to allow interference with personal plans or desires. Can succeed at nursing, traveling, salesmanship. Make easy contacts; want constant change and variety. Are unable to make up their minds. Good lawyers. Must have freedom, variety and movement.

July 3. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

♋ Want security for self and family. Good leaders in clubs, welfare movements, collections for charity. Are concerned for children (P.T.A.). Succeed in dress shops, food merchandising, teaching; often good entertainers. If in a medical line, good doctors for women and children. Can promote what they believe in.

August 1. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

♌ Most ambitious and self-important of all Q ♀'s. Believe they are supreme in authority; think others should work for them. Like changes and business journeys. Will not take responsibility if it interferes with their plans. Good negotiators, promoters, office managers. Magnetic. May have dramatic or musical ability. Should cultivate unselfishness and strength of character. Must learn to deserve leadership.

QUEEN OF SPADES

Spades	— Labor, Wisdom
Q ♠	— The "Crown" of Labor
12 in ♠	— Organization of Service to Humanity

The Mercury Card in the Uranus Line (Mundane) displaces the 10 ♀ (Natural Spread).

Together with Q ♀, this card represents cosmic motherhood. These two Q's are the Mary and Martha of the Bible. The Q ♀ sits at the feet of the Teacher that she may learn; the Q ♀ runs His household and smooths His pathway that the Source of Wisdom may enrich the world unhampered. Both of these cards are closely connected with the 10 ♀; both are centers in the Divine Plan: the Q ♀ as center of the Natural Spread, the Q ♀ as center of its Crown Line. For the Q ♀ this is often the source of her troubles.

Q ♀ people have come to lead and direct; they are co-rulers with the highest authority: the K ♀. When they find themselves in a subordinate position, it is galling and irksome to them, for they know they do not belong there. That, however, is exactly what happens to those who are operating negatively. They symbolize the household drudges, caretakers, janitors, or menial servants of the world. They work hard and are ill paid; they live "down to earth"—ignorant of true values, incapable of intelligent judgment, lacking in vision, despairing of the future. They are high-strung, nervous, jealous, and antagonistic—and usually mercenary.

Even among those who are aware of their supremacy, there is a conflict as to how it shall be expressed, and it often results in a dictatorial attitude and disciplinary insistence when it comes to dealing with others.

They have good mental balance, right judgment of values, eagerness for service, and a willingness to work without sparing themselves. They know where they belong, and they are continually struggling to get back to the "Crown."

They are usually in business for themselves and will hire out anything they dislike to do. They are excellent managers for others. Intuitive, impulsive, and independent, they are valuable contributors to the highest type of accomplishment.

Planetary Sequence for the Q ♣

Mercury Card. Quick minds and ready learners. J ♣ The early life is often influenced by the attitude of the father or older brother. Restless and inquiring, they are apt to make many experiments before settling on a career. They usually recognize the necessity for mental training.

Venus Card. The women like to spend money 9 ♦ on the home; the men want an impressive office. Love affairs—and often marriage—are disappointing and expensive. Marriages go to pieces over financial difficulties. Many do not marry at all. Should not lend money to friends if they expect to collect it. May develop penuriousness.

Mars Card. Under this card a high degree of 7 ♠ intuition may be developed. If these people have become frustrated, this is often neglected and various neuroses are implanted. Should avoid the law, but must train their minds in logic and reason. The power of overcoming is at their disposal through the Displacement Card. Should strive for a workable, practical philosophy. Pessimism will react unfavorably on health.

Jupiter Card. This is the warning to eliminate all fear in the pursuit of wisdom. 2 ♣ Knowledge—divine or secular—is earnestly desired as the passport to taking their rightful place, but those who are mainly attuned to earth are often afraid to reach out for heaven. Under Jupiter, the fear extends to money and their material blessings, as well as to the higher protection which is theirs by right. Where money is involved, there is a tendency to quarrel. They will always gain by stressing cooperation and uniting with those of high intelligence. If operating negatively, they will fear these people.

Saturn Card. Teaching and healing are the K ♣ strong points under this influence. The women, as a rule, have masculine attitudes of mind and habits of thinking. Both sexes make good physicians—never oversympathetic, but well grounded in knowledge and skill. Must guard against secretiveness and concealment of the things that should be brought to light. Those who habitually misrepresent can become outright liars. Apt to be associated with a doctor or a teacher who is hard-headed.

Uranus Card. Spiritual enlightenment or restlessness and triviality are offered by this card. There may be an inspirational association with a writer, or their own gift for writing may develop. Men are usually preferred by both sexes as work associates. If they work with the ground, will gain success with large companies or those dealing in real estate. If inclined in that direction, they will be aided in developing inspirational writing.

Neptune Card. A satisfactory marriage may be made late in life. Security and freedom from worry are indicated for the latter days, with more positiveness than is usually the case in early or middle life. Travel may be indulged in with satisfaction and benefit. They have a tendency to live near the water or travel on it. As spirituality increases—which is likely under this influence—they come into fuller recognition of their own power and place. Sincere and direct mediumship may develop and become a part of their service.

Challenge for the Q ♠:

Birthdate Ruled by the Q ♠

January 2. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

K N.B.

The best field is education; the best teaching, philosophy and religion. If these people remain wholly commercial or confine their interest to economics, they fail in their destiny. May have talent for writing, seldom for art. Good servants of the people, government heads.

KINGS symbolize the positive, masculine, activating principle in humanity; they represent aggressiveness as initiative—not combativeness. They are endowed with authority and rulership, but their number in the Little Book indicates that they have not sole authority. Between their 1 and 3 stands 2, the mother or the Queen. Before initiative (1) is expressed (3), it must be nurtured, formulated, and given a body as principle. The Kings, therefore, although they occupy the highest place, are but co-rulers, like the Queens. Without the spiritual vision furnished by the Queens, their "people" would "perish."

13, by reduction, is 4: the builder of the foundation and the layer of the cornerstone. There are 4 of these Kings, and 4×13 , or 52, is the number of "pages" in the Little Book. In any 4 there is always a potential 22—the Master Magician, the transformer of ideals into realities.

As with the natives of these cards, mystery and misconception (as well as negative or evil expression) have been built around the number. Thirteen (13) is the number of two Hebrew words—Love and Unity—and among the wiser ones of old, these qualities, together with their number, were held to be sacred. It is only a Christian superstition, derived from the tragic defection of Judas, that gives to 13 the label evil or "unlucky." In the lives of many of our "Kings" the harmful superstition has done its work, since we invariably and inevitably express what is built into our consciousness.

Kings are the Jacob of the Bible: the founders and fathers of the 12 (tribes) who were entrusted with leading the "children" to the Source of All Good. In the Hebrew Liturgy there were 13 logical rules for interpreting the law, and this is actually the task of the Kings of the 4 suits.

Kings are usually kindly people, sympathetic and understanding. In the Sequence they may represent the father or an older brother, not a son.

They know subconsciously that their power depends upon cooperation; in whatever line they follow, their best work is done in partnership. They always have a sense of authority, but it seldom leads to domination. If operating negatively, they can be very antagonistic and quarrelsome.

HEARTS rule by love. They are pleased when their deeds bring blessings, but they let others take the glory.

CLUBS wield their power through knowledge. They know that mind-development is the surest road to progress.

DIAMONDS "have dominion" over all "substance." Theirs is the power of distribution.

SPADES rule by wisdom. They are the guardians of Divine Law, initiates who have earned their crowns.

KING OF HEARTS

- Hearts — Love
 K ♥ — "The Beloved Disciple"
 13 in ♥ — Conjugal Fidelity, Paternal Love

The Mercury Card in the Mars Line (Mundane) displaces the 2 ♦ (Natural Spread).

We cannot fully understand these people without duly considering the True Place of their Card: Uranus in the Venus Line. The front they present to the world is kindly, friendly, and magnetic. They give an impression not so much of power as of peace, protection, and "safe harbor." Within, however, they have power over "the greatest thing in the world"—divinely bestowed, inspirationally expressed—and they know that that kind of power is invincible. When they are living true to themselves and their mission, they never have to fight for place or recognition, nor do they want it; they are fully content to be agents and reflectors of the Everlasting Love that, knowing all, forgives all. Theirs is the mission of John the Divine.

The problems they meet in life are indicated by the card that usurps their True Place: the 9 ♦. They are brought to them by others or by circumstances beyond their control; unlike the majority of cards (and people) they seldom manufacture their own.

With all their sweetness and amenability they are very positive—not from stubbornness, but because they are sure of themselves and of the principles for which they stand. That is their only "fixity." The other Kings express their consciousness of rulership; not so the K ♥. They feel it is unnecessary to proclaim anything so self-evident and indisputable.

We do, on occasion, find them quarrelsome and overbearing. When that is the case, it is not so much the evidence of negativity as a problem for the psychologist. They displace the 2 ♦—a Fear card. They are constantly meeting with disappointment in others, are frequently deceived or betrayed. The weaker ones will naturally build up a fear neurosis and will, also naturally, express it in attempted domination and quarrels as a measure of defense. Like any other mental sickness, it needs treatment rather than condemnation. They can be readily cured. The women especially need to take warning. When they begin to express their nervousness in bossiness and a tendency to "rule the roost," it is the signal for a hurry call for the psychologist.

By nature they are the most desirable people on earth and the most worthy of love. They will respond to any call for help from any quarter—and you can forget to thank them if you choose; it will make no difference. They are the heart and center of family life, the friend and harmonizer in work associations. We scarcely know if they want to be Kings; we are glad to let them be, for they play the part so beautifully. When we meet them on their own ground and tune in on their love and kindness, they never bring us anything but joy. They are human and they can fight when confronted with hatred or ugliness, but even then they are pretty sure to "make allowances." Despite all this, they are never weak.

Planetary Sequence for the K ♥

Mercury Card. There is a conflict here between heart and brain. These people are not sure whether their feelings or their common sense should be allowed to dominate. Due to indecision, they may allow themselves to be influenced by the wrong person. If they go into business early, it will be with someone who has sufficient means to finance it. If a woman, she will marry a man who has money or is connected with law, politics, or large groups.

Venus Card. To all K ♥'s, peace of heart is the most desirable thing on earth. They want security in surroundings, but more than that, they want security in love—and they want it to last forever. They keep their friends a long time and are never responsible for breaks if they occur. This is the card that is allied to the Christ Principle, and that is the platform upon which they stand in their relationships.

Mars Card. Mentally active and carry it into 4 ♦ their work. They are thoroughly efficient and practical in business. They like to mix with men and enjoy an exchange of ideas. The desire to study and learn is strong, but they do not always apply what they know. They want books around and may be encyclopedias of stored-up knowledge—and do nothing about it.

Jupiter Card. Interested in partnerships, especially where money is involved. Amenable to the ideas and suggestions of others. They like trading, merchandising, buying, and selling. Work well with large manufacturing concerns, also with personnel. They want a business that is progressive and active, but are not agreeable to drastic changes.

Saturn Card. Problems are presented by people who are irresolute or self-indulgent. May be drawn into the wrong company through such an influence. If attracted to medicine, will become a leader in that field. Will enjoy training or working with a doctor who is advanced in his profession. For the sake of sound health, these people should avoid carelessness in diet and late hours. They need much sleep.

Uranus Card. This card always endows with 8 ♣ power through knowledge. In the Uranus position intuitional gifts are added. There is a strong inclination to spiritual development; they instinctively are attached to metaphysics. May become spiritual or philosophical teachers. Want to give out their knowledge to those less instructed than themselves. Good leaders and teachers of groups.

Neptune Card. Despite their desire to think straight and judge correctly, these people are often confused in their sense of values. They know they must pay all debts but are disturbed about their karmic obligations. They often regard their problems as evidence that they have not met them. They suffer from disappointment in themselves. The latter days are secure but may seem monotonous to some of the Birthdates. There are few journeys or changes, but if they travel to a foreign country they will remain a long time. Long journeys for the sake of travel prove disappointing.

Challenge for the K ♥:

EASY-GOING INACTIVITY

June 30. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

Intuitive, sympathetic, and vital. Not lazy, like many cancerians. Interested in service to young people. Should marry early; may become selfish later on. Good teachers, preachers, lecturers, and counselors. Have a gift for oratory; could succeed on the stage. If interested in music, better conductors than performers. Like approval and an audience. Inclined to be self-satisfied.

July 28. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

Very successful as actors or directors; naturally drawn to the theatre. Often have musical talent. Must be leaders in their own field—and are usually fitted for it. Good army officers. Much concerned with humanity. Social welfare workers, propaganda writers, progressive group leaders. Can commercialize any talent or ability. If engaged in merchandising or publishing, will succeed at it. Like big projects.

August 26. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

Torn between an urge for service and a secret desire for recognition. Are never small, but want to be bigger than their birthdate prescribes. Love nature, out-of-door life, and animals. Good veterinarians, diagnosticians, miners, contractors, chemists. "Heavy" writers — usually with a message. May become important in industry or as under-officials in government. Excel in scientific lines. The early years may be disturbed by the father.

THE CARDS

September 24. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

Law, science, and statesmanship are the best occupations for these natives. May get into a rut and stay there. Unhappy alone. Should marry young. Kindly and indulgent parents. Spiritual and emotional. Will compromise for peace. Can succeed in textile designing, architecture, or commercial drawing. More scientific than the usual libran, but keenly interested in art and beauty. May have talent for acting or singing.

October 22. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

Mental, sensitive, and idealistic. Better actors than September 24, more dynamic. Become ill through inharmony.

Good sculptors, carvers, musicians, painters. Love home, children, and dogs. Should be in public life. Need to be alone to build back their energy. Seldom orthodox but always spiritual. Psychically sensitive.

November 20. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

Strong intuitions. Go to extremes. Positive and self-assured. Fine judges or lawyer-statesmen. Dutiful, dependable, executive. Not always successful in marriage; it may bring burdens. More apt to suffer than other K ♀'s. Interests apt to be dual: two marriages, two homes, two occupations, etc. Succeed in real estate.

December 18. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

Restless, nervous, and undecided. Should cultivate a talent for an outlet—preferably music or acting. Interested in philosophy, religion, literature, publishing, and travel. Could succeed at any of these. Make money, but do not always keep it. Honest, just, philanthropic.

KING OF CLUBS

Clubs	— Knowledge
K ♣	— Maturity in Knowledge
13 in ♦	— Discrimination and Balance in Knowledge

The Uranus Card in the Uranus Line (Mundane) displaces the 2 ♦ (Natural Spread).

This is a card of ripe judgment. Kings have passed through the various tests imposed and are equipped for control of the field assigned to them, with the ability to pass on to others the results of their training.

By nature, K ♀'s are spiritually minded, although forceful and often hasty and aggressive.

When their knowledge is applied on the higher levels, they become physicians or spiritual healers. When they are chary of their gifts and inclined to barter or debase them, they become hard and self-centered, unsympathetic, and incapable of rendering service to others or of achieving any further growth for themselves.

By position, the type of knowledge inherent in these people is not only of the conscious mind or efficient brain, but is also occult in character. Uranus opens doors of understanding, and when there is a power card in that position, we have only to walk through the door and discover for ourselves what lies on the other side.

The True Place—Saturn position in the Jupiter Line—bespeaks the obligation to act as Teacher and Counselor, and the mutual blessing (Jupiter) to be derived therefrom. The displacement of the 2 ♣ inclines these people to business, preferably in association. Two always involves union, agreements, dickering, discussing, and exchanging ideas. There is always much detail connected with their work—papers, messages, records, and data—and among the very successful, when struggle has become a thing of the past, there is danger of getting into a rut of routine or static prosperity because of the two 6's at the end of the Sequence. These people are meant to be indefatigably progressive, and they must take care that they live up to the expectation. When they detect any signs of over-contentment or self-satisfaction, they should give themselves a swift prod and a strong "shot" in the name of progress. The Club symbol, it must be remembered, is the upward-pointing clover.

As a rule, both sexes are keen in learning and quick thinkers. The women, however, are often guilty of scattering their forces because of emotional disturbance or family problems. They succeed best if happily married, and can be of great help to their husbands by furnishing workable ideas or by active participation in the mental angles of their business. Both sexes are strong for family ties; they make excellent parents and will make sacrifices to provide their children with a good education.

Even the careless and negative among them have keen intelligence and insight, although they often waste themselves in idle curiosity instead of a quest for knowledge that counts, and therefore never attain the high place of power that is theirs by right. It is these Kings collectively, however, that lead us to a knowledge of the why and wherefore of our being. They are the Knowers.

Planetary Sequence for the K ♠

Mercury Card. A gift for fluent writing and J ♦ talking, and the ability to make money through their own efforts. In the early years, especially, there is considerable emphasis on money and a desire for enough of it to acquire plenty of information as a foundation for the future. Restless and inquiring. Become impatient if things move slowly. Often meet with irritable people or situations in childhood.

Venus Card. Love of friends and family 4 ♥ brings contentment. Want marriage and are more successful when they marry fairly young. Want their friends around them, and will be nervous and restless if this is denied. Very hospitable. Often influenced by spiritual circles or groups, and feel that they gain much by contact with unseen forces. Many of them seek "development" and become mediums.

Mars Card. Rarely lack money and can usually make it themselves. Are not greedy or avaricious, but want the security of substance. If in business, will be constantly making changes or travel in behalf of it. Interested in selling property, dealing in stocks and bonds. Make excellent lawyers—especially for corporations—and trustees for estates. Are willing to work hard, but want their own part in it to be varied and progressive. Dislike routine and detail.

Jupiter Card. This card is especially notable 2 ♠ since it is the one that is displaced by the Birth Card. Partnerships are the keynote for success. These people should never work alone or make their major decisions without consultation. There may be a tendency to leave too much of the work or responsibility to the partner and rest on their own oars. Should avoid laziness and drifting. Whatever is established—for good or ill—will remain for a long period of time.

Saturn Card. Have power in overcoming dis-ease, and recuperate quickly if it attacks them. Are well cared for when sick. Make good healers, psychic investigators, drugless practitioners, etc.

THE CARDS

Fine physicians in any line, but should avoid surgery. May have to learn that misdirected love or unbridled emotions can be the cause of failure.

Uranus Card. If the intuition is cultivated, 6 ♣ they will have sure guidance; can also make useful their gift of prophecy. Should avoid the tendency to become lazy. Although highly intelligent, sometimes fail to understand and use the spiritual power that is available for them. Must keep on investigating and learning.

Neptune Card. Salvation for these people lies 6 ♣ in recognition of their spiritual law and adherence to it. They always know they must face it, but they sometimes try to run away from it. Like travel, but are usually found at home; satisfy the urge by reading about it. Life may move slowly in the later years but is always protected. Unless they become escapists, may be assured of security and comfort. The only disappointment they are subject to is in themselves; they could have become greater than they are.

Challenge for the K ♣:

CARELESSNESS: FRIVOLITY

January 27. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

It is the exception when these natives do not realize that they are forerunners of the New Age and have a job to do for it. If on a lower rung of the ladder, will embrace some "progressive" cult or movement where others do their thinking for them—often mistakenly. Always want to champion the underdog. Successful politicians, labor leaders, businessmen. May be very gifted in music or acting.

February 25. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

Healers and teachers—often mystics. Many priests or nuns in this birthdate.

Want peace and spiritual assurance; apt to doubt themselves and their power unless they follow a commercial career. Love the sea and long journeys by water. Can succeed brilliantly in music, especially singing. If attracted to the theatre, make better directors or producers than actors. Willing to work behind the scenes. Natural humanitarians; very service-minded. Fine assistants in institutions.

March 23. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

Dynamic and progressive. Less spiritually concerned than many K ♣'s. Like big, successful business; ambitious; can buy or sell anything for big concerns or covering a big field. Popular; free-spenders; make money easily. Get along well with men. Always take an active part. Successful in publishing or compiling information for a wide circulation. If gifted in art, may paint, but usually seek the theatre (or pictures). Clear, scientific minds.

April 21. Aries or Taurus. Ruler: Mars or Venus.

Both are interested in living comfortably. A strong love of home as well as business. If Aries, must guard against selfishness and domination of will; if Taurus, watch out for possessiveness and greed. Usually well content with home and work. Often promoted or exploited. Work well with the ground; naturalists. Always lovers of art, if not performers. If gifted, can succeed in music, painting, or engraving—especially if Taurus. Both signs have writing ability.

May 19. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

More gifted in art, music, and drama than other Taurus birthdate. Very aware of unseen forces and can develop this gift to an extraordinary extent. Versatile in ability. If choose industry, will be meticulous about the rights of employees, but will demand good service in return. Have a fine sense of humor. Easy and friendly people to work with. Philanthropic. Make good educators, judges, philosophical writers.

June 17. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

 More inclined to art and music than many geminians, but are also good writers, teachers, lawyers, interpreters, and statisticians. Know how to commercialize their knowledge. Like to own a large library, but do not care for deep reading; think they know enough already. Interested in metaphysics and psychic phenomena; their approach is more from curiosity than spirituality. The women are often pleasure-loving and opportunists. Restless and changeable.

July 15. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

 In whatever line of work they are, these are very impressive people—and want to be. Have a great respect for public opinion and are careful to preserve their reputation. Will work hard for comfort—and appearances. Are good teachers, counselors, and priests. Good listeners. Can write on philosophical or educational topics; good journalists and commentators. May have musical ability or talent for painting. Are sympathetic, understanding, comforting.

August 13. Leo. Ruler: The Sun.

 Spiritual, intuitive, often psychic. Always leaders in their chosen field. Protective toward others. Inject drama into their work. If not actors (and many are), will be playwrights, dramatic critics, or theatre sponsors. Maintain good balance between mental and emotional nature; too intellectual to be swept off their feet by emotional crises. A karmic birthday number. Life is often more difficult for these people than for many K ♀'s. Are sustained by their unusual spiritual qualities.

September 11. Virgo. Ruler: Mercury.

 Authors, statesmen, and educators predominate in this birthdate. The birthday number produces many poets and creative prose writers. Highly nervous; anxious to know the law and teach it. Unless in the literary field, are drawn to science. Good researchers, statisticians, technicians, economists. Often found as commissioners or directors of local departments—police, charity, etc. Make good “City Fathers.”

October 9. Libra. Ruler: Venus.

 This is an exacting birthdate and often proves to be the downfall of the weaker ones. If bent on serving self instead of humanity (9), they invite failure and seek escape in self-indulgence. Good mixers; want adulation. Good orators and exhorters. Agents and go-betweens, diplomats. Make friends easily. Can be saints or sinners. Must learn emotional balance. Take everything personally. Suffer if thwarted in love. Better writers than artists.

November 7. Scorpio. Ruler: Mars.

 Physicians or metaphysicians. Destined for rulership. Experimenters—in surgery or occultism. Can be black magicians, ruthless, and cruel if undeveloped. Of all K ♀'s are in the most danger of getting off the right track. Know their power too well. Indefatigable diggers for secrets, scientific or occult. Strong views on social and governmental questions—mostly iconoclastic. Apt to believe that the end justifies any means. MUST keep all transactions legitimate.

December 5. Sagittarius. Ruler: Jupiter.

 Nervous, impatient, highstrung, but devoted to loved ones, generous with employees, and charitable toward the underprivileged. Demand personal freedom, but do not impose their authority or lord it over those in their environment. Have a good sense of values; can drive a good bargain. Like changes, travel, and speed. Make good salesmen, writers, talkers. May have dramatic gifts or musical talent. Like to be connected with public life.

KING OF DIAMONDS

Diamonds	— Values
K ♦	— Judgment based on Materialism
13 in ♦	— Occult Understanding of Values

The Venus Card in the Mars Line (Mundane) displaces the 3 ♣ (Natural Spread).

The accepted interpretation of this card is most uncomplimentary, but there are so many glaring exceptions in the conduct of its natives, they should be stressed even more emphatically than the "run of the mill."

K ♦ people are victims of the materialistic trend that has characterized our evolution for hundreds of years. Since we have set money as our goal and standard, what can its custodians do but fight to acquire it; manipulate it, and prove themselves efficient rulers and controllers of it? What, indeed, UNLESS they are in touch with the mighty uranian force that is granted them in their True Place: Jupiter position in the Uranus Line?

As in the case of the majority of Diamond natives, the basic error lies in the definition of Values. If we are born to power, being Kings, we must equip ourselves for rulership—and if power means money, and only that, then money we must get in such abundance that no-one can outstrip us or outdo us. It is no wonder that only a very few accept and work on the principle so clearly defined in the Great Book: "Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit," saith the Lord of Hosts. Those who do are the initiates; the hard-boiled materialism of the typical K ♦ is unknown to them. As politicians, they refuse to accept bribes; as businessmen, they are never ruthless—overriding the little fellow with the little business or exacting from him the grilling bonus or hush-money as the only means of his continuance to function and support his family. As "joiners," they do not use their club or fraternity to feather their own nests. As corporation heads they do not contrive and connive to get control of the stock and to proclaim a freeze-out of their fellow directors.

When not operating strictly on the negative side, they are successful business people who must always watch out for the tendency to grab the surplus, but who are willing to take gamblers' chances because they can afford to lose—but seldom do. They are never in inferior positions; they always have ample funds at their disposal, or backers who will come to their rescue. They are always kingpins and top dogs.

The women are more undecided, but always positive in action; they have the troublesome Q ♦ to handle, and unless they keep their personalities out of all business dealings, they will meet with emotional disappointment and frustration.

Positively, the K ♦'s are endowed with wisdom and occult power. They may appear cold and hard—but at heart they are strictly just and inclined to philanthropy; much depends upon the birth Sign and Number. With true spiritual development, the negative traits may never manifest. They all have the power of accumulation and control.

Planetary Sequence for the K ♦

Mercury Card. In youth, conditions are usually protected and secure. The restless birthdates are inclined to rebellion against monotony and imposition of discipline. Ambition develops early, but they wait for the right opportunity before exerting themselves. Often make friends that last throughout life. Believe in acquiring grades, diplomas, and degrees that will add to their prestige later on.

Venus Card. Good mixers with a friendly approach. They prefer people of intelligence for close associates—mainly because they believe that good brains are a passport to success. They improve their own minds in order to make a good impression. Inclined to marry those who have a position of security or wealth. The men, while building their business, expect their wives to work—but want them to shine as well.

Mars Card. Choose those with money as co-workers or partners, but insist upon keeping the controlling interest for themselves. Often interested in a business based on correspondence or mail order. If they become involved in mining, are apt to work through an agent. Seek opinions of others but always make their own decisions. Can always secure themselves through good business judgment, quick wit, or clever manipulation.

Jupiter Card. Seek association with people who are younger, good workers and willing to take orders. Believe in new blood for keeping business active. Will not keep any employee who does not make money for them. Hard task-masters.

Saturn Card. Under this influence, are given the opportunity for constructive self-development. Can overcome all obstacles through understanding. Should use caution when indulging in speculative ventures. Are poor losers; financial disappointment affects the health. In case of illness, have ample funds and good care. If Saturn is well aspected in the horoscope, can accomplish self-development easily; if not, will have to work for it. If they succeed in making friends with their Saturn, he will assist them to promote their ideals and reap the benefits.

Uranus Card. Should be sure of objectives in business. Whatever situation they build up will endure for a long period of time; cannot successfully make frequent changes in any chosen occupation. Their work will be subject to ups and downs until restlessness is conquered and a single course adhered to. Dislike paying out money for help that does not contribute to increasing income. Although they mean to be just, will often haggle over wages that are fair for both sides. Love a bargain.

Neptune Card. Like travel and profit by it—especially if their work is in the mental field or is aided by intelligent ideas for progress and promotion. Seldom retire from business until late in life, but are contented in their environment and security. Learn much by observation, especially in contact with foreigners and foreign countries. Like to live near the water.

Challenge for the K ♦ :

DENIAL OF THE POWER OF LOVE

January 14. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn.

For these people, money is EVERYTHING. Their ambition for place, power, and material assets is boundless. Restless and unconcentrated, they seek one avenue after another to attain their objectives. Are primarily attracted to banking or large financial projects, but will also seek government posts for the prestige and salary. Make fearless officers and fighters in the armed forces. Dramatic; will seek the stage if it offers inducement.

February 12. Aquarius. Ruler: Uranus.

The best of all dates for the K ♦ . Humanitarian and wise; aware of their mission. Novelists, statesmen, producers, actors, patriots—always philanthropic. Fine orators. Successful as arbitrators, personnel workers, advertisers, or agents. Usually make a valuable contribution to progress and improvement. Creative; unorthodox.

March 10. Pisces. Ruler: Neptune.

More honest and conscientious than many K ♦ 's. Are ambitious and money-minded, but will not resort to trickery to gain their ends. Often talented in music, painting, or acting. Can write poetry, mysteries, or psychological fiction. If in business, prefer to own their own. Can deal successfully in perfumes, drugs, or any liquids. Like travel, especially by sea. Acquire their learning from absorption, not books.

April 8. Aries. Ruler: Mars.

Good promoters and exploiters—of themselves or others. Good lawyers and bargainers. Always have an eye for profit. Dislike hard or routine work. Can act as brains behind another's business. Set things in motion and then turn them over to others until time to divide the profits. If in the theatre, will do something original and distinctive. Work well in association, but refuse to be dictated to. Are specialists in their field.

May 6. Taurus. Ruler: Venus.

The most emotional of the K ♀'s. Family ties and love of home strong. Usually hospitable and friendly, but very set in ways and inclined to domination. Excellent actors. Always mental in any line of work. Many have beautiful voices. Creative ability sometimes expressed in poetry or musical prose. The less personally ambitious are concerned with national, social, or civic improvement.

June 4. Gemini. Ruler: Mercury.

Clever opportunists. Know all the tricks of brain and personality to achieve their ends with but little effort. The failures are due to laziness and unwillingness to use what they know. Succeed in selling or buying, as lawyers, stock brokers, or realtors. Good gamblers, good company; take everything in their stride and refuse to be downed.

July 2. Cancer. Ruler: The Moon.

Concerned with education, philosophy, history, and naturalism. Make good preachers—of the Calvinistic type. May be sincerely interested in humanity. Good teachers or leaders of large groups. Want a position of authority, but have many friends and admirers. Want money for personal comfort. The men want women with a good earning capacity. Not an easy date for women.

KING OF SPADES

Spades	— Labor, Wisdom
K ♠	— The Highest Initiate
13 in ♠	— High Spiritual Voltage in Practical Application

The End Card in the Crown Line (both Mundane and Natural Spread). No displacement—a Fixed Card.

The K ♠ is the "highest" of all the cards, yet it produces many mediocre people and quite a few failures. A few hundred years from now that will probably not be the case; we shall have learned better how to handle "high spiritual voltage," what sort of obligation we are under when entrusted with a mission, and just what it means to become an initiate.

Some of these people are big enough to meet their opportunities and make the grade. Through suffering and the hard road to wisdom, they have taken their degrees up to the final one: Rulership. They have power because they have earned it, but they are too wise in humility to flaunt or abuse it. Because they don't talk about it, they are called secretive; because they don't brag about it, it is often not recognized; and because they are preachers and teachers of the great truths of resurrection, rebirth, and eternal life, they are called fanatics or crackpots.

When these Spades have actually reached the King stage, it matters not at all to them what they are called or how they are treated. The K ♦ has no alternate; he is fixed and immovable, displacing nothing but himself, free to move to any Line or Position in the Spread for more effective operation, and never separated from his great wisdom or high crown.

He knows the Law, for he is the embodiment of all the laws. He is misunderstood because he is dealing with things of which the majority are as yet ignorant.

In the Natural Order, he comes directly to the A ♥—a desire for love; but since this card is displaced by the 3 ♥ in the Mundane Spread, his emotional life will be disturbed by uncertainty in relationships and unreliability in his closest association.

These people are seldom successful in marriage because of this emotional conflict, always disturbing to the required regulation of the mental attitudes. If marriage is not entered into early in life, there is likely to be no marriage at all, but rather an increase in the population of nunneries, monasteries, ashrams, or other types of holy or secret orders. A cloistered life is often voluntarily chosen as one of the disciplines of personal denial or the advantages of spiritual refuge.

Many remain in the world and very much of it. They are personally ambitious, self-protective, capable of living and enjoying life to the fullest—like other kings or commoners. They may not go far in terms of their high calling, but they manage to leave an imprint in their chosen line and seldom sink to lowness or meanness or deliberate evil.

When we meet a real teacher whose birthdate is January 1st (the only date that is ruled by this card), we shall be wise, indeed, if we sit at his feet and get all the instruction he is willing to give us. We are on holy ground.

Planetary Sequence for the K ♦

Mercury Card. The K ♦ is a natural physician, spiritual descendant of the biblical Luke. In early life, this idea of a career as healer is often uppermost, but indecision in regard to a definite choice brings delay in getting established. Family support is not to be counted on, although there may be affection and a sincere desire to understand these unaccountable children. They are thrown back upon themselves.

Venus Card. There is a strong desire for knowledge. They learn most readily in association with others and even prefer to do their studying in groups. Lasting friendships are established with people of intelligence and a thirst for knowledge. Business is seldom as attractive as a professional career, and the choice is usually for a specialty. They desire to stand well with others, but are easily bored with ignorance and stupidity.

Mars Card. A mental and intuitive woman Q ♣ will play an important part in the life—more as a companion than as a mate. Ideas will be exchanged, but not necessarily accepted, for these people have fixed ideas of their own. Activity and initiative are subjected to a test from mind-plus-intuition.

Jupiter Card. If a business career is chosen, 10 ♠ it will be successful. Security may be built up by this means, and freedom to pursue a course more in line with their mission may be enjoyed later in life. Friends are important and helpful in any selected line of work. They can always be counted on for money or cooperation.

Saturn Card. This is a card of discontent—5 ♣ usually indicating dissatisfaction with themselves. It often provides a drive, however, for increased effort and initiative. If in the healing field, are skillful in treating the mentally sick through the power of suggestion. Are always potential mental healers, hypnotists, and psychiatrists.

Uranus Card. Are never quite sure that they 3 ♦ have chosen the type of work that is best for them. Apt to have a sense of insecurity about money earned. Are actually protected, but the insecurity remains and is often a grave interference in their work. Although they should be, are not always certain about their intuitions. Interested in labor problems and want to help, but are not sure that either side is in the right. Their wealth of knowledge is often a handicap and interferes with judgment.

Neptune Card. Inherently mystics—but may A ♠ not be aware of it. Have come to give individual instruction to those ready. Can only start a group and then leave them to themselves. In the latter days are primarily concerned with their own souls. Like travel but do not always benefit.

Challenge for the K ♠:

SELF-DISTRUST

Birthdate Ruled by the K ♠

January 1. Capricorn. Ruler: Saturn. 5 3
Successful in business. Can control 7 groups—especially workers. Never in an inferior position. Ardent patriots; fine government officials. Can write, paint, or act.

THE JOKER

The WISDOM of GOD is FOLLY
MEN

This beautiful card, the highest card, the highest in the Tarot pack, is taken from the version used by Paul Foster Case. Were it not for the deep esoteric meaning behind the "Joker" of our playing cards, the foolish little fellow at the bottom of the page would seem to have not the slightest relation to the "Fool" of the Tarot.

The initiate-teachers of old deliberately concealed much of their priceless wisdom from the "profane" by words or pictures which conveyed opposite or distorted meanings to all but the serious students who, by meditation and visual impression, could see behind the veil and discover the truth.

The Fool of the Tarot is the pictorial statement of the One Force, the NO THING (0) yet Everything to all men—Eternal Energy, boundless, measureless, and infinite. It is all seasons, all forms, and all activities.

The Fool of the Little Book is, for some players, the "highest trump"; for the majority it is discarded and forgotten. It is, however, included as the "0" page, for its inescapable symbolism represents the complete motion of the earth about the Sun and is the sole accountant for the "remnant of days" in our solar year. (See page 1). It, too, is all seasons; it is the 4 quarters of the earth—the 4 Suits, therefore all Cards and all birthdates—"all things to all men."

As a single card, it rules but one birthdate, December 31st, the first decanate of Capricorn, ruled by Saturn. Its natives are indeed "all things to all men."

The "Joker" natives are a law unto themselves. They belong in the "Crown Line" as much as do the other three. The wise ones choose their own birthdays. They can choose to operate as the K ♣ or the A ♥—in the Plan, not the Mundane Spread. It is impossible to analyze them; they hold the key to themselves—and guard it.

FOREWORD TO THE SUPPLEMENT

READING THE YEARLY PROGRESSIONS

FLORENCE CAMPBELL AND Edith Randall believed that it was most important to learn, digest and experiment with the meaning of the Signs, Symbols and Cards before advancing into the progression cycles.

Both are included in this new edition and are the only original version written by the Authors. For the first time, this privileged material, used only for students in their classes, is presented to you in one volume.

This Supplement is a blueprint that takes us through each stage of development and growth in life, and an explanation of various high and low periods. When we learn to handle ourselves through these cycles perhaps we will unravel some of the mysteries of life itself.

As a student, I had the great privilege of sharing this knowledge with Edith Randall. It has been an invaluable aid in every phase of my work in the cards as well as Astrology and Numerology.

I am forever grateful to June Rogers, Edith's closest friend, for her generosity in publishing this volume to perpetuate the work of the Authors.

READING THE YEARLY PROGRESSIONS

In reading the yearly spreads follow the same pattern given in the text book under the planetary sequences for each of the cards. This sequence is based on the mundane or number one spread. Note that this planetary sequence consists of the seven cards that follow the cards in question. The cards are read from right to left of the page and down.

In reading a spread the first step will be to analyze the first card following the one in question. This is the Mercury position and shows things of a Mercurial nature. It also may show the quality of the first fifty-two days of the year. The next year is divided into seven periods, having fifty-two days each. So the next period which is the Venus portion of the chart covers the second section of fifty-two days. Mars through Neptune the third through the seventh period.

To illustrate we will use the 5 of diamonds in the fifty-second spread. This would be for a 5 of diamonds who is 51 years old. When you have had your birthday, you have actually completed that number of years. So even though the subject may be 51 years old, they are actually working on the 52nd year. So to get a reading for the present year for our 51 year old we will read the 52nd spread. We begin by reading the first card to the right of the 5 of diamonds, which is the 7 of spades. Note that it is in the Mercury position to the 5 of diamonds. Each rectangle has been marked with the planetary position in relation to the 5 of diamonds.

Next, you'll find that the king of clubs is in the Venus position. Then drop one line and go back to the right side of the chart and find that the 2 of spades is in the Mars position. This is followed by a 9 of hearts in the Jupiter position. The 3 of diamonds in the Saturn position, Jack of hearts in the Uranus position, and 5 of spades in the Neptune position. The preceding is the pattern to keep in mind whenever reading the cards in relationship to each other. There is always a planetary relationship to consider. Interpretation of these cards and relationships is found in the text book on the following pages.

MERCURY.....	7 of spades.....	page 127; under 9 of diamonds
VENUS.....	King of clubs.....	page 105; under 7 of spades
MARS.....	2 of spades.....	page 153; under Jack of diamonds
JUPITER.....	9 of hearts.....	page 165; under Queen of diamonds
SATURN.....	3 of diamonds.....	page 43; under 3 of hearts
URANUS.....	Jack of hearts.....	page 71; under 5 of clubs
NEPTUNE.....	King of Spades.....	page 39; under 2 of spades

With time and experience you will eventually be able to read your own progressions, if you use the key words of — first, the number of the card; then the key word for the suit, and coordinate them in your own words with the planetary position involved. This is the real secret to interpretations of the cards.

BIRTH CARD CYCLE-GRAPHS

IN PERIODS OF 7 years each, these Cycles cover the years 1-90. The First Cycle, years 1-7, is the original planetary pattern.

Like the natal chart in astrology or the primary mathematical results of the numberscope, this pattern prevails throughout life—the individual plan that results from the 1st quadrature. We never depart from this plan but we “progress” on tangents that derive from it. For the first 7 years there is no progressed plan.

The subsequent Cycles are derived from quadrations, in their order. For example: the 2nd quadrature covers the period from 7 to 14 years, the 3rd from 14 to 21, etc.—up to the 13th Cycle, which brings us to the 90th year. As one Cycle closes and a new one starts, both cards should be read, the one you have reached and the new one you are going toward—for the first year of the new Cycle. The first, or Mercury, card of each Cycle gives the key or governor for that year. While all the cards on the line should be read as a combined influence for the specific period, the cards in their order bring special emphasis to the years in their order. In other words, the Mercury Card of each Cycle colors the first year of its duration, the Venus Card the second year, the Mars Card the third year, etc.

The 8th Card in each Cycle is the Challenge Card; the 9th is the Result of meeting and working out that Challenge. These two Cards should always be read in connection with the original Challenge and Result as found in the birth pattern.

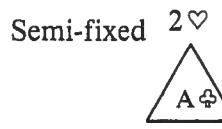

Except in the case of the Fixed and Semi-fixed Cards, we are always working with a triangle: the Birth Card, its Displacement Card and the Card that displaces the Birth Card. Note the Displaced Cards in each Cycle (see Tables in the textbook). Study the corresponding Cycle of the Personality Card: the Queen for a woman, the Jack or King for a man.
